Tax Bill Now In Hands Of Coolidge

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The tax bill today came back to President Coolidge from the treasury where an exhaustive study of its probable effect on the nation's revenues was made at his request and now awaits final action.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Budget Director Lord brought the bill to Mr. Coolidge and discussed it at great length with him.

No indication was given following the conference when the bill would be acted on, but it is believed there would be no great delay.

L. A. WOMAN PERILED BY STRAY SHOT

Narrowly missing Mrs. I. V. Sullivan of Los Angeles, a bullet fired by an unidentified person from the side of Los Angeles street, Anaheim, yesterday afternoon pierced the Sullivan sedan, according to a report made to the police at Anaheim.

In the car were Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and baby. The car was proceeding northeast when the bullet crashed through the car, Sullivan said. The bullet missed Mrs. Sullivan's head by only a few inches.

Police said they would investigate a report that drunken Mexicans carousing at a neighborhood rendezvous had fired the shot. No arrest had been made up until noon.

FLEEING BANK CLERK ELUDES POLICE NET

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—While detectives continued their search for Dale Rowan, absconding bank teller, who fled a week ago today with $47,200 of funds belonging to the Bank of Italy here, local police sought another woman said to figure in many of the eternal triangles drawn by the teller.

"Mickey" Bent, reported to have quarreled with Rowan over a hospital bill and to have threatened him with exposure of his alleged bootlegging activities, can, if she is found, furnish valuable information as to Rowan's activities prior to the defalcation and possibly aid in establishing his present whereabouts, police believe.

A second woman, known as Georgia Martin, red haired and beautiful, is believed to be with Rowan. Search for the pair centered yesterday in the vicinity of Monterey and Salinas.

Meanwhile Mrs. Rowan, preparing suit for divorce in Los Angeles, voices the belief that her husband's break was the result of a craving for adventue.

"We married too young," the young wife said. "Dale had to have his fling."

"30" BULLETINS

BELMONT PARK, New York, May 31.—Mad Play, the Rancocas stable colt, well ridden by Earl Sande, won the suburban handicap today. Little Celt, Rawls Up, was second, and the lightly weighted Agakhan, third.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Lieutenant Maughan, who has twice failed to span the continent by airplane from dawn to dark, will make another attempt about June 21, air service officials said today.

Court Holds Chicken Owner Has Right to Kill Marauding Snake

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—When a citizen, perfectly sober, enters his chicken coop and finds a 15-foot python curled up on the floor asleep and ten of his best hens showing through the snake's midsection, he has a perfect right to shoot to kill.

Thus ruled Justice Blake today, freeing Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Landores, of Culver City, defendants in a suit for damages brought by the owner of a studio menagerie.

Mrs. Landores testified when she went to feed the chickens, she found the chickens had fed the snake, which was curled up in a gluttonous stupor on the floor.

She screamed, and Landores came rushing to the rescue with a shotgun. In another moment the huge python was doing a death wriggle.

The reptile's owner said the Landores were too hasty—the snake, named "Honey" because of its affectionate nature, was quite tame and domesticated.

Fullerton Paper's Story Alleging Officer's Flight Slander Case Crux

A recent newspaper story said to have graphically pictured George Annin, Fullerton police officer, as fleeing in terror from an irate citizen, was provided with a sequel today when Annin filed suit in the superior court here, alleging slander and asking $30,000 damages.

The Fullerton Daily News and its editor, Redge S. Smith, were named defendants in the action, which was brought through Attorney James L. Allen, in association with Attorney James L. Davis, both of Santa Ana.

Said to have followed a long period of discord between the Fullerton newspaper and the police department of that city, publication of the article regarding the officer exploded the feud into open legal warfare, with both sides said to be preparing for a "finish fight."

Fabrication Alleged.

In his suit, Officer Annin characterized the newspaper article as a malicious attack, aimed at discrediting him, and based upon pure fabrication.

The newspaper, it was said, was making ready to stand by its guns.

The article in question was said to have appeared in the Fullerton News of May 26 and related to a purported episode which the police department claims did not occur.

According to the newspaper description, as reproduced in the complaint filed by Annin, Police Officer Jake Deist was "floored" when he attempted to arrest Joe Carrizosa, a motorist, for speeding, and Officer Annin was pictured as taking refuge in hasty and undignified flight.

Backed by Marshal.

Annin's complaint charges that the newspaper published the story "actuated by malice and unfair motives and with the intent to injuring the plaintiff and to deprive him of the confidence of the citizens of Orange county and the city of Fullerton." He asks for $30,000 for alleged slander and $10,000 exemplary or punitive damages.

Following publication of the story, a statement was issued by Art Eells, city marshal at Fullerton, branding the article as false. Eells declared that Annin was not on duty at the time and was not present. There was no altercation between Deist and Carrizosa, according to Eells, the incident consisting merely of a word of caution given by Deist to the motorist.

The newspaper, however, is understood to be insisting that its published version is true and will be proved true when the case comes to trial.

Declares Fighter Insane From Blows

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Blows rained on the head of William Melody, a professional pugilist, rendered him partially insane, Superior Court Judge Guerin ruled today, indicating that the fighter will be sent to a state hospital.

Melody, formerly well known in fistic circles, came here some weeks ago. With his ring career ended, and mentally weakened by reason of many contests in the squared circle he attempted a series of oil station holdups, but was captured on his second attempt.

Doctor in Death Case to Appeal

HUTCHINSON, Kans., May 31.—Appeal to a higher court was planned today by Attorneys for Dr. Ken B. Uhls, found guilty by a jury of second degree murder in connection with the death of W. E. Gibbs, owner of stock in a sanitarium operated by the physician. The verdict carries a minimum of ten years imprisonment.

SUSPECT SUICIDE

MONROVIA, May 31.—Fred W. Danker, 21, who came here from New York City to regain his health following excessive study at college, was dead today from a heart wound reported to have been self-inflicted by a long pair of wall paper shears.

Vote Bishop Guilty Of Heresy

CLEVELAND, O., May 31.—Guilty of heresy.

This verdict was returned today against Bishop William Montgomery Brown of Galion, Ohio, by the tribunal of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church.

The venerable prelate strained forward to catch every syllable of the verdict, his face tense, his mouth set as that of a martyr dying for his faith.

Then a grim smile lit up his face. His steel blue eyes gleamed.

"I am not through. I will knock at every door in the land to get justice. This will be the last heresy trial," he said.

Joseph Sharts, Brown's counsel, said he would appeal the case to the board of reviews. Sentence probably will be deferred until after such an appeal.

Pilgrims Find Welcome Oasis After Dusty Journey; Seattle Delegates Arrive.

KANSAS CITY, MO., May 31.—Sighting an oasis after long journeys across the desert, Shrine pilgrims began arriving today in Kansas City, converted into a huge mosque. Streets were draped in Oriental colors and Shrine emblems. Huge "Welcome Nobles" signs hung from every building. All Kansas City was prepared to extend welcoming hands, serve refreshment and furnish entertainment for the visitors.

ADMITS BRIDE TAKEN FOR PASSPORT

(By United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, May 31.—David C. Kerr, American vice counsel at Vancouver, B. C., admitted he had accepted money to influence his decision in granting passports to barred Chinese seeking admission into this country, it was brought out in the preliminary hearing before a United States commissioner here today.

A written confession by Kerr to Consul General Norton, that he was "hard up" for funds and had accepted bribes in some cases, was introduced in evidence.

J. Fred Ganders, who said he was a notary public, but who, evidence showed, was acting in the capacity of a labor agent, testified that he gave Kerr $50 at a secret meeting in a Vancouver Chinese cafe to get Kerr to issue passports to Chinn Jan Yuen who was inadmissable.

Kerr was released on $5,000 bond pending a grand jury investigation of his case. He was arrested Thursday on charges of bribery and malfeasance in office, preferred by Consul General Norton.

Court Will Speed Up Liquor Cases

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Bootleggers, confessed or otherwise, are to be given "police court" services in federal court in the future, Federal Judge Frank Kerrigan announced here.

Judge Kerrigan intends that liquor cases shall cease to clog the court calendars, and liquor law violators arrested one day are to know by noon the next what their sentence is to be, he said.

University Head To Name Coolidge

KILL BOY IN SEARCH FOR ADVENTURE.

Sons of Millionaire Chicago Families Confess Kidnap Slaying

(By United Press Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, May 31. — Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of millionaire Chicago families and both law students at the University of Chicago, confessed today kidnaping and murdering Robert Franks, 14-year-old school boy. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe announced the two had admitted the crime.

"We killed Robert Franks for the spirit of adventure," the wealthy college students confessed.

The crime, they admitted, was plotted more than nine months ago and all details were carefully planned to avoid detection.

"Ripping Adventure."

"We had been reading of kidnaping adventures and demands for ransom," Leopold told authorities in explaining the crime. "We had all the money we needed, of course, but we thought it would be a ripping good adventure to kidnap some youngster and try to get some money for it.

"At first we didn't plan the murder but we decided it would be playing safe to put our victim out of the way.

"We bought all the equipment we needed and then our next task was to select the victim. We wanted to get some boy whose father had plenty of money. We decided to look around the Harvard school where all the students were wealthy. We selected Robert as our victim."

Leopold then recited the details of the kidnaping and the slaying of the youth, showing the remarkable plans they had laid.

"We rented an automobile and went to the Harvard school just as the boys were coming out. We called Robert and invited him to take a ride. That part was easy.

Hit With Chisel.

"When we got him in the car we hit him over the head with a chisel we had prepared. It was wrapped in tape so that it wouldn't make a sharp cut in the boy's skull.

"Our next move was to choke our victim. We stuffed rags in his mouth and then gave him some ether which I stole from the chemistry laboratory at college.

"We drove out south to the city limits and carried the boy into a thicket. Here we undressed him, choked him to death and then threw hydrochloric acid on his face. We did this is an attempt to disfigure him so badly that if the body was found it couldn't be identified.

"We buried the shoes and burned the clothing. I think you can find the shoes now if you look."

Leopold admitted it was he who wrote the ransom letter demanding $10,000 of Jacob Franks, the victim's father.

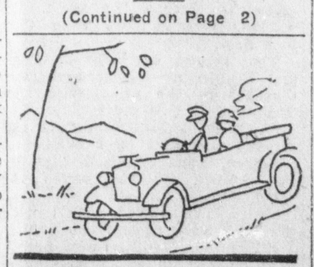

"We thought that was a right smart piece of work," Leopold told police, "but apparently it helped to lead to our downfall."

Clever Detective Work

Capture of Leopold was brought about by three Chicago detectives—William Crot, Frank Johnson and James Courtland. Their work was long and tiresome and for many days they feared they were following poor leads. Today they were praised by State's Attorney Crowe and his staff for one of the most clever pieces of detective work on record.

Aside from the ransom letter, the only clue was a pair of horn

DAUGHERTY FACES SUBPOENA BY SOLONS AS SENSATIONAL CHARGES MADE IN INQUIRY

Witness Declares Ousting of Former Attorney General By President Was Cowardly; Vanderlip Accused of Attempt to Buy Testimony

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, will be subpoenaed to appear before the Senate Investigating committee June 4, to defend himself against the series of charges that have been made against him during the present investigation.

In making the announcement, Chairman Brookhart said that Daugherty must waive immunity or the committee will not hear him.

President Coolidge committed "the most cowardly act a human ever perpetrated when he drove Daugherty from office," Gaston B. Means declared before the investigating committee today.

Gentle As a Woman

"Harry Daugherty was as gentle as a woman and as brave as a lion," he said. "When he was fighting, single handed with his back to the wall, President Coolidge put him out.

"The only cowardly act that I ever saw Daugherty commit was to permit the indictment of Senator Wheeler."

"Didn't you think it unusual when the Japanese handed you the $100,000 in the standard aircraft deal?" Howland asked.

"I've had $1,500,000 handed to me when I was working for the Germans during the war," said Means.

"Did you ask any questions?"

"No, I don't ask questions?" said Means.

Pays Chorus Girl $500

"I handed $500 to a chorus girl that Jess Smith knocked in the head with a bottle and I didn't ask any questions."

"Were you suspicious that Jess Smith was selling the attorney general's influence?"

"I never allow myself to act on suspicion."

The $100,000 transaction, Means said, was the first time he had received money for Smith. He added that he had received amounts ranging from $7,000 to $15,000 at various times between February and August, 1922, when he retired from the department service. Some of the money, he said, was Smith's "split" from the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films, which were illegally transported.

Al Fink of Buffalo, N. Y., charged before the committee that Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, offered him $1,000 to give perjured testimony against President Coolidge before the committee. Wild disorder ensued in the committee room after Fink made his charge.

"Call an officer and throw this man out," Chairman Brookhart yelled at the committee assistants.

"I want to tell how Senator Wheeler had me buy whiskey to get Roxie Stinson drunk," said Fink, who refused to be silenced.

As an officer entered the room, Fink turned and dashed out and quiet was restored.

SENATE TO APPEAL FROM COURT RULING.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—An appeal from the decision of the federal court in Cincinnati granting a writ of habeas corpus to Mal Daugherty will be taken by the government, Chairman Brookhart of the senate investigating committee, said today.

CHINESE GRANT RECOGNITION TO RUSSIA

PEKIN, May 31.—China formally extended recognition to Russia today.

Dr. Wellington Koo, fully authorized to act on behalf of China and M. Karakhan, Soviet envoy, signed the articles of agreement.

Except for some changes whereby Russia grants a number of concessions to China, the preliminary recognition agreement is the same as that signed by former Foreign Minister Wang and Karkhan, which was repudiated by the Chinese cabinet.

Russia agrees to evacuate Mongolia. China agrees never to transfer to any other nation than Russia any property or rights formerly held by Russia, thus protecting concessions of the Chinese Eastern railway.

CHARGES CRUELTY

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Charging cruelty and desertion, a divorce action with Mildred K. Hiatt, the plaintiff, against Orie W. Hiatt, said to be a wealthy Kansas City motor car dealer, was one file here today. The case has been set for trial October 14 next.

BATTLE TO GO LIMIT IS VIEW

Experts Predict Frenchman Will Stay to the End Against Gibbons

BOTH IN PERFECT SHAPE FOR FIGHT

Promoters Speed Up Program When Rain Threatens to Interfere

RINGSIDE, Michigan City, Ind., May 31.—Long before Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul battler, and Georges Carpentier entered the ring here this afternoon for their ten round no-decision battle, the great arena was packed to capacity and hundreds of fans were sitting in the aisles.

Rerpresentatives of Governor Branch of Indiana were at the ringside to prevent violation of the state laws on boxing.

Jack Curley, representing Carpentier, said that all of the approximately 30,000 seats in the arena had been sold. Fear of rain caused the promoters to put on the first of the unadvertised bouts at 1:50 p. m.

Instead of waiting until the scheduled time, 2 o'clock, scores of bleacher seats occupants made a rush from their $5 seats for the $16.50 seats but were driven back by the force of ushers.

Several isolated battles were fought and a number of the bleacherites were put out of the arena.

Many hundreds of women gave a touch of color to the scene.

The first bout was between Mickey Cone, of Kokomo, Ind., and Johnny Crosty of South Chicago. The boys were punching themselves dizzy and the bleachers howled for a knockout.

Danny Kahn and Jack McCarty, 140 pounders from Chicago, wrestled through four rounds and gave way to Jack Kane and Joe Cooper, light weights from Chicago.

During one of the preliminaries when a knockout appeared imminent a sergeant of police called to the referee and said:

"Stop it if it looks like a knockout."

Belief among the thousands gathered for the big fight was that it probably would go the limit of ten rounds.

Carpentier showed a flash of temper this morning when Gibbons failed to appear for the official physical examination. Carpentier was examined and pronounced perfect. He refused to be weighed in without Gibbons and when Gibbons failed to appear he stalked out. Francois Descamps, Carpentier's manager, exploded with wrath and showered the promoters with a volley of French and then he, too, left.

The physicians waited until 10:45, an hour and 45 minutes after the time appointed for the examination and then left without having heard from Gibbons or his manager. The physicians said they would force Gibbons to go through with the examination later.

Check Huge Fires Periling Forests

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31. — Prompt work by fire fighters had resulted today in practically controlling fires which raged in forests and on brush land in eight California counties since early in the week.

Rangers leading forces of men combatting blazes in the forests of Santa Cruz county, near the state redwood park, in Siskiyou county near Yreka, and in Plumas county reported that despite lack of water and dry timber, further danger for the time being has been averted.

Brush fires in Napa, El Dorado, Butte, Humboldt and Placer all have been checked.

Portuguese Plane Is Safe in India

LONDON, May 31.—Portuguese flyers who have entered the world air race have arrived at Ambala, 160 miles from Lahore, India, according to a dispatch to the Times from Simla.

HUSBAND, WIFE SUED IN $2000 WAGE 'ROW'

Mrs. Elizabeth Greenhow and her husband, E. B. Greenhow, were defendants today in two superior court actions filed here involving claims aggregating nearly $2000 against their apartment building at Huntington Beach.

One action, brought by George E. Graham, painting contractor, asked judgment for $1096.10 alleged to be due Graham and five of his employes for painting and papering the building. The five employes were M. Carr, George Wilson, Charles Wade, H. Cling and S. Johnson.

The other action was brought by the Hammond Lumber company to foreclose a mechanic's lien of $1930, covering lumber alleged to have been furnished Contractors B. Vedeler, E. L. Harris and George A. Thayer, in building the Greenhow apartments. The contractors were included with the owners as defendants.

The Hammond Lumber company also had on file today a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien of $544.01 against the Dixie oil station property on West Chapman avenue, Orange. The Dixie Gasoline, Inc., and Orange citizens interested in the property, including J. Kogler, Paul Kogler, W. J. Kogler, H. J. Kogler, Dora and Mamie Kogler and Mary McGuire, were made defendants in the action.

The Dixie chain of service stations were involved recently in a criminal charge against John Saxon Porter and other officers of the Dixie company, who were charged with obtaining money under false pretense.

WOMAN'S BEATING CHARGED TO MATE

Showing marks, it was said, of a terrific beating, Mrs. Carmen Sanchez of Stanton today appeared at the district attorney's office here and swore to a complaint charging assault and battery against her husband, Candido Sanchez, and his father, Trobio Sanchez, the latter a resident of Los Angeles.

Candido Sanchez, subsequently, was sentenced in justice court at Stanton to serve six months in the county jail.

Mrs. Sanchez declared she was attacked yesterday and would have been killed, she asserted, had not her young daughter summoned help.

Claiming that she supported herself and was also forced to support her husband much of the time, Mrs. Sanchez said he frequently beat her and attacked her yesterday at the urging of his father, who wanted to separate the couple.

Oppose Proposed S. C. Farm Paper

For the purpose of opposing a proposed move to begin a regional farm bureau paper destined to cover the entire field of farm bureaus in the Southland, A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, and A. E. Brock, publicity manager for the Orange county paper, today were attending a meeting of editors of county papers at Riverside.

"We believe that the new paper would conflict with the progress of the county farm bureau magazines now published without competition," Stanley said.

PAIR ARE DIVORCED; NEVER ASKED SUIT

NEW YORK, May 31.—May a couple be divorced and not know it?

According to Anne Nichols, author of "Abie's Irish Rose," and Henry Duffey, her erstwhile (according to the law) husband, a couple most certainly can.

The law says they are divorced.

They say they are not. They insist the law is wrong and, as far as they know, they are still man and wife.

This peculiar state of affairs became known when Justice Taylor in White Plains, granted Miss Nichols an interlocutory decree of divorce and awarded her the custory of Henry Duffey jr., aged 6.

Mystery surrounded the granting of this decree, which was given after a private hearing in the justice's chambers, with only counsel for Miss Nichols present.

More mystery was added when Miss Nichols and Duffey asserted they never had contemplated divorce proceedings nor had engaged counsel to bring such a suit.

To corroborate their statement, the pair, to all outward appearances still much in love with each other, had luncheon together. Many friends greeted them. A few showed clippings from an afternoon paper announcing the severance of their martial bonds. The pair retorted:

"Divorced? Why, we know nothing about it! Would we be here if there was any truth in the report?"

From the home of her mother in Elmhurst, Miss Nichols later issued the following statement:

"I have never advised my counsel, O'Brien, Malevnisky & Driscoll, to institute any divorce action. Mr. Duffey and I have been separated for the last two years, it is true, but we are the very best of friends."

OPEN DRIVE ON OBSCURED CAR NO. PLATES

Starting today, this week will be devoted to a compaign of education for motorists who have dirty license plates, whose numbers are partly obscured by bumpers or tire racks and whose plates are less than sixteen inches above the ground.

Last night marked the close of the headlight campaign, and dozens of autoists were stopped between 8 and 10 p. m. yesterday by motorcycle officers stationed at the intersection known as Orana at North Main street and Chapman avenue. Accessory stories did a rushing business in the sale of light bulbs of the proper amperage and in adjusting headlights.

But this week's campaign will not prevent persons from being arrested for not complying with the headlight law, motorcycle officers said.

Today, however, the officers have been instructed to use special efforts in enforcing Section 43(b) of the California Vehicle Act which reads:

"Every number plate shall at all times be securely fastened to the vehicle to which it is assigned, so as to prevent the plate from swinging, at a minimum distance of sixteen inches from the ground in a position clearly visible, and shall be maintained free from foreign materials and in a condition to be clearly legible."

If motorists make any objection when ordered by officers to get out of their cars immediately and clean or move their license plates, the guardians of the law have been instructed to issue the offender a citation to see the judge.

$75,000 FRAUD LAID TO MAN BY BROKER

NEW YORK, May 31.—Following positive identification by Samuel Waldman, a cotton broker of Providence, R. I., George Hurbert, who says he is a salesman, was held in $1000 bail on a charge of having defrauded Waldman of $75,000. The alleged swindle is said to have occurred three years ago in a fake broker's office in Miami, Fla. Hurbert was also accused by Postal Inspector Graham of being an internationally known swindler.

The police insist that he is Louis Waxenberg, who has served prison terms in France and this country. They assert that he was one of the Gondorf wire tapping gang and that he once swindled a Scotland Yard detective who came here seeking another criminal.

Hurbert was arrested on a warrant issued in Florida charging grand larceny. Waldman said he met Hurbert in Miami in what he believed was a broker's office. Later, he was informed that it was a pool room. He was allowed to win small bets on several "sure things," then persuaded to wager $75,000 on a single race. When he called around after the race, the brokerage office, the customers and the manager had vanished, leaving only the empty premises.

LAWYER BALKS EXPERTS BY TALENTS

MASON CITY, Ia., May 31.—Urbane L. Barrett, cube-root king of Mason City, does not claim to be a mathematician.

"This is just a hobby of mine," he said at a demonstraton before a large gathering of junior college students as he calmly wrote down 8877 as the cube root of 699,517,622,133. Figure it out yourself.

Mathematicians everywhere he has appeared have blinked their eyes in amazement to witness the rapid calculation methods of Barrett, who is a Mason City attorney by profession, for he mentally computes the cube root of numbers in trillions. This feat has heretofore been considered mathematically impossible.

Short methods have been devised for multiplication, addition and divers other mathematical processes, and calculating machines rapidly are dispensing with the art of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, but so far as the records go no man nor machine has been able to extract the cube root of large numbers by any short and simple method.

Barrett, although the idea has lain dormant in his brain since he discovered the method 20 years ago while milking a cow on the Texas plains, never knew he had anything out of the ordinary until he gave some demonstration before the Armour institute, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Western engineers, the Mathematicians' club of the University of Chicago and the University of Ohio.

To solve problems in cube root by the common methematical method takes a good mathematician 15 to 30 minutes. Barrett does them almost instantly.

"Concentration of the mind and the application of certain fundamental properties of numbers," is Barrett's explanation.

New Department Store Will Open Here on June 15

"Livesey's," a bicycle and sporting goods house operating in this city for many years, today had temporarily suspended business, at 216 East Fuorth street, pending reestablishment of the enterprise in a new locaion. J. E. Livesey jr., and Elmer Preston, owners, have sold their lease on the premises to H. B. Rabb and G. M. Tindall, who will open here June 15 a department store for ready-to-wear clothes for men, women and boys.

Tindall arrived here today from Kokomo, Ind., and his family will follow soon. Rabb has moved his family here from Los Angeles.

ACCUSES WIFE WITH MURDER MOTIVE; SUES

When his wife, he alleges, tried once to murder him by turning on the gas in his bedroom, Louis Zaepfel of Orange, was considerably uneasy, but when she promised not to do it again he quieted his fears.

But when she tried again, he declares, a few days later, he thought it was time to seek new surroundings. So he left his wife, his furniture and even his clothing except what he wore.

All this was alleged nine years later, for today he sued her for divorce and charged her with technical desertion. His complaint, alleging the two attempts to asphyxiate him, was on file in the superior court here. Attorney L. F. Coburn represents the plaintiff.

Zaepfel, a baker residing in Nutwood place, Orange, left his wife in May, 1915, in New York City, after being wed a year. He was forced to work nights, he said, and his wife, being very jealous, suspected he was with other women. This jealously, he alleged, caused her to try to kill him.

Besides the two asserted gas attacks, Mrs. Zaepfel once struck her husband on the head with an iron poker, he complains, and on another occasion, he alleged, assaulted him with a hammer.

$1000 HEART BALM FOR N. J. MISS OF 42

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 31.—Garret Vybel, a painter and decorator of Ridgewood, was ordered by a jury in the Bergen county circuit court here to return to Miss Hilda Dahlin, 42, of Ridgewood the $948.10 which she claims she loaned him to by an engagement ring, an automobile, a couple of lap robes and other "incidentals," during a courtship in which she contended he promised to marry her.

Vybel also was ordered to pay Miss Dahlin $1000 for failure to keep him promise to wed her. She sued for $10,000 damages.

Her testimony was that she loaned Vybel $42 "to buy my engagement ring, $700 to buy an automobile which we were to use when we got married, $65 for automobile robes and $50 for incidentals." She also testified that Vybel introduced her to many of his friends as "my future wife."

She told of having gone to visit her parents in Sweden and upon her return—after a three months' stay—learned that Vybel had married during the interval. Then she determined to get back the money she loaned him and also to sue him for breach of promise.

Early Trial For Naval Embezzler

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Lieutenant Ervine R. Brown, naval paymaster, said to have confessed to absconding from his ship with $112,000 of government funds, was to be placed under guard on a destroyer bound for San Diego, today, to face court martial there.

Brown was captured here April 7 after eluding pursuit for nearly a month. His wife restored to naval authorities more than half the money with which Lieutenant Brown absconded.

University Women In L. A. Session

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Third annual state convention of the American Association of University women was underway here today, with delegates rfom all sections of California in attendance.

Mrs. Frederick Faulkner, of San Francisco, was to report at the morning session on the national convention, from which she recently returned.

Japanese Protest Now With Hughes

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Japanese protest against the new immigration law today was formally presented to Secretary of State Hughes by Japanese Ambassador Hanihara. No comment was made by either and it was indicated at the state department that the text would not be made public for some time.

Some species of rhododendrons which produce perfectly black flowers were recently discovered by an English botanist in Tibet.

RICH BOYS IN CONFESSION OF MURDER

rimmed eye glasses found near the body of the slain youth. Robert never wore glasses, his father told police, and it was at once suspected that they had been dropped by the murderer.

The three detectives went to a large optical house and learned the name of Dr. William Deutsch, an eye specialist, who sent most of his patients to this particular firm.

Dr. Deutsch examined the glasses and said he had prescribed such glasses to three different people. One was Nathan Leopold.

On Right Track

When Leopold stoutly denied he ever wore glasses, but later admitted he once wore glasses like those found near the scene of the murder and said he had lost them "many months ago," the detectives believed they were on the right track. At this point he admitted that he frequented the lonely waste lands where the boy's body was found. He said he was studying nature.

Loeb was then called and the two youths were questioned as to their movements on the day of the slaying. They told a story of going to a public park on the other side of the city and watching for new spring birds. This was followed, they said, by a "wild gin party." They were using Leopold's automobile, they said.

Courtland, Johnson and Crot were about ready to give up this lead and set Leopold and Loeb free when they decided to question Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur. Englund said the Leopold automobile was not taken from the garage on the day of the crime.

Show Nervousness.

Englund's story was told last night. The two boys were again called for questioning. When they were told of Englund's story they became nervous. Their alibi was broken. It was the first time they lost their feeling of confidence.

At 1:30 Corwe came out of the office and told newspapermen a confession would be forthcoming soon. Then followed long hours of grilling. The two youths were questioned again and again on all details of their movements, and finally, shortly after dawn, made complete confessions.

"We were just plumb damned fools," Leopold said. "We thought it was great sport. We thought it would give us a huge thrill.

"Well," and he smiled through beads of perspiration on his face, "we got our thrill but now where are we?"

After giving the two youths their breakfast, officers took them to the scene of the murder to re-enact the crime.

Sons of Millionaires.

Leopold is the son of the millionaire head of the Morris Paper Box company. Loeb's father is vice president of the Sears Roebuck company.

Jacob Franks, father of the victim, was a millionaire manufacturer—once a pawn shop proprietor.

The combined wealth of the families involved was estimated at $25,000,000 today.

Leopold is a scholarly youth, master of 15 languages and for many years a student of perversion in every form. He is the youngest graduate of the University of Chicago. He recently obtained a bachelor of philosophy degree.

Glad Over Capture

"Thank God for that!" Jacob Franks, the murdered boy's father, said when informed the two university students had confessed.

"The perpetrators of this fiendish crime are caught at last and I'm mighty glad. That's all I can say—that's all I should say."

The two youths, both 19, broken down by an all night session of questioning, became calm after they had been to breakfast. They posed for pictures and expressed relief that the burden of their secret had been lifted.

"It's a great relef to get this off our chests," Leopold said.

Police announced they had definitely established the fact that Loeb was the driver of the death car. This, they said, was important, as it is almost certain that the driver was not the one who struck young Franks over the head.

The county grand jury convenes on Monday and charges of first degree murder will be laid against the two youths, Crowe announced. Capital punishment is possible under the Illinois law even though both are under legal age.

Should the murder charges fail, the boys will be charged on counts of kidnaping, Crowe said.

Would Not Believe It

Parents of the two youths refused to make statements when they learned of the confessions. Nathan Leopold sr., would not believe it when told his son had confessed. He made a fast motor trip to the state's attorney's office to get first hand information.

"I am heart broken," he said, when he learned the truth. "I won't say any more than that just now."

The homes of Leopold, Loeb and Franks are all located near together in the aristocratic section of Chicago's south side. The Loeb home is almost across the street from that of Franks.

Young Loeb admitted that he had known Robert Franks for some time.

"Why, I've played tennis with that kid many times," he said.

All three families are prominent socially in south side clubs and have intermingled many times.

Loeb is said to be the youngest graduate of the University of Michigan. He received his A. B. degree when only 17 years old.

2 WOUNDED IN BATTLE OVER RUM CARGO

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—A gun battle over an automobile cargo of liquor early today sent two men to the receiving hospital, one a police officer and the other a civilian.

Detective Lieutenant George A. Ryan is the wounded officer while his victim is Tony Michaels, of San Francisco. Ryan was shot through both hips and Michaels was wounded in the right leg and right arm.

The gun battle, in which more than a dozen bullets were fired, occurred in front of a South Hobart boulevard residence where, it is alleged, Michaels was attempting to deliver a quantity of liquor. The police had been tipped off and were awaiting him.

In Michael's pockets were found currency and several checks signed by wealthy Los Angeles residents. Michaels is said to have told police they were in payment for liquor delivered during the day, portions of a 25-case consignment be brought in from San Francisco.

SLAY WOMAN IN SHRINE; 3 MEN ARRESTED

PATERSON, N. J., May 31.—Three men were held as material witnesses in connection with the murder of Mrs. Marie Safferagge, 53, of 83 Jersey street, Paterson, whose body, brutally hacked and torn, was found in a one-room shack she was erecting at the foot of Pleasantville avenue, West Paterson, as a shrine.

It is said she vowed to build it if one of her two sons who served in France with the American Expeditionary Force, came back from the war unscathed.

One of the men held is her husband, Salvatore Safferagge. The others are Frank Carbone, who has no home, and Angelo Ratino, a milkman of Hillcrest avenue, Paterson.

The body was discovered by Peter Turco, 10 years old, who lives directly opposite the shack. It showed signs of having been cut with a stilletto, according to the police, and the disordered room showed there had apparently been a violent struggle before the woman was overcome by her assailant.

Police are of the opinion that Mrs. Safferagge was slain for her money because she went every day before she began work on the shrine, to collect money from neighbors and strangers to carry on the work.

Police have stated that Safferagge and Carbone were seen near or inside the shack. Ratino, the milkman, is alleged to have stopped there earlier in the day while on his milk route.

POLICEMAN HIT BY SHOT FROM OWN GUN

NEW YORK, May 31.—Patrolman Heffernan, who lives at 2535 Millwood avenue, Ridgewood, had a shattered finger as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by his own gun.

He was firing a second shot at a fleeing robbery suspect in Fifth avenue, near Twenty-first street, when someone on the crowded thoroughfare pushed against him and caused the mishap.

The fleeing man, captured a block away by Patrolman La Bau, described himself as Frank Proto, 180 Pearl street, Brooklyn. After being attended at New York hospital for a superficial gunshot wound in the right thigh he was taken to the East Twenty-second street station and locked up on a charge of larceny. He is alleged to have taken four packages from a delivery wagon.

Fifth avenue at the time was crowded with shoppers and office workers. Much excitement accompanied the firing of the shots. After Proto's capture it was necessary to send in a call for more police to prevent the enraged crowd from doing him bodily harm.

KING GEORGE FIGHTS SNOBS FOR LABORITE

LONDON, May 31.—While Edinburgh society is threatening to boycott Holyrood palace during the residence there of James Brown, the miner M. P. recently appointed lord high commissioner of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, King George was disclosed as a supporter of Brown and his shopgirl wife. The Duke of Atholl, who has been Brown's supporter against the snobs of Scotland, returned to London today and stated that the king instructed that the palace be put in the best condition and that the necessary furnishings be provided to make the palace a fitting place for entertaining, and that equipment for the state coach be provided.

BOY, 11 YEARS OLD, EDITS NEWSPAPER

DENVER, May 31.—Kenneth Webster Heron, 11 years old, believed to be America's youngest successful newspaper editor and publisher, visited Denver. He arrived from his home at Chama, N. M., where he publishes the only English language paper, the Chama News, a weekly.

And Kenneth's first point of interest in Denver was the Post. Accompanied by an aunt he made a trip through the plant of the paper from top to bottom, absorbing every detail in the various departments with avidity and intelligent observation characteristic of a true newspaper man.

"Considerably larger than my plant," he said after the tour of inspection, "but not a darn bit busier than mine on the day of publication.

"Of course you folks get out a bigger paper, so, naturally, you have to have a larger plant. My paper is one sheet, eight by twelve inches. When news is heavy and advertising business is good I sometimes have to print on both sides. At other times I print just one page."

Kenneth, a keen-eyed, manly appearing chap, started publication of his paper March 31, 1922, because, he said, "the other papers in the country were printed in Spanish, and I thought we ought to have an English paper just to let people know we lived in the United States."

He derives a net income of about $5 to $6 a week from his publication, sometimes more when the advertisers boost their space demand, he says. In a town of 500 inhabitants, many of whom cannot read English, his paper has a circulation of about 30 each week, in addition to several copies he sends to Colorado and Washington, D. C.

Kenneth writes his own editorials and news items, sets them up in type and runs them off on his job press. He has a sister, Ruth, 8 years old, and a brother, Bob, 9. Ruth feels no urge to be a newspaper "man," he says, but Bob helps out at times by bringing in advertising copy. Other than that, Kenneth asserts, the Chama News is a one-man institution.

Editorially, the News is "dry and independent," he publisher says, but he admits a leaning toward the Republican party. However, he hastens to add, that doesn't affect the policy of his paper.

He is in the sixth grade at school, but finds time to publish his paper and never has missed an issue since it started. His father, Kenneth A. Herron, is a civil engineer. The boy was born at Valier, Mont., and lived in Oregon just prior to going to New Mexico six years ago.

He is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Leslie H. Friend, 717 East First avenue, wife of the assistant city engineer.

"I'll send you a copy of my paper," Kenneth said as he left The Post plant. "It isn't as big as yours, but if Chama ever grows to be as big as Denver, the Chama News will be just as big and as fine a paper as The Denver Post.

"You needn't worry about the competition for the next year or two, anyway," he added, his eyes a-twinkle.

$20,000 Loot of Bold Highwaymen

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31.—Three bandits held up two messengers of the Argentine State bank here today and escaped with $20,000.

The Old Timer says—

"Never saw such richness and slip in any other plaster, and I've been in this game nearly twenty years.

These qualities that please the workman mean economy to you, Mr. Homebuilder. Because it works easier the workman covers more yards per day. You are assured of hard, strong walls and ceilings that successfully withstand the wear and tear of occupancy.

Because of its permanence, decorations last longer, repairs are reduced to a minimum and the upkeep cost is practically nothing. You cannot afford to neglect a careful investigation of this plaster before you build.

MOVE TO FIRST NATIONAL BANK SUITES HERE

Many professional men in Santa Ana today had moved or were making preparations for moving early next week to the First National Bank building, according to a statement made by Harry Hanson of the bank, who has direct charge of the leasing of office rooms in the new six story structure on the southwest corner of Fourth and Main streets.

Every room and suite has been leased, Hanson said. While the main floor of the building has not been completed, upper floors have been finished. The elevator will be in operation by Monday.

Lock Pried from Elite Hall Door

While making his rounds at an early hour today, Patrolman W. J. Jinkins noticed the lock had been pried from the door of the Elite hall on East Third street. Investigating further he discovered a badly damaged candy slot machine at the entrance to the skating rink upstairs and a tin can full of nickels, left on a step near the wrecked candy machine.

Officer Jinkins notified the manager of the rink, who took charge of the money.

The first United States immigration law was that enacted March 3, 1875, which prohibited the immigration of aliens who had been convicted of crimes.

REFUTES RUMOR QUARANTINE IS LIFTED

The mountain districts of Orange county are not open to the general public and will not be until authorities are convinced that the foot and mouth disease has been completely and effectively wiped out in Orange county.

A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, thus declared today, refuting published statements, said to have originated in Sacramento, to the effect that quarantine restrictions in California had been lifted.

"The county ordinance adopted here will be kept in effect probably for some weeks," said the horticultural commissioner. "The restrictions will not be lifted until we are certain that the foot and mouth disease has been permanently eliminated from the county.

"Federal officials have not notified me of release of the restricted district in Orange county established by them some weeks ago. That district includes that territory lying between the west county boundary and the Santa Ana river and Southern Pacific line to Los Angeles."

Brock said that he had no official confirmation of published reports that all highways, mountain roads, camp grounds, trout streams, hiking trails and every recreation feature on the Pacific coast had been thrown open.

The report asserted that Arizona still is closed to east-bound traffic from California.

The state department of agriculture has issued the following statement concerning the destruction of animal life since the plague broke out in California:

"Before the epidemic there were in the state 2,085,000 dairy and beef cattle; of these 42,874 were killed, which was slightly over 2 per cent. There were 2,450,000 sheep; 25,660, or 1 per cent were killed. There were 834,000 swine; 19,196, or 2 3-10 per cent were killed. There were 12,000 goats; 476, or a negligible percentage, were killed.

Total livestock subject to the disease numbered 5,469,000 and 88,206 were killed. This was a shade over 1 6-10 per cent; that is, in the proportion of sixteen head out of 1000 for all classes."

Holiday Traffic Cases Net Fines

"Men may come and men may go, but the police court goes on forever," City Recorder W. F. Heathman remarked today, in reporting that his office was open a short time yesterday when four men, arrested for asserted traffic law violations, presented themselves in his court for trial.

The alleged holiday offenders were E. O. Oakley, fined $2 for parking his car between 2 and 5 a. m. in the business district; Herman Silverman, fined $5 for disobeying signals of traffic officer; A. F. Gravaz, discharged after being charged with parking overtime in the two-hour district, and H. A. Bowman, fined $1 for parking his car across painted guide-lines on a downtown street.

Santa Anans were more patriotic and were present at Memorial day exercises yesterday in larger numbers than on any previous local observance of the day, George Huntington, adjutant of Sedgwick post No. 17, G. A. R., declared here today. He added that greater attention was given to display of the colors.

"The spirit of Santa Ana citizens yesterday was fine," Huntington said, "and the splendid manner in which they evidenced their recognition of the occasion was particularly a source of great satisfaction to the veterans.

"The abundance of flowers offered for the decoration of graves of departed comrades of the various patriotic organizations, the numbers in attendance at the exercises at the cemetery and at Birch park, and the general display of flags—all portrayed the public's appreciation of the valiant services rendered the nation by those who have fought for and protected the colors at times of peril.

"It was my observation that there was less frivolity here than in previous years, an indication that our residents are coming more fully to realize the full significance of the day.

Thousands were present at Birch park in the afternoon, when the Memorial day program was presented, with Freeman H. Bloodgood delivering the memorial address.

In addition to community singing, lead by Mrs. A. E. Chapman, the musical numbers included the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Goodbye Sweet Day," sung by a high school girls' quartette composed of the Misses Lorene Croddy, Madaline Moose, Helen Glancy and Molly Mosher, with Miss Margaret Wickes as leader and accompanist, and a solo, "Dropping from the Ranks," by Mrs. Chapman.

In the program at Balboa, conducted by the American Legion, the firing squad was supplied by the Orange county unit of the United States naval reserve.

Members of Calumpit camp No. 26, United Spanish War veterans, and members of the auxiliary went to the cemetery in a body yesterday forenoon and placed permanent markers on each of the sixteen graves of departed members. The graves also were decorated. In the afternoon a large number of the members of each organization attended the exercises at Birch park.

Delay Trial of $3000 Fraud Case

The preliminary hearing of John Scott jr. of La Habra, charged with obtaining money under a false pretense, was postponed from today until Monday at 10 a. m., in Justice J. B. Cox's court. Defense-Attorney Goodwin of Los Angeles, who was recently retained by Scott, asked for more time to prepare his case. District Attorney A. P. Nelson agreed to the delay.

Scott is accused by Fred Van Hagen of Placentia, who claims he loaned Scott $3000 on the promise of a gift of $3000 in stock of a cement company that Scott claimed to be organizing, Van Hagen said. Scott represented, according to Van Hagen, that the company owed him $12,000 and that he owned ten acres of orange grove land at La Habra.

During the last twenty years, Canada's occupied farms have increased by over 200,000 and their acreage 77,000,000.

PLAY BASED ON 'JOSTLING' OF 3 BACHELORS

Suppose you were a middle-aged bachelor, settled in a rut and complacent in your state. Suppose you lived with two other bachelors, likewise settled and equally complacent, in a perfectly organized household that reeked of efficiency with nothing to jar your well-ordered lives.

Then suppose you received a legacy which, with the suddenness of a tornado, jostled you out of your rut and made you see that your "modus vivendi" was entirely wrong. As the psychologist would say, what would be your reaction?

What that legacy was and how it worked in the case of three bachelors will be shown by the Community players in their production of "Three Wise Fools" at the Temple theater on the nights of June 9 to 12.

Tickets will be on sale at the Santa Ana book store Monday. Season ticket-holders may make their reservations Monday and Tuesday, and the seat sale will be open to the general public Wednesday.

YOUTH IN LIQUOR DEALS IS PROBLEM

Police officials at Orange today were considering what they would do with Clyde "Skeet" Dorsten, 18 years old, who, officers allege, has been involved in deals in which intoxicating liquor has played a prominent part, following testimony given in court to the effect that he accompanied J. T. Akinson of Orange to Seal Beach, where the two men were said to have secured a quantity of what Justice of the Peace G. W. Ingle of Orange described as "bootleg booze".

Atkinson pleaded guilty in Ingle's court to a charge of intoxication and was fined $25 and given a ninety day suspended jail sentence. Pending investigation of his case, Dorsten was ordered to report to the court every ten days until the legal course to pursue against him has been determined. No official charge was placed against the boy, but Judge Ingle said that in all probability he would be turned over to the juvenile authorities for possible incarceration in a correctional institution.

Coins with holes in them are to be issued in Norway.

"HANG-OVER COUGHS"

Now is the time to get rid of that stubborn cough which has been "hanging on" all winter. A few doses of the good, reliable FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND will speedily relieve same. Mrs. Sarah Heck, 341 St. Paul St., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I have been wonderfully benefited by FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The first dose stopped my cough. It was a stubborn cough and I had been troubled with it since the first cold spell. Best for coughs and colds. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

LOCAL MEN AT LEGISLATIVE CHANGE MEET

A. M. Stanley, manager of the Orange county farm bureau; A. E. Brock, farm bureau man of Costa Mesa; E. E. Campbell, Orange, director of the bureau; L. F. Coburn, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, and Dr. C. D. Ball, assemblyman, were among the Orange county men present today at Riverside at a conference called to develop a program aimed to give rural counties control of the state legislature.

Circulation of petitions to place on the November ballot an amendment for reapportionment of the political subdivisions of California so far as they pertain to state senatorial districts and the reapportionment of assemblymen according to population figures of the 1920 federal census, has been suggested.

The proposed amendment would give control of the state senate to the rural communities, the division being fifteen senators to the three largest counties—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda—and twenty-five to the balance of the state.

Los Angeles and San Francisco have long dominated the state legislature, and these cities will fight any change in the order of things, Dr. Ball declared, here in urging that resident of every rural community in the state support the initiative proposal.

VISITS HERE, LOSES CAR

While C. N. Cowee of Buena Park was visiting in Santa Ana yesterday noon, his touring car was stolen from the corner of Fourth and Bush street, according to a report filed at police headquarters here today.

Music Section

Invitations have been issued by Ebell's Music section through its leader, Miss Leonora Tompkins, to a program and reception to be presented by the section at its final meeting of the year, as the new Ebell club home on French and Mortimer streets, Monday night, June 9 and 8 o'clock.

FOUGHT UNDER "OLD HICKORY"

Widow of 1812 Rifleman Living in Tennessee—Says She Has Used Black Draught for Twenty Years.

South Pittsburg, Tenn. — Mrs. Louisa Wade, who lives here with her son, Mr. Van Thompson, is the widow of Farleigh Wade, a Virginia rifleman, who fought with Gen. Andrew Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans, in the War of 1812. Mrs. Wade, herself 87 years old, draws a pension from the government on account of the services of the old militiaman in that war. In spite of her years, Mrs. Wade is active and in good health, visiting her different relatives and taking a great interest in current affairs.

"We have used Black-Draught in our family for twenty years," says Mrs. Wade. "A long time ago I began to use this splendid medicine for biliousness. I have suffered a great deal during my life from constipation and nothing seems to do me as much good as Black-Draught . . . I have found no relief like Black-Draught and I have tried many remedies.

"For the dull, heavy headache, which comes from a clogged condition of the system, I regard Black-Draught as a fine remedy. Sometimes I take it in the form of a tea and sometimes I take it 'dry so.'

"For years I was never without it in the house. Now I don't keep house, but I get this old standby when I need it."

YALE DIVINITY SCHOOL FULL IS REPORT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 31.—Yale university, through its divinity school, is feeling the modern-day stir in religious affairs, and today that school numbers among its students more individuals than it has room to handle, so far as class-rooms are concerned. No fewer than 117 different colleges have sent men to receive training as preachers. Every main branch of the Christian faith is represented, and though Yale was originally a Congregational college, Methodists are leading today in the student lists. Seven foreign countries have sent students, as well as 35 states of the Union.

The divinity school, through Dr. Charles R. Brown, its dean, is looking for more room in class quarters and chapel. From 55 to 75 students are being handled in classrooms where the capacity is 45, while the chapel is far too small. As a result of inadequate classrooms the students are thrown about the university wherever a classroom of size happens to be available.

Balks at Cub Novels

Lee Wilson Dodd, playwright and author, who first practiced law in New York, and then settled down in a suburban spot in New Haven to devote his days to literature, has announced: "One thing I do strike on, and that is reading any more novels of Yale undergraduates—and that holds good for Harvard, Princeton and all the rest."

He told Yale students just the other day that while the subject is interesting, "it certainly has been overdone recently." But Dodd sees "literature, instead of being on the decline, in an extremely flourishing state. Such a world as ours, with all its intricacies and complexities, cannot fail to produce writers. But there is one thing I cannot understand. People talk about the 'great American novel.' Such a thing is absurd. No man can write such a work. The subject is far too comprehensive."

Dodd then sees the younger writers of today "engaged in something interesting—a new experiment, experimenting in new lines of writing."

Yale, whose traditional opponent in sports is Harvard, is now after Harvard's playwright honors. The Playcraftsmen intend to capture whatever laurels there be eventually. They are giving their plays month by month to the public through their own stage, now in a university building, and expect soon to be in their own little theater, which is now being erected. Their own designers and scenery workers as well as their own playbuilders and actors, are included in the Playcraftsmen, who are entirely aside from the University Dramatic association, which has been playing semi-annually for years.

New Professors

Kenneth Conrad Heald, chief of the gas and oil section of the United States geological survey, is coming to New Haven as associate professor in geology, with assignment to Sheffield scientific school, of Yale university. He will specialize in the geology of gas and petroleum. Other newcomers, with the next university year, will be Theodore Crane, of New York, as associate professor in building construction on the Starrett-Thompson foundation; William Francis Swann, of University of Chicago, as professor in physics, and Edward Raymond Turner, of University of Michigan, as professor in English history.

William N. Mallory, football star, takes exception to statements of his faculty members criticizing athletics in college. "Memphis Bill", as he is known, went out among members of the Kiwanis club, of New Haven, and told them point blank he couldn't see the faculty side at all. He carried records to show that athletes in Yale stood from five to six points higher than non-athletes.

NOT TO ARREST BOY FOR SHOOTING MAN

August Laberdette, 20 years old, probably will not be arrested for shooting and severely wounding Ray Valencia last night in Los Alamitos, it was declared today by Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff, who stated that Deputies French, Dan Adams, H. W. McKague and he had found no complainant to testify that the young man was not defending his father who was being attacked by Valencia and three other Mexicans.

"If anyone is arrested as a result of last night's shooting scrape," McClellan said, "it most likely will be one or two of the Mexicans who attacked the elder Laberdette and his companions."

According to deputies, Pete Laberdette and L. Loungival, both of Los Alamitos, were motoring with George Purviance of Artesia, and when the automobile stopped in front of the Laberdette home the party was greeted by a shower of rocks from four Mexicans in a nearby automobile.

The young man, who was attacked when he sought to aid his father, finally broke away from his assailants and ran into the house, returning shortly with a shotgun. The bullet pe nertated Valencia's right leg above the knee.

The row at once subsided and the injured man was taken to the hospital in Artesia where eleven lead pellets were found in the wounded limb. Valencia later was transferred to the Los Angeles county hospital.

Chamber Directors At Grove Elected

GARDEN GROVE, May 31.—The following are the officers elected by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors for the coming year: President, Vernon King; first vice president, J. O. Arkley, second vice president, J. C. Mitchell; secretary, T. E. Pickerill; treasurer, F. A. Monroe; new director, St. Clair Woods.

At the new grammar school an unsually happy event was staged, honoring the members of the 8th grade who will progress from the grade school to the first year in the high school. The affair was given Tuesday evening in the domestic science rooms with the 7th grade pupils as hosts.

The room was changed into a veritable garden by the use of palms and greenery. Orangeade was served as the guests arrived. After an evening of games, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Forty-two students received their diplomas from the 8th grade on Thursday evening when graduating exercises were held in the grammar school auditorium.

The following program was presented:

Selection, Girls Glee Club.
Class History, Esther Guyton.
Class Will, Clark Hayhurst.
Class Prophesy, Eunice Pringle.
Address, Dr. A. A. Macurda of Los Angeles.

New officers for the coming year elected by the Epworth League of the Methodist church are: president, Harold Chaffee; first vice president, Norma Rossman; second vice president, Mettie Chaffee; third vice president, Amelia Scidmore; fourth vice president, Metta Rossman; secretary, Wallace Bragg; treasurer, Hollis Fitz; chorister, Pearl Blaeholder; pianist Lova Holt.

Thrift Day for the schools and community of Garden Grove was held Wednesday at the grammar school grounds on Acasia avenue. Lunch was served at noon followed by a very interesting program in the auditorium.

The Lions Club had their luncheon at the grounds and as a special feature presented Mr. Foster with his trained dogs. Short talks were given by Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. E. F. Zimmerman, presidents of the high school and grammar school P. T. A. respectively. J. O. Arkley president of the high school board, and J. G. Allen, president of the grammar school board, S. R. Fitz, principal of the grammar school and A. D. Hoenshell, principal of the high school, made brief remarks giving words of encouragement to the organization.

Mrs. J. Edmund Snow of Santa Ana, president of the County P. T. A. and Mrs. Goodale, county chairman of the board of education, brought greetings to the local organization.

Mrs. Tummons, kindergarden teacher, and her little pupils entertained with several numbers, the kindergarten band proving an especially interesting feature.

Two numbers on thrift were presented by the second grade, followed by delightful piano numbers by Mrs. W. A. Wisner and son, Allen. F. H. Felberg, president of the Citizens bank, spoke relative to the prizes to be awarded to the room having the largest number of depositors, as well as for the largest amount of deposits, prizes to be given as soon as it could be ascertained who the winners are. J. M. Woodworth, president of the First National bank, awarded the cash prizes to the winners for the best definition of Thrift. Esther Guyton, 8th grade pupil, won the first prize of $5.00. The definition given was as follows: "Thrift is the economical management of time, strength, property and effort."

Lucille Conway of the 7th grade was awarded second prize of $2.50. Music was furnished during the afternoon by the high school band. The Camp Fire Girls, under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Merchant, gave a patriotic drill which was a pleasing part of the program. At the conclusion of the program, athletic events were participated in by the pupils of the schools.

As school comes to a close, the activities become more numerous. Since several of the teachers will be missed from the ranks next year and weddings are the summer plan, showers for the brides-to-be have been quite numerous.

Mrs. S. R. Fitz was the delightful hostess recently when she entertained at her home, honoring Miss Eva O'Brian, teacher in the grammer school, with a towel shower. Not only did the bride receive many beautiful towels, but she was presented with a dozen sterling silver spoons.

The guests, most of whom are teachers in the grammar school, were: the Misses Magnusson, Hoenshell, Crutchfield, Musbach, Archer, Hill, Whitlock, Maxie, Ritter, Young, Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. Schneider.

Another shower was that of Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Pringle and Miss Curtiss were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Smith, Miss Crist being the honoree and the guests, members of the high school faculty.

A merry time was enjoyed throughout the evening. The gifts were presented in a suitcase bearing many ridiculous signs which caused much merriment. Progressive Rook was played and Miss Crist was awarded first prize, a card catalogue of salad recipes.

Dainty refreshments of fruit salad, rolls, cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

Enjoying the affair, aside from the hostesses, were the Misses Brubaker, Scott, Aiton, Fink, Dodson, Mrs. Hoenshell and Mrs. Fine.

Sunday evening marks the first event of commencement week. The baccalaureate sermon for the senior class of '24 will be preached by Rev. David B. Loofbourrow in the Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock.

On Wednesday, June 5th, at 6:30 o'clock p. m. will be held the Junior-Senior banquet in the Women's Club house.

The grand finale comes in the form of the Commencement exercises Friday, June 6th, at 8:00 p. m. in the grammer school auditorium. Dr. Dexter, president of Whittier college will deliver the address to the graduating class which consists of five girls and five boys.

LIFE SAVINGS LOST BY MARRIAGE FRAUD

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—The department of justice here was awaiting word from Minneapolis where Mrs. Gladys Norman of San Francisco was declared in International News Service dispatches to have confessed to a swindling plot by which a Cedar Rapids, Ia., farmer was mulcted of his $15,000 savings in a fake marriage.

One of her two accomplices in the fraud was named by the woman as J. H. Newton of California, for whom a search was made. Her other accomplice, she declared, was Harry Keenan of Chicago.

The victim was Benjamin E. Fereday. He was enticed into a marriage arrangement with Mrs. Norman and was induced to give her a key to his safety deposit vault, according to advices.

A few days after the marriage ceremony the siren disappeared with her two companions and when Fereday went to his safety deposit box his life savings were gone, the dispatch stated.

Girl Weds Youth Because His Wife Refused to Kiss

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 31.—Sociologists and court attendants were stunned when Tessie Paternelli, pretty and vivacious 16-year-old school girl, said she married Rudolph Allocco, the 18-year-old husband of her best friend, because his wife would not kiss him.

They received a second shock when Allocco, looking the part of an adolescent sheik, calmly admitted he was a bigamist.

"But Josephine found she did not love him," Tessie told the court, "she would not even kiss him, so I married him because he wanted me to."

Both marriages took place within the last year.

Wedding Interests Placentia People

PLACENTIA, May 31.—Another spring wedding which will be of interest to a great many was that of Francis M. Dowling who was united in marriage to Miss Ilo May Stower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stower of Beaumont. The wedding took place Sunday at Glendora at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culles, of Glendora, Rev. Dowling officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss May Stower, and paged by two tiny flower girls. William Dowling served as best man.

About forty guests, relatives and close friends of the bridal couple were present to witness the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Jack and Richard Culles, cousins of the bride, gave a violin duet and William Dowling sang "Yesterday and Today." Both were accompanied by Mrs. Rae Laidlaw who also rendered the Lohengrins wedding march. The dainty luncheon was served in the garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowling left immediately for the groom's Golden State cherry orchard at Beaumont and later will take a long motor trip.

Mr. Dowling has been a prominent figure in musical circles during his sojourn with his parents here the past few years. He plays several instruments, but specializes as a cello soloist.

Sam C. Newnes will operate the concessions at La Vida Springs, Carbon Canyon, under the management of Mrs. Pearl Manning. Improvements are under way and the place will soon be opened.

On Sunday Mrs. Manning opened temporarily, just for the day, and did a fine business.

Miss Dorothy Miner of Costa Mesa is spending the week at Placentia with her brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Miner.

The last meeting of the year for the Round Table club will be next Wednesday afternoon, and a large crowd is expected. It will be Japanese Day and the newly appointed Japanese consul to Los Angeles, Mr. K. Wakasugi will be the speaker. One of his lady secretaries, Mrs. Nobi, will accompany him and Mrs. K. Iseri, wife of the pastor of the Japanese union church. Japanese decorations will be used at the club house.

Mrs. Oscar Carlson and Miss Eva Salter both registered nurses from Placentia were among those who attended the annual banquet of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital Nurses Alumni Association at the home of Mrs. Ketner's of Santa Ana on Tuesday evening.

About twenty-five nurses were present and everyone enjoyed a delightful evening of games, eats and music.

Talbot Bielefeldt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bielefeldt, who is a student at Stanford University, will leave June 19th for Japan to be gone ten weeks. The trip will be educational as well as for pleasure. Talbot, who distinguished himself as valedictorian at F. U. H. S. three years ago, is studying for the foreign diplomatic service and the trip is expected to be of great value in his work.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schalles and daughter Frances and I. O. Fletcher and Miss Thelma Green spent the holiday at Idyllwild.

The attendance at the American class in Spanish last Friday evening was twice as large as two weeks ago, when the class was organized. Miss Clemence Allec is in charge of the class which meets at the Americanization school on West Santa Fe.

Count in Prison Is Safe from Creditor

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—Although Albert Sichofsky, self-styled Polish count, now an inmate of Folsom prison, possesses sufficient money to satisfy judgment for a large sum owing to John Emmanuel of Seattle, it appears that the creditor may be forced to wait for his money, until Sichofsky has served his term, ranging from 1 to 14 years for grand larceny. Warden J. J. Smith of Folsom is required by law to keep a prisoner's money until he is discharged.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Tex.—"I am writing to let you know how I have been benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt me continually, so I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about where it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

News Notes of Interest To Women

Post-Nuptial Affair Honors Return of Bride and Groom

Honoring the return from a mountain honeymoon enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hazen, was a happily planned reception with which Mr. and Mrs. John Maret, parents of the bride, formerly Miss Chloetta Maret, recently entertained.

A wealth of roses adorned the home for the pretty affair and a pleasant evening of games was arranged for the guests who comprised Mrs. Hazen's associates and fellow workers in the Baptist Young People's society.

Ice cream and cake were enjoyed features of the dainty little supper served at a late hour.

The marriage of the young people was an event of Wednesday, May 21, solemnized by the Rev. Otto S. Russell of the First Baptist church and followed by the honeymoon in the San Bernardino mountains.

Guests at the pleasant evening in honor of their return were Messrs. and Mesdames William Hazen, Barrett Deaver, J. P. Williams, Clyde Haddock, Mrs. Crawford, the Misses Daisy Bullard, alice Bullard, Mildred Dale, Leta Smith, Isabelle Bennett, Alice Rinehart, Irene Cravath, Lela Thompson, Goldie Fyie, Lorene Pryor, Mildred Bowe and Messrs. John Rinehart, Guy Percett, Ivan Elliott, Harold Armstrong and Claude Maret.

Women's Guild

Plans which have been formulated by the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Messiah for a "summer sale" and tea, will be realized Wednesday afternoon, June 4 at the parish hall of the church when, under the general direction of the president of the guild, Mrs. W. H. Haddon, the affair will be presented from 2 to 5 o'clock.

It is planned to combine a delightful social feature with the sale of fancy work and home-cooked food and the tea table will be in charge of Mrs. John Taylor. Mrs. George Chapman will preside over the fancy work booth while in the cooked-food department Mrs. E. E. Remsberg will reign and Mrs. Guy Gilbert will have charge of the ice cream and cake sale.

Modern Poetry

A unique departure from their usual carefully prepared programs featuring some famous poet among the modernists, will mark the final meeting for the club year of Ebell's Modern Poetry section members with Mrs. Edward M. Nealley, their leader, Tuesday afternoon, June 3 at 3 o'clock.

For each member will have one of her favorite poems and the reading of these will offer the entertaining features. It will be guest day as well, and each member has the privilege of asking one guest to share the pleasure of the program and the hospitality of Mrs. Nealley and her co-hostess, Mrs. Perry F. Schrock.

Aid Society

Mrs. J. H. Talbott of Mabury street offered her home to members of the northeast section of the First Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society recently for aa pleasant business and social session when as co-hostesses with her were Mesdames Webb, Wells, J. S. Wasser and Miss Gladys Vanhise.

The pastor, the Rev. W. E. Roberts with Mrs. Roberts were among the guests gathered for the affair and several new members were greeted, so the afternoon was quite a successful "get-acqualnted" event. Fruitade and home-made cake offered refreshment during the social hour.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

Mrs. S. F. Leonard of 2215 North Broadway was hostess Wednesday afternoon to thirty women of the northwest section of the Ladies' Aid of the First Presbyterian church. The home was bright with ranunculus and the time was passed with sewing for the fall bazaar and jolly chat.

Guests From Glendale Are Entertained In Curtis Home

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Curtis of 222 South Main street have been entertaining quite a house-party over the Memorial day holiday and week-end and last night presented a delightful little dinner in honor of their guests, all of whom are from Glendale.

Today the visitors are enjoying the artistic atmosphere of Laguna Beach where they are being entertained at the home of Mrs. A. R. Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis. They will return to this city tonight to remain until tomorrow evening.

The guests include Frank Johnson, a brother of Mrs. Curtis, with the two young people of his home, Miss Marie Johnson and her young brother Franklin; Mrs. Davis and Messrs. Thomas Watts and Harry Beemer.

Wee Maiden Enjoys Birthday Festivities

A happy little maiden was Marian Estelle Doty, winsome daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Doty, when on Thursday afternoon she celebrated her sixth birthday with a coterie of her little friends and playmates at her home, 420 West Walnut street.

The back yard of the Doty home is a very charming place and formed a lovely setting for the group of wee boys and girls, while they frolicked with their merry games.

Marian was delighted with her birthday gifts, her friends admiring them with her, and the happy event was closed when Mrs. Doty, assisted by her sister, Miss Stella Anderson, served the dainty refreshments of brick ice cream, cake, candy and nuts on prettily-arranged trays. The favors for the girls were doll babies and for the boys, bright colored caps.

Light Bearers

The Little Light Bearers and their mothers of the United Presbyterian church were entertained by their superintendent, Miss Rosaline Kellogg, on Wednesday afternoon in the primary rooms of the church.

Cecil Brunner roses and pink carnations with asparagus fern were used in the decorations.

After an hour of getting acquainted and playing games, the superintendent led a short devotional service, and Jean McAuley made the little welcome speech, while little Jack Millman repeated the Twenty-third Psalm without making a mistake, and all the older children joined in singing some of their favorite numbers. After hearing the story of the little girl in India who walked two miles carrying her baby brother in order to go to the missionary lady to ask her to start a school near enough to their village so she could attend and had to return in disappointment because there was no money to start the school, the Santa Ana Little Light Bearers were ready to place their offering to help with this school, in the prettily decorated basket prepared for the purpose.

Even the youngest baby present, Richard Bruce Gibson, who only celebrated his first birthday a short time ago, led by his mother, toddled forward and gave his offering, and thus was letting his light shine in darkened India. The offering was placed in a pink bag and put aboard the Little Light Bearers' boat which was all ready to sail away—away to help bring light to a heathen world.

At the close of these informal exercises the children were invited into the next room where they were seated at the pretty table with its pink baskets of dainty white flowers, and bright pink napkins, and served with strawberry jello, animal crackers, and heart shaped cookies with pink icing. Later when departing for home they were given cunning pink birds for favors, and pink boxes for their next thank offering boxes.

Ebell Travelers

A called meeting to decide financial matters relative to the section, has been announced for Ebell's Third Travel section for 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, June 3 at the clubhouse.

Brides In Triplicate Pleasantly Honored By Their Aunt

Considering herself extremely fortunate in being the aunt to three charming young girls whose engagements have all been announced recently with mid-summer weddings promised in each case, Mrs H. L. Cole of 1902 North Main street, yesterday celebrated her good fortune by entertaining in honor of the trio of winsome maids, Miss Evelyn Hoffman and Miss Pauline Carnahan of this city and Miss Winifred Johndrew of Colton.

Depending upon her own attractive garden for floral decorations Mrs. Cole stripped it of carnations with the result the house was one bower of spicy pink bloom wherein the three honorees received the guests with their hostess-aunt.

Amusement was offered in a merry game of "Trousseau" which yielded keen enjoyment for all and a pretty prize for the winner, Miss Carnahan. Later the fortunate trio of honorees were given seats of honor in the center of the living-room and two cunning little maids, wee Patty Jean Swartout and her small cousin, Carroll Jeanne McCollum brought in three bushel baskets one at a time, and placed them in front of the honored trio. The baskets were gay with ferns and pink garlands and each contained a handsome assortment of gifts of a miscellaneous nature, all in triplicate.

Small tables were arranged for the serving of ices and cake and were centered with carnations to be in harmony with the home's floral appointments. At the tea hour, Mrs. Carnahan was reminded of the fact that she was celebrating a birthday when she too was showered with gifts, completing what the guests declared to be the most showery afternoon of the season. Mrs. Carnahan had assisted Mrs. Cole in her pleasant hostess duties all afternoon and had supposed she was conversant with all entertaining details until her own turn came to be surprised.

Of the three honorees, Miss Johndrew, the Colton niece, recently announced her betrothal to Bryan Ruddick of Redlands while her two Santa Ana cousins followed suit. Miss Hoffman's engagement to James W. Dickson was made known at a merry evening event at the home of Miss Hoffman and her father, Frank T. Hoffman, early in the week, and Miss Carnahan's engagement to Hugh Haley was announced at a smart little dinner Wednesday night at the Carnahan home, 501 East Walnut street. Miss Hoffman's wedding will be a July event; the two remaining cousins will be June brides.

Guests at yesterday's triple celebration were Mrs. M. J. Hoffman, occupying the pleasant position of grandmother to the three, Mrs. Palmer of Redondo Beach, Miss Hoffman's maternal grandmother; Mrs. Maude Swartout, Mrs. Willard Swartout, Mrs. Chesley Lander, Mrs. George Bryant, Mrs. Harold Carnahan, Mrs. Helen McCollum, Mrs. Charles Carey, Mrs. George R. Dickson, Mrs. Asa Hoffman; a group of tiny folk, the Misses Patty Jean Swartout, Carroll Jeanne McCollum and Master Robert Bruce Carnahan, and of course the three honorees, the Misses Hoffman, Carnahan and Johndrew.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. James Johndrew, Mrs. Amanda Bryant, Mrs. John Gognon of Colton and Mrs. Douglas Mattocks of San Francisco.

Parochial School Has Interesting Class Of Graduates

Combining eighth grade graduation exercises with a charming little Maytime cantata, "A Day in the Woods", St. Joseph's parochial school children last night played to an audience which filled the Knights of Columbus hall to capacity.

The hall was prettily decorated with Canterbury bells, the class flower and a profusion of greenery, cleverly arranged to represent a forest.

The program opened with an orchestral selection by a group of very small folk, the Misses Hilda Ravenkamp and Marcella Wheeler at piano; Alice Borchard, Dorothy Hartline and Patricia O'Brien, first violins; Frederick Devenney, Kenneth Patten, Constance Meinecke and Blanche Theriault, second violins; Joseph Barnett, cornet and Lois Connell, saxophone.

Miss Evangeline Wolford, a talented young musician, gave a fine rendition of "Valse No. 2" by Durand; a company of the primaries stirringly rendered "America," accompanied by the orchestra; three wee maidens, Jacqueline Meyers, Dorothy Rossiter and Beatrice Paino, played a trio on the piano; tiny Master George W. Young played "Night Song," by Hudson and Miss Elizabeth Borchard, a talented little maid gave "Cradle Hymn" by the same composer.

Telling something of the work of the beloved composer MacDowell, Miss Anona Squires played "To a Wild Rose"; Little Miss Rosemary Ashen prettily recited "A Little Pink Rose"; Edward Roth played well the "Priere de Matin" by Streabbog; and Walter Markel with a clear voice gave the musical recitation "Cured". Miss Mary Carroll played an ambitious number, the "Second Mazurka" by Godard, giving a bit of history of the noted composer and Miss Cleora Fine gave a fine rendition of "Pouppee Valsante" by Poldini. The musical program, carried out without a hitch, reflected credit on the teachers of the young people.

"Eileen", the May cantata, was very charmingly given, the children being letter perfect in their parts. Miss Eileen Carroll was crowned queen of the May, the little miss of eight years showing fine talent and carrying her difficult part with the easy and unaffected manner of a professional. Her many solos were given without a break, although there was much to memorize.

Rose Mary Ashen, as attendant to the queen, was very good, as was Alice Borchard, as "Gypsy Jane". Walter Markel made an excellent woodcutter and sang his solo distinctly, while little Miss Teresa Skaggs was a lovely handmaiden. The fisher boys' made a hit in their chorus and the May pole was prettily danced by a group of tiny maidens.

The village children, all of whom added greatly to the pleasure of the production, were Helen Norton, Claire and Frances Jones, Ruth Heim, Eleanor Duhart, Claudina Ruplinger, Florence Sturbaum, May Maag, Marie Skaggs, Valara Heim, Constance Meinecke, Catherine Miles, Vada Stinglen, Marcella Wheeler, Margaret Reynolds, Virginia Vaughn, Margaret Alton, Hilda Ravenkamp, Harold Daley, Raiford Reynolds.

Fishermen were Claude Norton, Bert Banks, Joseph Hamann, Earl Halderman, Elden Geissel, Robert Maag, Robert Naylon, Laurence Rossiter, Vincent Paino, Francis Miller, Warren Cooke, Paul Haupert, Bernard Haupert, Robert Beaver.

Miss Helen Allen was a most excellent accompanist during the entire evening.

The Rev. Father H. Eummelen, the pastor of St. Joseph's, presented the diplomas to the eight granduates, the Misses Audrey Marie Wendel, Mary Lair O'Brien, Catherine Florence Markel, Mary Elizabeth Gillespie, Sadie Sackman and Masters Stafford Bennett Jones, Eugene Joseph Owens, and Joseph William Alton. He also presented premiums for general excellence to Audrey Wendel and Mary Lair O'Brien, and to Audrey Wendel, the silver medal for good conduct for the year. All of the graduates received gifts for application and good work.

Father Eummelen paid high tribute to the graduates, who he said were well fitted to enter the high school, and he urged them and their parents to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities now offered for higher education, as a young person in these times could not obtain any kind of a position without a high school diploma. He also urged the graduates to carry out their class motto: "To reach port, we must sail, not drift with the current."

Realtor's Auxiliary

Plans are afoot for a merry picnic of members of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors' auxiliary, accompanied by their realtor husbands and their children, to be staged at Orange county park Thursday, June 5 at 6 p. m.

Each family will take a basket supper and hot coffee will be served by a committee. The evening will be devoted to the usual pleasures of dancing, rowing and kindred amusements.

Merry Little Supper Follows Recital of Local M. E. Choir

Many pleasant social affairs have been connected with membership in the First M. E. church choir, among them the delightfully informal party which their director, Mrs. Hulda Dietz, staged in their honor following their recent recital at the Los Angeles Christian church.

At the recital, presented before a large crowd gathered in the church auditorium, the local vocalists covered themselves with glory and won enthusiastic commendation both from the audience and from the Los Angeles press. After the concert the entire choir was entertained by Mrs. Dietz at a charmingly planned little supper at her home and enjoyed a merry social hour ere motoring back to Santa Ana.

Tomorrow night at the evening service hour at the church, the choir is planning a feature program in which they will be assisted by the three talented young winners in the recent music contest staged in the county, Santa Ana's own little Georgia Belle Walton, violinist; Charlyn Tedrick of Anaheim, pianist, and Tom Mendicott of Orange, soloist.

The program numbers will be "The Heavens Are Telling" from Haydn's "Creation" by the entire choir; soprano solo, "With Verdure Clad" from the same oratorio, Mrs. Dietz; violin solo, selected, by Miss Georgia Belle Walton; "Fierce Raged the Tempest," choir; soprano solo, selected, Tom Mendicott; piano solo, selected, Miss Charlyn Tedrick; "Goin' Home," by Dvorak, the choir.

Former Santa Anan In New Home

Established in her attractive new home at 425 East Olive street, Porterville, Mrs. W. A. Best (formerly Mrs. Ella F. Lash of this city,) has writen her relatives and friends here, details of the quiet wedding in Bakersfield Wednesday, May 21, which followed her departure from this city at an early hour that morning.

Mr. Best awaited his bride in Bakersfield with everything in readiness for the wedding ceremony which was conducted by the minister of the First Methodist church at his parsonage home. Continuing the journey northward as Mrs. Best, the popular Santa Ana clubwoman found an attractive home awaiting her arrival. However Santa Ana still attracts and she and Mr. Best are planning an early summer visit here among relatives and friends.

Altar Society

With the semi-monthly meetings of St. Ann's Altar society alternating between business and social, what was declared to have been one of the most enjoyable of the social gatherings yet experienced, was held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. David Wolford, 1018 South Main street.

Floral decorations were profuse and lovely and an appetizing luncheon was served. Mrs. Wolford was assisted by her sister, Mrs. L. M. Irish. In the afternoon the young daughter of the hostess, Miss Gladiola Wolford, presented several well-executed piano numbers.

Among matters discussed at the meeting was the question of joining the National Council of Catholic Women. It was also decided that all members of the Altar society would receive communion in a body at tomorrow morning's 8 o'clock mass at St. Ann's church.

The next meeting of the society will be a business one at the parish hall of the church, Thursday afternoon, June 5, at 2 o'clock.

PUBLIC NOTICE

Star car will be given away on McFadden tract No. 5 tomorrow, June 1st, at two o'clock. Be on the tract at that time. Chanticleer Manor Realty Co. Andrew Cock and H. A. Frank.

Catholics or Ku Klux Klanners Which?

It is true, as the article by Rev. H. Eummelen in the Register of May 17, states, that "if there were such a thing as priority of right in this country it would belong to Catholics."

It is true that Columbus was a Catholic, but it must be remembered that, above all else, Columbus was a HERETIC. He believed that the world was round, at a time when the church persecuted people for believing this. His motive in exploring uncharted seas was not "to bring the Catholic faith to the aborigines" but to prove his heretical theory of the earth's physical form.

It is true that some of the Protestant religious sects that settled America later "formed colonies in which their particular brand of religion alone was tolerated." We are glad to see it noted that Lord Baltimore in his Catholic colony provided for religious toleration, but we feel moved to add that William Penn did the same in his Quaker colony.

As to the service of Catholics and Protestants in the American wars, there is no doubt that both branches of the Christian church have proved themselves militarists of the highest order, and that their World War records entitle them to equal honors as advocates of violence and human slaughter.

The statement of Father Eummelen that the Catholic church has taken a "determined stand against Socialism, against the divorce evil, and in favor of religion in education" sounds very much like Ku Klux Klan propaganda. On the first point the two organizations seem to be as one. On the second point there is practical uniformity of convention, and on the third the difference is only in kind. The Catholics seem to be bidding for Romanism in the schools, while the Ku Kluxers would force upon us all a 100% American, white, Nordic, Gentile, fundamentalist Protestantism which for ignorance and intolerance would shame the dark ages.

We, who not only deny the authority of the church but also repudiate nationalism and the military domination of the state, look upon the Catholic-Ku Klux Klan controversy as factional.

The real issue is between those who are holding to the beliefs and systems of the past, whether as Roman Catholics or as Ku Klux Klanners, and those who are seeking an entirely new social order—a Commonwealth of the World, where capitalism shall be abolished; where militarism shall perish; where religion shall be a matter of free personal choice; where a revised code of ethics shall govern marriage and divorce; where national enmities shall become tales of past ages; and where racial antipathies shall at last give way to the natural evolutionary process which is already obliterating separate racial characteristics.

We appeal to the common intelligence of the average man to decide his own "Which?" and would offer for his consideration the following suggestion taken from "The Ku Klux Klan" (A critical analysis) by Professor John Mechlens of Dartmouth College:

"The man who surrenders abjectly to the mental stereotype of his church, party, business, community, nation, or race permits himself to be branded like a sheep and should realize that in time, like a sheep, he will either be sheared or slaughtered."

HIS BROTHER'S WIFE

by RUBY AYRES
© NEA SERVICE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The marriage of Dolly and Nigel Bretherton proves to be unhappy. When war is declared, Nigel is glad to enlist. He leaves Dolly in the care of Mary Furnival. Nigel is killed and Dolly marries an old sweetheart and sails with him for America.

When Nigel's brother, David, calls to see Nigel's widow, Mary is ashamed to tell him of Dolly's marriage. David mistakes Mary for Nigel's wife and takes her to live at Red Grange with his aunt.

Mary is happy in her new home until Monty Fisher exposes her to David. Mary runs away. She meets an acquaintance, named Evans, who tells her that David is searching for her. Mary is run over by a ca band is taken to a hospital.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

The nurse, a kind-faced, elderly woman, told him that Mary's injuries were more serious than they had at first supposed.

"Her friends ought to be told," she said, a trifle curtly. "If you know where they are, it is your duty to tell them."

Evans answered with some show of temper. He said he knew no more than she did, that he had no idea where she was living, or with whom.

"And you are no relation yourself?"

"None—I am only a friend."

Her face softened a little at something pathetic in his voice and eyes.

"Well, I'm sorry," she said more kindly, "because I am afraid she is in a very bad way."

"You mean that she will die?"

"Oh, I don't say that; but the doctor seemed very dissatisfied this morning. Perhaps you can call again during the day."

Evans said he certainly would do so; he went to the office with dragging steps.

He sat, neglecting his work, staring before him with worried eyes. The girl typist who worked next to him asked once or twice what was the matter. Evans roused himself with a start.

"Nothing—nothing."

But he could not keep his mind on his work. Once, when he was taking down letters for Fisher, his mind wandered, and he forgot to answer; Fisher spoke to him sharply.

"Where in the world are your thoughts, Evans?"

Mary's condition was unchanged.

He dragged through the long day drearily, and evening saw him once more anxiously inquiring for her. This time the answer was more grave.

"She is not so well."

He went away feeling horribly guilty. If she died, the Brethertons would never forgive him. If she lived! Well, if she lived, she could never be anything to him; he was but laying up trouble for himself whatever he did.

He walked about the streets till it was quite late. He had had no tea, but that he forgot. He was amazed to find that his steps had led him to the Fisher's house. He found himself standing outside, staring up at its lighted windows.

He walked past, and came back again reluctantly. Should he go in or not? He shrank from doing so, and yet—

He hesitated, with his eyes on the brass knocked, that gleamed in the light of a street lamp directly opposite.

CHAPTER LVIII

Found!

DAVID BRETHERTON was in the drawing-room with Dora Fisher when the bell went pealing through the house.

He had spent a boring evening. Monty had had work to do, and was in his study; and David had been left to Dora's care.

She had done her best to get up a flirtation with him. She had sung sentimental songs one after the other in the drawing-room, where artfully shaded lights threw up her beauty to wonderful advantage.

David sat in a big chair in the shadows, and listened. At lease, she supposed he was listening, but, as a matter of fact, his thoughts were far enough away.

Where was Mary? Day and night he thought of her, and wondered and worried.

Now and then, when the plaintive voice and music at the piano ceased, he roused himself with an effort, and said, "Thank you—thank you very much," in an absent sort of voice.

Dora was piqued; she rose from the piano stool with a little petulant movement.

"I believe I bore you; I don't believe you like music."

David protested quickly that he did. He sat up a little from his lounging position, and tried to make conversation; but Dora was discouraged; she had expected a better reception from him; his evident effort to talk to her irritated her; she answered him shortly and snappily.

In her heart she was beginning to despair of ever making a conquest of this man. It was her first failure, and she bitterly resented it.

What was he made of, she asked herself angrily, that he stood so aloof from her? She did not realize that when a man cares deeply for one woman all the wiles and seductions of another will pass him harmlessly.

Perhaps both were really thankful when a diversion was created by the evening post; a maid brought the letters and gave them to Dora.

She sorted them through carelessly.

"Only one for you, David. It has been sent on from the Red Grange."

She looked at it curiously as she spoke; she handed it over to him with evident reluctance.

"May I open it now?" asked David. His voice sounded more awake. He broke open the seal without waiting for permission.

Dora watched him covertly. She saw the quick little frown that creased his brow; the sudden start he gave.

"Anything exciting?" she asked archly; but he did not seem to hear her.

CHAPTER LIX

Mary Is Dying

HE was reading the sprawled handwriting eagerly:

"Dear Mr. Bretherton—I suppose, as I have never seen you, I must not call you 'David,' though we are brother and sister. Poor Nigel told me so much about you that I really feel as if I know you, although we have never met.

"Well, you will guess by this time that I am Dolly—his wife! I am writing to you because I have nobody else in the world to help me, and I am in great trouble.

"After Nigel died, I married again; I dare say you know that by now; Mary Furnival would have been sure to tell you. She was kind to me, but she liked Nigel better than she ever did me. I have written to her several times since I left England, but she has only answered one of my letters. I suppose she was angry with me for marrying again; I am afraid you will be, too; but my husband begged me so hard—he was fond of me before ever I met your brother. I am telling you this frankly, in the hope that you will forgive and help me.

"Robert is ill now—so ill that he cannot work; and the little money we had is nearly gone. Sometimes I feel that perhaps it is a sort of judgment on me for marrying again so soon.

"I sent you a cable yesterday asking you to help me and shall wait anxiously for your reply. Please, please, for Nigel's sake, be kind to me, because, after all, I was his wife, and he did love me.

"Your unhappy sister-in-law,

"Dolly Durham."

Bretherton read it through to the last line without comment. He hated the tone of the letter; the half conciliatory, half defiant attitude galled him. When he reached the end, he sprang to his feet.

"If you will excuse me, I must see Monty at once."

Dora gave a little chagrined laugh.

"I hope it isn't any bad news. I—"

It was just then that young Evans rang the front door-bell.

The servant came into the room as David was leaving it.

"A young gentleman to see you, sir, please," she spoke to David. "He said it was most urgent. His name is Evans, please, sir."

"Evans!" David echoed the word at first blankly, then with increasing interest. "Evans, I will come and speak to him."

He made a hurried apology to Dora, and went out, closing the door behind him.

Young Evans stood in the hall. He looked nervous and ill at ease. When he saw David, he began an apology for disturbing him.

"Not at all; come in Mr. Fisher's study; perhaps you will not mind his being present."

Evans did not mind in the least. He was conscious of a great sense of relief now he had burned his boats. He wished he had done this before; he knew it would have been utterly impossible for him to have gone through another night such as he had spent after leaving the hospital.

David led the way into Fisher's room.

"Sorry to disturb you, Monty. Evans has come up to see me—it's important, he says. May we come in?"

Fisher swung round in his chair.

"By all means. Sit down, Evans.'

But Evans remained standing. He looked at David when he spoke.

"I wanted to tell you that I know where Miss Furnival is, sir."

Monty Fisher sprang to his feet excitedly.

"You have known all along! I knew it!"

Evans' eyes flashed, but he answered quite respectfully:

"I beg your pardon, sir; I knew nothing about it all until last night. I met Miss Furnival quite by chance, and—" He paused, turning again to David: "I—I am sorry to say that she met with an accident, sir."

David had not spoken, but now he broke out agitatedly:

"An accident! Where? When? Why didn't you tell me before?"

His eyes were fierce, but Evans stood his ground manfully.

"Because she was afraid of you, sir; because she made me promise not to even tell you that I had seen her; but now—when she is so ill—perhaps dying—"

"Dying!" The word was half a groan. David took a quick step forward; he caught Evans' arm.

HOLD DUKE MUST PAY $31,390 NOTES

NEW YORK, May 31.—Final judgment for $31,390 was entered in supreme court against William Angus Drogu Montagu, duke of Manchester, in favor of Archibald S. White, who sued on promissory notes which were given him by the duke in 1914.

The defense to the action, commenced last November, was that the notes had been given by the duke as evidence of advances to him for stock in the International Educational league a corporation with which he was affiliated, but which never functioned in the manner intended.

White alleged that the money had been advanced to the duke while the latter was his guest at his Adirondack camp near Paul Smith's. During the visit, Mr. White set forth, the duke had endeavored to have him endow the corporation, but when he declined he said the duke had requested the money as a loan to carry out the capitalization program of the corporation

CALIFORNIA ORANGE PRICES MAKE GAINS

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 31.—(Office of the Fruit World)—The market on both California Navel and Valencia oranges continued to show improvement the last week. Prices were generally higher in both the private sale markets and the auctions, the only exception being on Navels showing heavy decay.

Offerings of Valencias in the auction centers will predominate in another week when Navels and miscellaneous varieties will be practically cleaned up.

The reaction of the market to a higher level now that the sound, good keeping Valencias are obtainable is assurance to shippers that the trade have turned to Valencias with renewed eagerness.

The one difficulty facing shippers is the size problem. Whether the extreme small sizes should be marketed or not has not yet been thoroughly threshed out. Some shippers are of the opinion that an agreement between packers to pack on 324s and smaller in fancy or 288s and smaller in choice except on definite price orders, would go a long way toward helping out the size problem.

Florida Season Closing

Florida citrus shipments are now averaging 41 cars daily. Packing houses all over the state are closing up although a few houses still have a considerable volume of late fruit to ship. With Florida competition pretty well eliminated for this season, California Valencias will have full swing for the next five or six months.

Imperial Valley cantaloupes must be reckoned with by California orange shippers at this particular time. To date, a total of 438 cars of cantaloupes have been shipped as compared with 50 cars in 1923; none, 1922; 61, 1921; 91, 1920 and 2 in 1919. Cantaloupe shippers predict that the daily movement will get to the 500-car mark by the first week in June. The consensus of opinion is that the crop is far better spaced and will mature along at intervals rather than reach large movements for short periods with longer drops. The peak may pass 650 cars which authorities agree is a maximum of safety. It is expected that there will be more 400-car days and possibly more 500-car days than in 1923, but the peak will be short and the decline more gradual than in other years. In 1923 the peak was reached on June 20th with a shipment of 556 cars, while in 1922, 662 cars went out on June 27th. Latest reports from the Valley state that warm days and nights now predominate.

F. o. b. California quotations on Fancy Valencias are as follows according to district: Size 126s, $3.90 to $4.25; 150s, $3.75 to $4.05; 176s, $3.00 to $3.35; 200s, $2.50 to $3.00; 216s, $2.00 to $2.75; 252s, $1.75 to $2.25; 288s, $1.50 to $2.00; 324s, $1.50 to $1.75.

Lemon Market Easy

The market on California lemons is easier on account of continued cool weather throughout the Eastern markets.

F. o b. California quotations on Extra Choice Fruit ranges from $2.50 for 360s size to $3.75 for 300s.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days in all United States ports, approximately 470 cars of foreign lemons as against 746 cars for the corresponding period last season and 585 cars two years ago.

TEST MOISTURE IN FORESTS CUT OVER

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The difficulty in restocking cleared and exposed flats and south slopes to western white pine, cedar and hemlock in Northern Idaho lies in the high surface soil temperatures attained in these localities, according to experiments lately completed by the Priest river forest experiment station, Missoula, Mont. Forest Examiner J. A. Larsen of the forest service, who has been conducting experiments in germination and survival of desirable tree species on cut-over areas, states that extreme surface temperatures are highly injurious to young seedlings even to the extent of destroying all reproduction.

Larsen also tested out the effects of different cutting methods on the establishment of the new forest, particularly the "clear-cutting" method which, by removing nearly all the trees, leaves relatively large clearings in the Idaho forests, and the shelter-wood method, by which the timber is taken in two cuttings some fifteen years apart, the first taking only as many trees as will leave a continuous overhead cover. He found, in brief, that in the large openings within the forest, temperatures of both air and soil were higher, and that there was an increase in evaporation and a greater moisture deficit, all factors operating against the establishment of moisture-loving species.

Comparing soil conditions and their effects, he found that surfaces of bare mineral soil and of ashes, when loose, are best for both germination and establishment of seedlings, provided seeds are immediately available after the fire; but where overhead or adjacent trees must supply the necessary seed—as on cut-over areas—a looser and protected surface and light vegetation such as cover the ordinary forest floor in the region are more favorable. Englemann spruce, western larch, western red cedar, and western hemlock all were found to germinate well on such surfaces, but the number of trees of these species becoming definitely established was decidedly less than that of the western white pine. This was due to the relative shallowness of their roots, which could not penetrate deeply enough to secure the necessary moisture during periods of drouth.

BRIEF NEWS BITS FROM WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, May 31.—All places of business were closed here yesterday in observance of Memorial Day—most of the older residents motored to the Westminster and Huntington Beach cemeteries to lay flowers on the graves. The Boy Scouts, accompanied by W. B. McCoy and Fred Bassie, went to Huntington Beach to participate in a parade there.

Mrs. Ellen Edwards arrived yesterday from LaHabra for a few days visit with her son, J. L. Edwards and family.

Mrs. Jessie McCoy left Thursday night for Downey, where she will spend her vacation with her sister, Mrs. M. M. Purcell and family.

A. F. Anton, of Memphis, Tennessee, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. T. E. Turpin, left Thursday morning for a sightseeing trip; he will go to San Diego, Catalina Island, San Francisco, San Fernando and the redwood forests, and will return here before going back east.

The Misses Rossman and Miss Adeline Simsen took a number of the students from the fourth and fifth grades to Huntington Beach Thursday afternoon for a good time in the plunge there.

Miss Adeline Simsen, teacher of the fourth and fifth grades here, will leave Wednesday for her vacation in Kennewick, Washington.

Mrs. A. E. Carter and family left Friday morning for a few days visit with relatives in San Bernardino.

The quarantine has been removed from the home of Mrs. Lora Hildebrand.

W. W. Bess motored to Los Angeles Tuesday night to attend a meeting of the Shriners there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hays visited Mr. and Mrs. O. Acorns Thursday evening in Huntington Beach.

The Happy Workers met at the home of Mrs. Frank Cowgill Wednesday. A number of the members are away on pleasure excursions, and only about twenty-five were present. A hot dinner was served at noon, and a short business session was held later, the rest of the time being spent in sewing.

Mrs. Chas. Sigler had as guests Thursday, Mrs. E. B. Whitehead, of Los Angeles, and daughter, Mrs. R. Hill and grandson, Everett Pope. These people are leaving by auto for a trip east, viaa Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hays had as guests Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCall and Mr. Leese, all of Long Beach.

The Boy Scouts will, in addition to holding their regular meeting, have a short program Monday night at which time they will be presented with a flag.

The program for Children's Day at the church has been changed, and all who had parts, or who wish to take part, are asked to be at the church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

The students of the eighth grade of the grammar school here received their diplomas Wednesday evening before a large crowd of parents and friends. The auditorium was very prettily decorated for the occasion with carnations and fern. Each one of the students did exceptionally well in the parts assigned them in the short program, which was followed by an address from Rev. W. T. Wardle. Miss Edna McCoy was at the piano. So many flowers did the graduates receive that their heads were scarcely visible, as they were piled in their laps.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Turpin and family motored to Olive and through the Santa Ana Canyon Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Will LaToosh and family, former residents of Westminster, attended the exercises in the school auditorium here Wednesday evening.

GRAIN PRICES DROP ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, May 31.—Grains broke sharply at the close on the Board of Trade today. Crop and weather news was favorable.

May corn led in the downturn. Heavy supplies were held unsold at the close. Deferred months were off factionally, mixed crop news holding values in check.

Oats displayed more strength at the finish.

LAGUNA BEACH CROWDED BY VISITORS

LAGUNA BEACH, May 31.—Laguna Beach today is a scene of activity. Tourists and campers are coming in by the thousands, hotels are being booked to their capacity. Tent City and the Laguna Beach Villa reservations are filled. The indications plainly show that more people will be at Laguna Beach this year to celebrate Decoration Day than there ever has been in the history of the beach. It is after all, only a forerunner of what may be expected during the coming summer. Laguna Beach is better fitted to accommodate tourists and visitors than it has been at any time before.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Planalp are spending the holidays in Los Angeles with relatives and friends.

Mr. Thorvald J. Moen, proprietor of the Hazel Cafe drove to Alhambra on Wednesday and returned with Mrs. Krips, who will spend the summer with the Moens. Mrs. Krips is known as "Grandma" and she admits that she is glad to be at "The Beach that is Different."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wakelee of Pasadena are visitors at the "Gray Gate Apartments." Both Mr. and Mrs. Wakelee are prominent in Masonic circles, and both hold offices in their respective lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ferguson and son, Hugh Grant, of Los Angeles are holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Murphy. Mr. Ferguson is general sales manager of the Crescent Creamery company of Los Angeles.

Mr. Parrie B. La Piere and Mr. Lloyd Weirick of Claremont are week-end visitors at Laguna Beach. Mr. La Piere is visiting his sister, Mrs. F. Elliot.

Mr. L. A. Saxe of Los Angeles is spending the holidays at his Pacific View Tract cottage.

Mr .Harland Durand, proprietor of the Arch Beach Grocery store, was a business caller at San Diego Thursday.

Ellen Beech Yaw, noted singer, and party were visitors at the "Mariona" on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Kelly and wife are week-end visitors at Arch Beach.

Mrs. Edith McDowell Rush, while at a lively game of tennis, fell and severely sprained her ankle. She was immediately taken home and is under treatment of Dr. E. C. Day. Mrs. Rush is slightly improved but will be confined to her home for several days.

Miss Marguerite Dodd and mother are entertaining a number of their friends from Pomona at their Arch Beach home.

Mr. and Mrs. George Androvette of Alhambra are having a charming stay in Laguna Beach. They will return to Alhambra on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Hotalling and daughter Lola are guests at the "Gloriana Apartments." Mr. Hotalling is prominent in motion picture work in Hollywood.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Stanton of Pasadena are spending several weeks at Laguna Beach .

Miss Belle Hart Berry of Los Angeles is enjoying beautiful Laguna Beach. Miss Berry is teacher and director of music at the University of Southern California.

Traffic Jam Is Caused by Crash

A jam in automobile traffic resulted at 3:30 p. m. yesterday on the Newport boulevard when a car bearing California license number 473-717 struck the rear of the machine driven by Ralph Viele of Costa Mesa at the Fairview crossing. No one was injured, though both automobiles were damaged, according to a report of the accident at the sheriff's office here.

Young 'Terrors' Hurl Bricks At House Windows

The police here today were attempting to learn the identity of five or six boys who last night motored through Lincoln street, throwing bricks at houses and through windows.

On several previous occasions the neighborhood has been terrorized by similar occurrences, according to the police. Last night's repetition of the brick-throwing took place at about 8:30 o'clock.

A fair description of the automobile in which the boys were riding and a good description of several of the boys were in the hands of the police today.

In the fourteenth century spectacles, though fairly common, were articles of some cost, and frequently formed the subjects of bequests in wills.

Brief Brea News

BREA, May 31.—A large number of patrons of the Brea Grammar schools attended the annual exhibit at the Laurel Kindergarten building Wednesday evening. A splendid display of the year's work was made. The Fullerton Union High School band furnish music during the evening. Mrs. Youtsey, teacher of music in the grammar school, favored the audience with several vocal solos, Miss Kaplan gave several violin solos and the Murray sisters gave some piano numbers. Refreshments of punch and wafers were served throughout the evening by the teachers.

The last meeting of the Brea Parent-Teacher association for this year will be held at the Brea Grammar school next Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium. All members of the association are urged to attend this last meeting.

Miss Velma Churchill attended the Daily Vacation Bible school conference which was held at Pomona Tuesday.

At the meeting of the Rebekah lodge Monday evening, Mrs. Claris Denham was initiated into the lodge. Visitors from Bellflower, Orange and Anaheim were present. Dainty refreshments were served to those attending lodge.

Mrs. Lina Russell, a splendid reader and impersonator will give a program of readings and impersonations taken from James Whitcomb Riley's works at the Brea Christian church next Tuesday evening. Everyone is cordially invited to hear the program.

Mrs. L. J. Mathews and daughter Esther visited relatives in Los Angeles last week.

Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Russell of Anaheim, Mr. J. E. Russell and son Melvin and Mrs. L. J. Mathews and daughter motored to Beaumont Saturday to get cherries.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Sayles are spending the week-end visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Watkins of Beaumont.

Mr. and Mrs. D. V. Russell of Anaheim were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Mathews Monday.

A number of Brea people attended the Christian church convention at Whittier Tuesday. In the evening several carloads of Young People attended the Endeavor meeting.

THIEF LEAVES WIG; GETS $30,000 GEMS

NEW YORK, May 31.—A lone burglar, having gained entrance to an exclusive Park avenue apartment, lost his false auburn hair but got away with a jewel case containing $30,000 in gems.

The apartment robbed was that of H. Ivan Spengel, automotive engineer, on the sixth floor at 1049 Park avenue. When the maid went to the door in response to a ring, she was confronted by the burglar, who leveled a revolver at her. Then he locked the maid and the cook in a bedroom.

A few moments later Mrs. Spengel, who had been out for a walk, returned to the apartment. She discovered the burglar ransacking her room. Screaming, she fled to the office of the building superintendent. Detectives were summoned. Mrs. Spengel's jewels were found to be missing and the only trace of the burglar was a red wig, found on the fire escape at the rear of the apartment.

Who Shall Come After You?

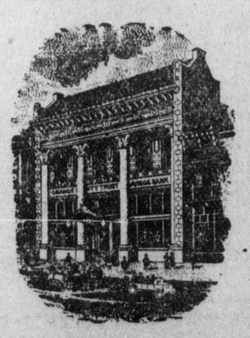

What would happen to your property if you were to die tonight?

What you have has cost you much in self-denial and hard work. You are preserving it now. Who will preserve it when you are gone?

You will leave some business problems behind you. Who will solve them? Perhaps you have a going business. Can that go on indefinitely without the watchful hand and eye of an owner over it? Who will conduct it until it may be disposed of without loss?

You should answer all these questions; answer them now—by writing your will and selecting and naming the prudent, experienced organization of this Trust Company, as your executor.

TOMORROW'S ATTRACTIONS

TEMPLE — "Men," with Pola Negri.

YOST—Vaudeville and "Loving Lies," with Monte Blue.

WALKER—"The Mask of Lopez," with Fred Thomson.

WEST END—"Boy of Mine," with Ben Alexander.

"WHEN A GIRL LOVES" CLOSES TONIGHT.

C. R. Wallace, associate director of "When A Girl Loves," the present attraction at the Temple theater, suggests that Vic increase the company's overhead by providing all the cast with roller skates.

No, it isn't a kiddie comedy, but sets for the production were spread all over the four stages at the Hollywood studios, and, by the time the players made a few trips back and forth, they were too exhausted to play anything but bedroom scenes.

"THE WHITE MOTH" CLOSES AT YOST TONIGHT.

Gay Paree, its glamorous night life, the theater, the brilliant Bal des Artistes, a beautiful dancer known as The White Moth, who is the idol of the stage, an extraordinary romance—these are some of the chief ingredients that went into the making of "The White Moth," the picture closing at the Yost theater tonight.

Two young American millionaires, brothers, visit Paris, and one of them, who is already engaged, falls in love with The White Moth. The other, in order to prevent the marriage, weds her himself, and the same day leaves his bride. This is the unusual situation that brings about what is said to be one of the most novel of denouements ever screened.

Barbara La Marr has the title role as The White Moth and in it she is said to give the screen her best characterization. Conway Tearle, co-featured with her, portrays the brother who goes through the marriage ceremeny. The other brother is played by Ben Lyon.

"LOVING LIES" ON YOST SCREEN TOMORROW

In the development of the climax of the story Miss Brent is aboard a ship which is being battered by the storm as it sways helplessly on the rocks. The script demanded that she be tied in a breeches-buoy and pulled along the life line from the mast of the sinking ship to the top of a high cliff on shore.

Half way along the life line the rope broke and Miss Brent, who insisted on doing the scene herself, fell into the water. Waves dashed over her head and frantically Monte Blue pulled at the rope to get her ashore. After some work the buoy, with Miss Brent, reached the bottom of the cliff where, fearing that she might have been hurt, Director Buchanan ordered the cameras to stop before Miss Brent was to be pulled to the top of the cliff.

But Miss Brent would not pause and pulled at the rope for Mr. Blue to finish the scenes without a stop.

DANCING BEAUTY AT WALKER'S TOMORROW

"Every woman should be beautiful," says Miss Edna Torrence, who comes to Walker's theater tomorrow with a group of classic dances. Absence of beauty is inexcusable, according to Miss Torrence, for she asserts that beauty is attainable by dancing.

"Beauty is not only a matter of line and color," declares Miss Torrence, "but depends greatly on how line and colors are used. Arms that are regular in line gradually become rounded and curved in motion and repose through using free, large, relaxing movements. A few minutes daily; better still, five minutes each day, is the practice to be followed.

"The swan like-throat is simply the results of dancing which involves the bending back of the head. The supple spine is like-wise to be acquired by dancing exercises, although it is the most difficult of all to acquire. Freedom of hip movement observed in my dances is to be gained through the simple skipping and leaping exercises.

"The classic dance, with its big free action, increases circulation of abdominal organs, stimulates digestion and breaks down any superfluous flesh at the waist and hips. Beauty of the feet is to be gained by dancing bare-footed, the toes thus taking the natural lines intended."

"THE MASK OF LOPEZ" AT WALKER'S TOMORROW

Just a line or two to acquaint you with the very remarkable record of Fred Thomson, star in "The Mask of Lopez," that appears at the Walker theater tomorrow. Thomson held the world's all-around athletic championship for three years and established the following record for each event:

100 yards—10 2-4 seconds; putting 16 lb. shot—43 feet, 8 1-2 inches; high jump—5 feet, 9 7-8 inches; half mile walk—3 minutes, 32 second; throwing 16 lb. hammer—128 feet; pole vault—10 feet, 9 inches; 120 yard hurdles—15 4-5 second; broad jump—21 feet, 9 inches; throwing 56 lb. weight—28 feet, 7 inches; mile run—5 minutes, 30 seconds.

This record was made in a single afternoon with only five minute intervals between each event.

You will agree after viewing this versatile chap in his latest and best thriller, "The Mask of Lopez," that his versatility, coupled with his great personality, makes him a leader.

TARKINGTON LAUDS ACTING OF BEN ALEXANDER

"I never dreamed that it would be possible to cast a real 'Penrod' in my stories of that American boy," Booth Tarkington, author of the famous "Penrod" stories, declared in commenting upon the role as it is filled by Ben Alexander, youthful movie star.

"But Ben Alexander upsets my theory. He has been able to stay a true American Boy—a 'regular feller'—and also accomplish things in a dramatic way. The answer must be that Ben is naturally an actor; perhaps his dramatic training took the place in his life of the attic, or the pirates' den. Whatever it is, he is so much the 'Penrod' of my brain that I could not have written my stories differently even if I had met Ben first and molded after him."

No higher tribute to Ben's portrayal of "Penrod" could be paid him. And now it is Ben's turn to reciprocate to Tarkington. Having made a great success of his role in "Penrod and Sam," Ben in appearing in "Boy of Mine," another Booth Tarkington story, showing at the West End.

POLA NEGRI FILM DUE AT TEMPLE TOMORROW

Robert W. Frazier has "walked home" oftener than any other actor.

Heading the cast of Pola Negri's latest starring picture, "Men," which opens at the Temple theater tomorrow; the popular young lead remembers the days when he played in stock.

"My efforts to succeed as an actor seemed doomed to fail," says Frazer. "Four four years I tried to establish myself behind the footlights through the aid of traveling stock companies. In that time I was engaged dozens of times. Every company went broke, leaving me stranded and forced to walk back to my home where I was glad to resume my job in a grocery store. Once I lived for four days on a ten cent can of beans."

"YANKEE MADNESS" CLOSES AT WALKER TONIGHT

Dashing caballeros, smirking half-breeds, winsome senoritas, fighting, dancing and wooing all find a place in "Yankee Madness," which closes at Walker's theater tonight.

"Yankee Madness" opens with a fascinating bit of action showing a daring automobile rescue, George Larkin, as Richard Morton, leaping from a fast moving car into another to rescue Billie Dove, as Delores, daughter of the President of Sevilla. From here on the action moves swiftly and in an interesting manner to the very end.

WARNING ISSUED AGAINST BUBBLES

Gold Bricks Being Sold In Ne wIndustry

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, May 31—Prominent radio manufacturers have joined in warning amateurs and other radio fans against losses that might be incurred by accepting any new radio proposition.

According to these leaders in the industry, it was estimated, nearly 2000 radio corporations were organized within a few months. Yet it is believed a small percentage of these will be successful.

Gold bricks are being sold almost daily, in this industry, with promises of fabulous profits. Inexperienced enthusiasts become imbued with the idea that if one set can be built for a certain price, a number can be produced for less... And so they fall.

According to the manufacturers' statistics, at least 37 per cent of the sets built must be rejected when they come to final test. Amateurs make "discoveries" already patented and find themselves in a tangle if they try to develop their idea.

BASEBALL BOOSTER

Contrary to former belief, baseball magnates of Atlanta have finally admitted that radio has increased their gate receipts. This was done by maintaining interest among those who could not attend regularly and creating many new fans.

Uruguay is showing keen interest in radio.

He Has the Bug

Congressman Fred H. Dominick of South Carolina has the fever. His set is in his office at the capitol and most of his spare time he spends listening in.

LOW POWER RECORD

Station WBBG, at Mattapoisett, Mass., claims a distance record among low-power broadcasters. Transmitting on 250 watts, using storage batteries alone for power, WBBG has been reported heard in England and on the Pacific Coast.

RADIO CALL SYSTEM

A system of bell calls, similar to the telephone apparatus, has been devised by Lewis M. Clement, Western Electric engineer. Radio fans may soon be installing it on their sets.

Clifford Arner of Orangeville, O., has a record of having received 147 different broadcasters.

WEST MAY LISTEN IN BY PROXY!

By NEA Service

CLEVELAND, O., May 31 — Twelve broadcasting stations scattered over the east and middle west of the United States will broadcast the Republican convention from Cleveland, beginning June 10, and at least one more will pick up a broadcast and hurl it out to the coast.

This is the program, almost adopted, by which the people of America will be in constant touch with the delegates at the Republican convention here listening to speeches, yells and applause, to all the noises and hullabaloo that accompanies a political gathering of this kind.

The committee in charge of broadcasting is lining up stations in the following cities:

Connected by Line

The plan is to connect the stations in these cities by telephone wire direct from the convention hall here. Microphones will pick up the speeches, the shouting, the hand-clapping and all, transmit them by wire to the stations all at the same time, to be broadcast almost the same moment throughout the United States.

For farther west, the Westinghouse company is planning to rebroadcast the convention proceedings from KFKX at Hastings, Neb., so htat the whole coast may not miss the "big doings."

Snice station KDKA at East Pittsburg, Pa., will be one of the 12 getting direct service from Cleveland, it is planned to pick this up and transmit it to KFKX on a short wave, while it will be broadcast at the same time on the higher broadcasting wave.

In Cleveland, stations WTAM, WJAX and WHK will pick up every bit of the proceedings in shifts, so that nothing of the convention will be passed up. The same arrangement may be tried in the other cities, where there are two or more stations.

For Outsiders

The crowd around the convention hall will be able to hear everything going on through the installation of a highly powerful loud speaker arrangement—the kind used when Lloyd George spoke here a few months ago. The system itself will p.kedOll ce shrdshrdlucmfwyppyp become the property of Cleveland, for use during other affairs at the auditorium.

At the same time three of Cleveland's newspapers will install similar systems fo rtheir own crowds. As these are stationed within a few blocks of the convention hall, the whole downtown area may resound with G. O. P. yells.

Engineers of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Western Elecrtic Company believe the same broadcasting stations and the same system will be used for transmitting the doings of the Democratic convention in New York, beginning June 24.

WASHINGTON, May 24 — Lee De Forest, famous radio engineer, has been established as the real inventor of the three-element radio tube as well as the feed back and regenerative receiving circuit.
This has come about by a decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, to which suits covering these patents had been brought. It nullifies the claims of Edwin H. Armstrong, Alexander Meissner, German radio expert, and Irving Langmuir of the General Electric Company.

COUNTY MOTORS REGISTRATION HITS SLUMP IN APRIL

343 SALES REPORTED

Hoof and Mouth Disease Is Blamed For Southland's Heaviest Decline

According to registration figures for April, 1924, compiled by the Motor Registration News of Oakland, Orange county suffered a decrease of 46 per cent in registration of automobiles and trucks as compared with the same month of the previous year. The sales here for last month were 343 cars and trucks as against 644 for April, 1923.

Southern California showed a loss of 27 per cent while sales in Northern California declined 16 per cent. The average decline for the state was 22 per cent.

Registration for the state last month totalled 17,093 cars and trucks, and for the same month the previous year it was 22,215 or a loss of 5,122 motor vehicles. In presenting the result of its investigation for 1924 as compared with 1923, the News says:

Northern California suffered a 16 per cent loss in selling 7,702 cars and trucks, compared to 9,259 cars and trucks during April of 1923.

Southern California received its toughest jolt in netting a 27 per cent loss in April, 1924, contrasted to its April, 1923, record. Last month in Southern California 9,391 vehicles were registered, compared to 12,956 cars and trucks in April of last year.

State Suffers Loss

Passenger car sales in the state suffered a 22 per cent loss, as the comparison of 15,635 passenger car registrations last month show, in contrast to 20,190 passenger cars during April of 1923.

"In Northern California the passenger car loss amounted to 15 per cent. Seventy-one hundred and twenty-nine passenger cars

Consideration For Other Drivers Asked

With the season for vacations again here, J. B. Glaze, secretary of the Orange County Automobile Trade association, today said that motorists seem to have taken a vacation from all forms of politeness.

"The motorist bawls out the pedestrian, the pedestrian cordially roasts the motorist, and the traffic cop roars at both," commented thesecretary.

"The driver unmercifully berates the befuddled pedestrian who tried to cross the street with his eyes closed, and multiplies his curses when he turns them on the fellow motorist who stopped suddenly without giving a signal.

"Then the traffic cop joins in the general ill-tempered chorus, and thus does the motor car contribute its share toward spoiling the day for all concerned.

"A little more consideration for the other fellow, whether he's a pedestrian, traffic cop or fellow motorist, wouldn't do any of us any harm."

WEIGHT TAX ON ALL CARS MAY BE ADOPTED

Marsh Will Oppose Scheme Until State Needs More Highway Maintenance

Will H. Marsh, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, in a public statement, today had voiced his belief that a weight fee should be established for all types of motor vehicles if it should develop that the state highway commission should have more money for highway maintenance than is available from the gasoline tax and the registration fee.

Approval was given this suggestion here today by a prominent member of one of the automobile clubs. The latter said he could see no reason for an increase in the revenues, but that if an increase is necessary the weight fee plan offered an equitable plan for distribution of the costs of keeping up the boulevards.

Asserting that he believed in the principle of the gasoline tax, the division chief said he had not as yet favored an increase in the present rate of two cents a gallon, as the highway commission had made no report indicating a need of more funds.

Says Tax Best System

"I believe that the gas tax is the most equitable means yet devised for the raising of revenue for the maintenance of the state's highway system," Marsh says in his statement.

"As a supplemental system of raising revenue, if more be needed, instead of that at present employed which embraces a flat fee and a weight tax under many and divers classifications, I propose a weight tax at so much per hundred pounds for all vehicles regardless of kind, character or classification.

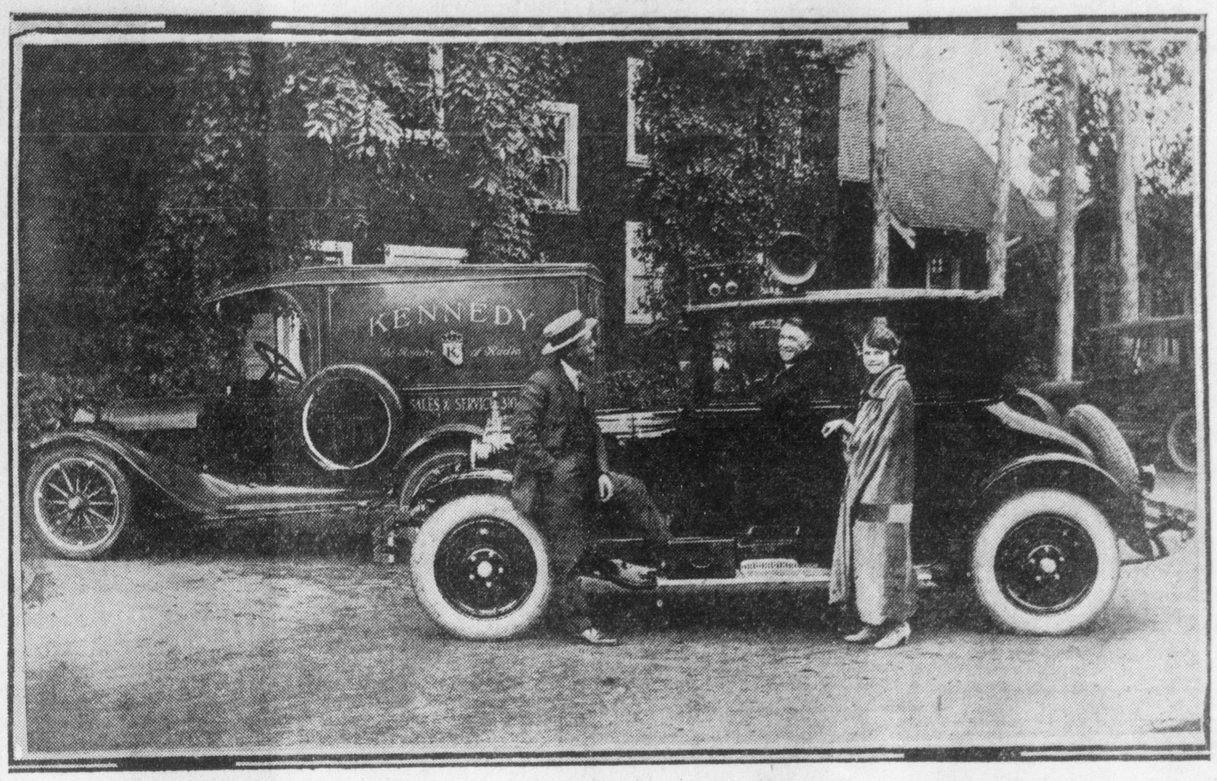

"I believe the employment of the two systems mentioned would give the state the best arrangement for raising highway maintenance money which it would be possible to employ.

"I have not yet favored an increase in the gas tax for the reason that no apparent need for increase has yet been shown by the California highway commission. The present tax will raise in excess of four million dollars of the amount which the commission estimated would be necessary for this purpose for the year 1924."

EXECUTIVES TO GREET 38 ON ROAD TOUR

Governors of five states will welcome in behalf of their respective commonwealths the thirty-eight delegates from Latin-American countries who, during June, are to make a field study of highways and highway transportation in the United States as guests of the Highway Education board, a study of the three weeks' itinerary discloses.

States which the delegates will traverse include in order Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Twenty Latin-American countries are to the represented in the group which will be conducted by Highway Education board officials through these several states of the union on the most unique road tour in the history of the country.

After two days of entertainment in Washington, June 2 and 3, during which they will be received by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes, the delegates will leave for Raleigh, North Carolina, the first stop on the itinerary.

Dogs Bring Slash In Insurance Rate

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Reductions of from five to ten per cent in insurance rates have been announced by a leading insurance company on residence risks where a dog is kept, it was onnounced here today.

"Man's friend, the dog, is the best burglar alarm that ever has been devised," the announcement said.

O. A. Haley, county distributor for Dodge Brothers' cars, and W. V. Peeling, proprietor of the Kennedy Radio Sales and Service company, 316 Spurgeon street, today had completed the formation of of what could be properly termed a "self-admiration association," for Haley had sold to Peeling two vehicles of the Dodge Brothers' line and Peeling had sold to Haley a Kennedy radio—and both are satisfied.

Declaring that Dodge Brothers' four-passenger coupe offers all the comfort in the world for short or long tours, Haley said the Kennedy radio offers all the satisfaction in the world in the matter of receiving radio entertainment programs.

Peeling added the interesting statement that a Kennedy portable may be carried on tours and put in service by throwing a wire over a tree and grounding it on the car.

"Dodge Brothers' cars and the Kennedy radio are nationally known products and both are popular because of their sturdiness," Peeling said.

"The coupe manufactured by Dodge Brothers was designed and produced to meet the very definite need for a type of car of convenient size that would comfortably carry two, three or four passengers," said Haley. "The seating arrangement is staggered, with a real seat of folding design at the side of the driver. The driver's seat is so designed that there is ample room on the left and the driver sits behind the wheel, not at an angle. The seats are built low, providing ample leg room.

"The car as built is attractive in appearance and conforms in every detail to modern design. The observance of detail in the painting, trimming and hardware has produced a finished car that is an attractive addition to the standard types which Dodge Brothers' now furnish."

ISSUE WARNING AGAINST FIRE IN FORESTS

Eastern motorists who are beginning to invade this section by thousands should be warned personally against carelessness with fire in the national forests, according to announcement by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. It is pointed out that while residents of this section are familiar with conditions and know that the long dry season makes extra precautions necessary, the stranger does not realize the danger of leaving camp fires burning and carelessly throwing away lighted matches or burning cigarettes.

"One tree will make a million matches—one match will destroy a million trees," is the lesson that should be impressed on all the motorists entering the national forests and other sections where the dry undergrowth readily ignites and quickly gets beyond control. This situation entails constant thoughtfulness and every resident motorist is urged to impress personally the lesson upon visitors from other sections.

There are nearly 20,000,000 acres in the nineteen national forests of California, the scenic beauties of which are open to the public. The only provision that Uncle Sam makes as host is that the visitors be extremely careful with their camp fires and matches, and that they refrain from polluting streams and scattering rubbish.

LAY PLANS FOR CONFEDERATE EXERCISES

Plans were being completed today to secure a speaker for the Confederate memorial services to be held at Birch park Tuesday, June 3, beginning at 9:30 a. m., when all Southerners are expected to gather with flowers for the decoration of Confederate veterans' graves in Fairhaven cemetery.

The Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial church, was to have been the speaker, but his recovery from a recent automobile accident has been too slow to allow him to be present, so another speaker has to be secured.

Plans announced include the program during the forenoon followed by the visit to the cemetery where, with appropriate ceremonies, the flowers will be placed on the veterans' graves. Returning to Birch park, the Dixie folk will join in a basket picnic dinner at 12:30 o'clock and spend thhe afternoon enjoying the park surroundings and reminiscing of days in the old South.

S. A. MERCHANT HEADING EAST NOW IN NEB.

"Spring is late in Eastern Nebraska and Western Iowa, but the country is looking fine. The general business outlook has improved considerably over what it was two years ago, when I visited in this territory."

"Found the roads across the desert very fair and the thermometer registering at 105 degrees," said the veteran hardware merchant.

Arriving at Searchlight, Nev. the following day the Santa Anans not only had to submit to a thorough fumigation but to give up to the guards three dozen oranges and twenty-five pounds of walnuts they were taking to relatives.

"Giving us a clean bill of health, the authorities sent us on our way to Cedar City, Utah, by way of Los Vegas, St. Thomas, and St. George," Nickey continued. "From Cedar City we went to Salt Lake City, arriving at the latter point at the end of the fourth day, our speedometer registering 800 miles from Santa Ana.

"We reached Evanston, Wyo. the night of the fifth day and at noon of the following day arrived at Rock Springs, Wyo., where we passed the afternoon and night with friends. The end of the following day found us at Laramie, Wyo. The night was very different from those we had passed on the desert, for thick ice was in evidence. Two days later we arrived at Omaha, after traveling 1995 miles.

"I was not trying for a record but my driving time of eight days indicates that the roads are good and that we did not loaf along the way. Had no punctures or motor trouble of any kind. We hope to reach the eastern coast with as good a report."

DEAFNESS HELD NO HINDRANCE TO SAFENESS OF HIGHWAY PASSENGERS

Affliction Declared Aid, Not Drawback, to Care In Driving Autos

EYE WEAKNESS WORSE

Exercises to Test Power of Vision Suggested By Specialist

By HORACE FINE
(Auto Editor The Register

Signing himself, "Partly Deaf," a correspondent of the automobile editor today gave approval to suggested requirement that men and women with defective vision should not be permitted to drive automobiles. And while giving approval to this feature, he declares that deaf drivers are the safest operators that drive the highways of the state.

His comments have to do with announcement recently by Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the state motor vehicle division, that he would suggest to the next legislature an amendment to the motor vehicle act providing for examination of applicants for operators' licenses.

"I have ridden with drivers who were totally deaf and I never have ridden with more careful drivers," comments "Partly Deaf."

And then opening up another criticism, he asserts that we "now have too many road laws and not officers enough to enforce them."

Continuing, he says: "If a drunken or reckless driver were barred from the operation of a car, and his machine taken from him the first time he is convicted, the highways in six months would be safe for all drivers. I am partly deaf, but I have for forty-five years ridden all kinds of horses and driven all kinds of machines in all kinds of places and never have had an accident."

Observes Traffic Rules

I will agree with my correspondent that a driver who is hard of hearing may be a safe driver. A person with that affliction usually is a keen observer of traffic regulations and "sticks" to his side of the road because he is cognizant of the fact that he cannot hear a machine approaching from the rear or from his right or left. He is not as dangerous as the driver with poor vision, or poor judgment as to distance or speed of an approaching machine.

I quoted recently from tests by Dr. W. B. Needles, president of the Northern Illinois College of Ophthalmology and Otology, in which he told that portion of a crowd on a street a man would see who possessed only one-fourth vision.

Find Many Unfit

"Even the most superficial examination of those who apply for drivers' licenses reveal hundreds of cases where applicants are totally unsafe to conduct a motor car through city traffic."

It is possible that defective eyesight has had something to do with the tremendous increase in deaths annually from motor vehicle accidents. The increase has been from 598 in 1907 to 15,700 in 1923.

The American Automobile association is not concerning itself with an investigation of automobile accident a fatality causes and hopes to reduce the annual toll of deaths by concentration of thought on the subject of accident prevention by motorists.

According to Thomas P. Henry, president of the association, analyses by experts of accident causes has revealed that bad street lighting is very largely responsible for many city accidents at night.

"The matter of recklessness is were registered in Northern California last month, against 8,483 passenger cars during April of 1923.

"Southern California slumped last month in passenger car registration to the extent of 27 per cent in selling 8,506 passenger cars, against 11,707 passenger cars during April of the previous year.

"Truck sales also decreased. The loss in commercial vehicle sales amounted to 28 per cent. The trouble was 1,458 truck sales in contrast to 2,025 truck sales in April of a year ago. Northern California lost 26 per cent in truck sales, and sold 573, compared to 776.

"Southern California lost 29 per cent, and had a total truck registration of 885, against 1,249 in April last year.

Outlook Brightens

"In spite of the heavy decrease in both automobile and truck registrations in the state, the outlook for the coming month has taken on a much brighter view than was apparent thirty days ago. The hoof and mouth disease has been charged with about every business ill which has affected commercial conditions in California.

"The epidemic is now about at an end. That statement issued by Secretary of Agriculture Weller was to the effect that all remaining quarantine restrictions in California would be removed by a period not much later than June 1, if not some time before that date. Though few question the seriousness of this scourge, the actual damage suffered from a monetary standpoint was much smaller than the pessimists loudly declared a month ago it would amount to before it had been curbed. The official figures given out by the state of California show that approximately 77,000 head of cattle were destroyed during the time the disease was laying its greatest damage. Valuation on this number is estimated at a sum slightly under the $6,000,000 figure.

"Interior counties suffered in passenger car sales, partly because of the hoof and mouth disease, and in many of these the comeback has already started, for in the last two weeks passenger car sales have picked up at a healthy rate, and reports on the interior sections are to the effect that sales should continue at a reasonably brisk pace for the next two or three months.

Heaviest Loss In Months

"Southern California shows up with the heaviest loss it has registered in many months, and Los Angeles county, heretofore the bright spot in the United States to all kinds of business depressions, met with the largest percentage drop it has experienced during the last five years of the automotive industry. Here again a return to normalcy ought to be effected at a very early date, for nothing can permanently stop the progress and prosperity of this energetic community.

"Some of the smaller Northern California counties are proceeding at an undisturbed pace, and will apparently complete the year 1924 with healthy gains in sales over like totals registered during 1923.

"The motor truck industry is affected in almost the same degree as has been the passenger car branch of the automotive trade.

Losses in the truck field, amounting last month to 28 per cent, were uniformly distributed throughout the state, the north, as figures in the table following show, dropped 26 per cent, while Southern California slumped to the amount of 29 per cent."

Girl Golf Champ Engaged to Wed

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Announcement of the engagement of Miss Doreen Kavanagh, California women's golf champion, and W. W. Campbell, of Long Beach, also a lover of the sport, today brought congratulations from many friends of the couple, made on the golf links. Miss Kavanagh has been four times state champion, while Campbell, an oil and real estate man, has competed for state honors as well. The wedding will occur in June.

not entirely up to those who are guilty of lawlessness," Henry said. "A large percentage of accidents would, of course, be done away with if law-defying motorists would turn over a new leaf. They are not likely to do this, and that is why the rank and file of motorists must take a hand in the situation and assist various organizations, such as the association, in cleaning up the reckless minority single handed."

Dr. Henry suggests the following for eye test and exercise:

"To test your eyes select two pictures or other objects 15 feet apart and in the same plane. Stand midway between the pictures 10 feet from the wall on which they hang. Have a friend time you for exactly 10 seconds.

"At the word 'Go' start shifting your eyes from one picture to the other as rapidly as you can and continue the movements until time is called.

"The normal count is 20 oscillations in 10 seconds. Few eyes are capable of as high as 24 to 26, but more fall below 20.

"To exercise your eyes take your position once more between the pictures, rotate your eyes from one to the other 10 times, as rapidly as possible. Close them while you count five, then open and move them up and down as far as possible in each direction so as to exercise the verticle muscles. Do this 10 times, then close the lids, count five, open and repeat the side-to-side movement.

"These exercises should continue for three minutes at a time, at least twice each day, preferably on rising and retiring. Every few days repeat the test by the watch and note the increase in speed.

"Keep up the exercises until you are capable of 24 oscillations in 10 seconds. This allows for a slight slump which may follow discontinuance."

CHARITY PATIENT HAS $6600, CLAIM

SEATTLE, May 31.—After receiving 18 months' free treatment at the City hospital on the representation that he was penniless, Lazo Kangera, aged blind pencil peddler, on the operating table, was revealed at the possessor of at least $6600.

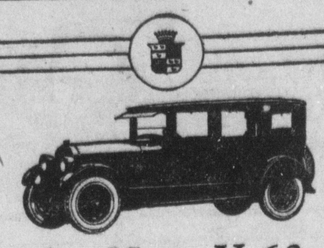

Kangera, 60 years old, an Austrian, has been receiving treatment at the hospital for an internal ailment, and an operation for appendicitis was decided upon.

As Kangera was about to be put under the anaesthetic, he called George W. Gray, an orderly, to one side and handed him a large wallet, asking him to hide it. The wallet contained $60 in cash and deposit books from various banks showing deposits totaling $6600.

Gray reported the incident to the physician in charge, the projected operation was abruptly halted and Kangera sent to the Seattle General hospital, where he later underwent the operation.

Kangera has been a familiar figure about Seattle office buildings for many years on his rounds selling pencils and accepting donations. He lives at 718 Sixth avenue South, according to the hospital records. At every visit to the hospital, nurses said, he referred to himself as "just a poor old penniless blind man," and had enlisted general sympathy on account of his apparently poverty stricken condition.

"The Car for Everyone" says noted "MOTOR" authority

The New Essex possesses many qualities which I did not believe could be incorporated in a closed car selling for $975.

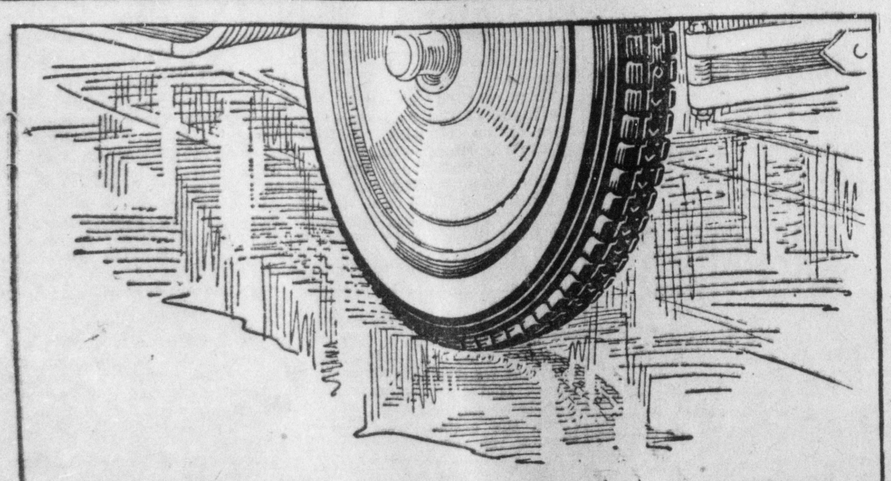

"It is a type long needed in this country. It possesses grace and beauty, can travel at sustained high speed without passenger discomfort, is surprisingly economical to operate and does not cost much to buy.

"It is unusually smooth, accelerates better than the previous Essex, which is saying a great deal, and is 'the' car for everyone."—H. A. Tarantous, in MOTOR.

Here Comes the Hurdy-Gurdy Man

SOME magic day when June comes over the hill to fill the world with joy as old as time, you will hear the muffled notes of songs we used to sing.

The greatest music in the world—the sound of happy children's voices—a hurdy gurdy in a quiet street—a swarthy grinder and a wonder woman with a tambourine.

On such a day, when happy hills are green, step into the Jordan—the car of personality and charm. There lies the thrill that goes with the gallop of a thoroughbred horse.

It is such a good looking car—comfortable in a way that fascinates and never tires—economical as all things of quality must be—reliable to the point of inspiring confidence that is rare.

Punch, speed and performance that allow you to go and go as fast as you dare to drive.

There is a value in the Jordan which makes it the envy of the people you pass on the road.

There is a value in the Jordan which makes it sought after by those intelligent people who will buy your car after years of service, at a price far above the average paid for any other car in its class.

Only Jordan owners fully realize what I am talking about.

Thousands of others will realize it this year.

Why Oakland's Chassis is more advanced

(1) Oakland's new L-head engine is a masterpiece of light-six engineering. It incorporates the very latest developments in motor design.

(2) The transmission is a unit with the engine. Gears of the finest alloy steel and liberal ball bearings, insure quiet and long life. Gear shifting is actually a pleasure.

(3) The rugged, drop-forged, "I" beam front axle was purposely designed for this car. Its correct construction insures easy steering and safe driving.

(4) Oakland's semi-floating rear axle is the last word in axle design. Its nickel steel gears, Hyatt and New Departure Bearings and spiral bevel gear drive make it silent and efficient.

(5) Oakland's four-wheel brakes are built into the chassis. Many months of service by tens of thousands of owners prove conclusively that this construction is most necessary and desirable.

(6) Oakland's frame is of pressed steel, 5-32 of an inch thick and is rigidly braced with five cross members. In comparing frames, do not neglect the fact that the thickness of the steel is very important.

(7) The steering gear is unequalled for easy and convenient driving. All engine controls, as well as horn button and lighting controls, are mounted on the steering wheel, an exclusive feature.

(8) Demountable disc steel wheels—five of them—are standard equipment on all models. On most cars you pay extra for them.

Long, easy-riding springs; Harrison radiator with heavily nickeled shell; completely enclosed universal joints and tubular drive shaft are other important features.

Examine the Oakland Six yourself. You will then understand why the True Blue Oakland is being chosen by so many who have decided to get the most and the best for their money this year.

HUMOROUS ROAD SAFETY RULES GOOD ADVICE

"Bugs" Baer, well known newspaper humorist, has written and published a series of "road signs," probably merely intended to entertain. But many of them might be erected with benefit to the safety of traffic.

"Don't run up your mileage with skids," contains a lot of real caution in tabloid form. "Don't do your thinking with your brakes," will strike a responsive chord in every man who has had near-nervous prostration at the sight of the reckless driver stopping in a hurry. "There are three grades of eggs, but only one grade of crossing and that's dangerous," ought to be pasted in the hat of all those who try to "beat the train across its right of way.

The glass in your windshield is the same stuff they put in hospital windows. Which will you look through?" is a very pertinent query, and "Fifteen miles an hour may be a chill but fifty is fever," is not too medical to be understood.

To towns troubled with too much speeding by tourists, Baer suggests "Speed limit in this town fifteen miles an hour. One day for every mile over that!" or "We have seven hotels and one jail, take your pick!"

"Don't try to scare locomotives with your horn." "The minute you save may be your last one." "You wouldn't travel on a freight train, so don't try to travel under one," are all good to remember.

Baer intended to be funny, and succeeded; he may not have intended to be serious, but many take his cleverness seriously with benefit to themselves and the general public.

In other words (Baer once more), "Accident insurance is a good thing to have without the accident."

Practical Notes On S. S. Lesson

BY CAL OGBURN

Lesson for June 1
2nd Chron. 36:11-21
THE BABYLONIAN EXILE OF JUDAH

"Zedekiah was twenty and one years old when he began to reign; and he reigned eleven years."—verse 11.

Zedekiah's was a hard place to fill. He was king of Judah, but in name only. Placed on the throne by Nebuchadnezzar, he was his vassal. He had no independence of thought or action in ruling his people. He had taken the oath of allegiance to the king of Babylon, from whom he received orders and instructions. Judah had been impoverished to pay tribute first to Egypt and then to Babylon. Furthermore, "the king of Babylon carried away all Jerusalem, and all the princes, and all the mighty men of valour, even ten thousand captives, and all the craftsmen and the smiths; none remained, save the poorest sort of the people of the land."

When Nebuchadnezzar placed this young man on the throne of Judah, he even asserted his authority to the extent of arbitrarily changing his name from Mattaniah—meaning, gift of Jehovah—to Zedekiah—justice of Jehovah—the latter, seemingly at least, having a sarcastic significance. In truth, the young king of Judah could not so much as say that his life was his own. Indeed his was a hard place to fill.

And yet, circumscribed as he was, denied his independence, hard as the place was that he occupied, he still had the inalienable right of choice—just as every man has, no matter in what position he may be forced by circumstances. Zedekiah had left to him the right to choose between good and evil. No king, no matter how great his power or arbitrary his disposition, could take away from him that privilege. God invariably sees to it that this right—the birthright of every man—can never be taken away from him, or even abridged. And how we wish we might say that Zedekiah never violated that God-given right. But it is recorded of him that "he did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah."

If a young man—or any man, for that matter—is in a trying position, as was Zedekiah, his first thought and purpose should be to do what is right in the sight of God. He who fails here cuts himself off from the only source of dependable help. When a man is in a hard place and honors God, in some way and at some time God will reward him. Call Joseph and Daniel and a myriad others to witness. The man who forgets God is the one whom God leaves to his own devices.

If a young man ever had need of the counsel of Supreme Wisdom and the help of the Omnipotent, it was Zedekiah. Now do not leave that statement without heeding its suggestion. Every young man has a like obligation resting upon him. For every young man, whether he recognizes it or not, is in a trying position of some kind. And all young men are kings. Not a petty, poverty-stricken province, as was Zedekiah, but of the rich and extensive, but undeveloped, kingdom of self. Great is the realm over which he rules. Here he is no vassal, but an ego. What wonderful possibilities are his! How marvelously he may develop, under God, the resources of that kingdom, all of which is his. Then never let it be recorded concerning you that "he did that which was evil in the sight of Jehovah."

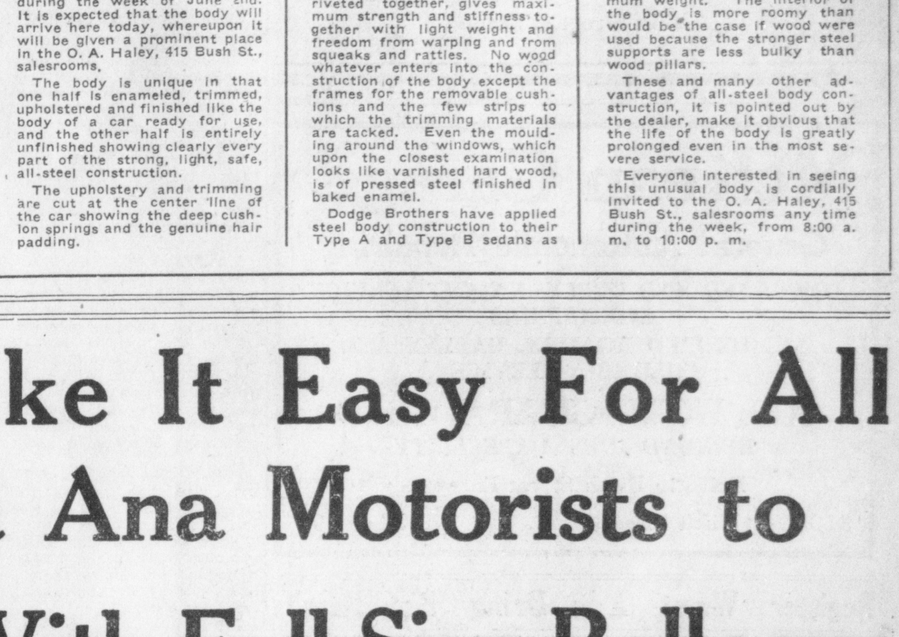

"He humbled not himself before Jeremiah and the prophet speaking from the mouth of Jehovah. And he also rebelled against King Nebachadnezzar, who had made him swear by God."—verses 12, 13.

When there is no respect for God, there is no regard for men. The man to whom God is without authority will not accept the counsel of those whose advice is of great value to him, and neither will he observe with fidelity that to which he has sworn. Zedekiah is only one of thousands to whom this applies. The first and last test of a man is his attitude towards God. To him who believes that God is not supreme in authority, his oath, though made in the name of God, he regards as of no binding force. A promise made by the man who denies his allegiance to God is of no value whatever. If it suits his convenience, he will abrogate it. That which binds men together, more than all other things, is their faithful obedience to the just laws of the God and Father of all.

Had Nebuchadnezzar known that Zedekiah was disregarding the counsel of Jeremiah the good and wise prophet of God, and doing what did not meet with God's approval, he would have known by that very token that he would not keep his promises to him. And in the same way everyone now may know, beyond any question, those whose promises may and may not be fully relied upon. Take at a great discount the word of him who is untrue to God, and who ignores the counsel of men who are good and wise. Such a man is not to be trusted.

"Therefore he brought upon them the king of the Chaldeans, who slew their young men with the sword in the house of their sanctuary, and had no compassion upon young man or virgin, old man or hoary-headed."—verse 17.

There is sooner or later a place in the career of every sinful man and in the history of every sinful nation where the patience of God ceases, and the avenger is permitted to have his way. Such a place is marked by "therefore", or its equivalent. Then the culprit begins to pay the penalty of his wrong-doing, and it continues, in proportion to the magnitude of his transgression, till all is paid. On the track of every evil-doer, be he man or nation, small or great, is the Nemesis of retribution, and God will see to it that vengeance is not outwitted. "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsover a man soweth; that shall he also reap."

Unusual Body Displayed Here!

ADVANTAGES OF ALL-STEEL CONSTRUCTION IN CLOSED CARS REVEALED BY NOVEL EXHIBIT

DODGE BROTHERS DEALER TO SHOW BODY WHICH ATTRACTED WIDE ATTENTION AT NATIONAL AUTO SHOWS

O. A. Haley, the local Dodge Brothers dealer, was notified today by Dodge Brothers that the half-skeleton steel body which attracted so much attention in the educational exhibit held by Dodge Brothers in connection with the New York, Chicago and San Francisco shows, will be available for local display during the week of June 2nd. It is expected that the body will arrive here today, whereupon it will be given a prominent place in the O. A. Haley, 415 Bush St., salesrooms.

The body is unique in that one half is enameled, trimmed, upholstered and finished like the body of a car ready for use, and the other half is entirely unfinished showing clearly every part of the strong, light, safe, all-steel construction.

The upholstery and trimming are cut at the center line of the car showing the deep cushion springs and the genuine hair padding.

The finished side of the body shows a fine, smooth, lustrous surface. The reputation for retaining newness of appearance after years of service is the result of Dodge Brothers' process of baking the enamel at high temperature.

The unfinished half shows how the frame, consisting of pressed steel parts welded and riveted together, gives maximum strength and stiffness together with light weight and freedom from warping and from squeaks and rattles. No wood whatever enters into the construction of the body except the frames for the removable cushions and the few strips to which the trimming materials are tacked. Even the moulding around the windows, which upon the closest examination looks like varnished hard wood, is of pressed steel finished in baked enamel.

Dodge Brothers have applied steel body construction to their Type A and Type B sedans as well as to the Business Coupe, Touring Car and Roadster. According to the local dealer, the fact that the body is built entirely of steel adds materially to the safety of the passengers, as it minimizes splinter and fire hazard. Moreover, steel construction is light, affording maximum strength with minimum weight. The interior of the body is more roomy than would be the case if wood were used because the stronger steel supports are less bulky than wood pillars.

These and many other advantages of all-steel body construction, it is pointed out by the dealer, make it obvious that the life of the body is greatly prolonged even in the most severe service.

Everyone interested in seeing this unusual body is cordially invited to the O. A. Haley, 415 Bush St., salesrooms any time during the week, from 8:00 a. m. to 10:00 p. m.

Parts You Never See

They Are The Heart And Soul Of Hupmobile Goodness

Behind the Hupmobile parts display on view in our salesroom lies the story of Hupmobile owner satisfaction.

These parts—which look no different from parts of lesser quality but actually are vastly different—are the heart and soul of all the good you hear about the Hupmobile.

In them is bound up the long life of the car—all its virtues of low costs and few replacements, of superior performance and high running economy.

The Hupp factory could use materials of lesser quality, it could manufacture them into parts at lower cost, if it chose.

But if that were to be done, the Hupmobile would sink to the dead level of motor cars, instead of being the superior automobile it is widely acknowledged to be.

BARNEY OLDFIELD NOW AUTO MANUFACTURER

Barney Oldfield at the wheel of the Oldfield car which the veteran racing driver is now manufacturing in Los Angeles. Oldfield is driving the first of the new cars across country to attend the Indianapolis 500 mile race.

Barney Oldfield has entered the ranks of the motor car manufacturers. The first Oldfield car is on the road to Indianapolis with Barney himself at the wheel, where he will as usual be present at the big Memorial day 500 mile race. The new Los Angeles plant of the Oldfield Motors corporation, which is to manufacture and market the Oldfield, is hard at work to fill orders that have already come in for the car which embodies twenty-two years of personal experience, which Barney Oldfield, the dean of all American racing drivers, has at last put into actual form in a motor car.

The first Oldfield, which Barney is driving, is a luxurious three passenger coupe with a body of distinctive and beautiful design. The motor is of the overhead valve type as might be expected from Oldfield's racing experience, and develops seventy-five horsepower. The wheel base of the car is 130 inches, giving it the necessary length for "roadability" and yet keeping it within the limits desirable for use in city traffic. The high radiator is very pleasing in appearance, and while there is ample headroom in the body of the car, the top has the appearance of being unusually low. Oldfield's long experience in streamlining cars for high speed work is plainly evident in the sweeping curves of the body lines.

ABANDON TYPES TO AID LOWER AUTO PRICES

Declaring that everywhere in the Hudson plant there has been a unanimous spirit of "a better car at a smaller price," Ray Townsend, of the R. W. Townsend Motor company, local Hudson-Essex dealer, said today that an important factor in the program of price reducing has been the cutting down of the number of car styles.

"At one time," Townsend said, "Hudson built its cars in eleven models and special attention, equipment and inspection which this involved necessarily brought about complications.

"It was decided to eliminate those body styles which had only a specialty appeal, and to concentrate on the types which had proved their broad popularity. These cars were made still more attractive to buyers because the savings due to simplification made it possible to establish a new low level of prices.

Thus, in the present Hudson-Essex line there are cars for practically every demand, yet the number of styles offered has been reduced more than 50 per cent from the maximum.

"There is no slow-selling model in the entire Hudson-Essex line and no car with simply a specialty market. Dealer profits are not tied up in cars difficult to move. The turnover of capital is rapid. Because Hudson has simplified its line, prices are so favorable that sales are doubly easy."

NASH APRIL OUTPUT BREAKS 1923 MARK

Business of the Nash Motors company so far this year has eclipsed the record for the same period in 1923, according to W. C. May, of the May Motor company, local Nash distributor. As indicating that the "spring rush" is now on in earnest, factory shipments for April substantially exceed shipments for the same period in 1923, May said.

"All plants of The Nash Motors company in Kenosha and Milwaukee, were in full production throughout April and when the month had ended the company still had a large number of unfilled orders," May said.

NEW BROUGHAM POPULAR WITH PAIGE MEN

More than five hundred Paige four-door broughams have been distributed among the dealers of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company within the first two weeks of the new model's existence, according to Jack Mabee, local Paige and Jewett dealer.

Mabee states that he has never before heard of any model in the quality motor car field which had been accorded a reception anywhere equalling that of the new Paige four-door brougham.

"In many cities of the United States formal announcement of the new model has not been made, yet hundreds of orders are being taken at private showings," Mabee said.

"The new four-door brougham is the most luxurious model of the new Paige. Its lines distinctly conform to the trend in body designs as reflected in some of the recent custom built bodies by the most prominent builders in this country.

"The body engineers of the Paige company were ordered to bring out a creation that would be well in advance of the coming production of the quality motor car manufacturers. The four-door brougham was the result of the effort made by the engineers to follow their orders."

OUTLINE MOTOR STANDARDS OF U. S. GROUPS

The standards which the motor groups in the United States have adopted for the taxation and regulation of cars and trucks were outlined by H. H. Rice, chairman of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce legislative committee and president of Cadillac Motor Car company, speaking before the World Motor Transport congress of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in Detroit last week.

According to Otto Haan, president of the Cadillac Garage company, Rice brought out that the motor vehicle owner, dealer and manufacturer organizations had worked together on these principles and had attempted to formulate a program which would be equitable and a public benefit, realizing that any other program would necessarily be short lived.

Among the principles which these associations have adopted are the following:

The original construction cost of improving highways should be borne by society-as-a-whole, including owners and non-owners of motor vehicles, all of whom benefit from the highways.

The state should be the sole taxation agency.

The total amount of special taxation should not exceed the sum of money necessary for the maintenance of the state and for the administration of the state motor vehicle department.

"In the matter of regulations of traffic, there is great diversity among the forty-eight states," said Haan. The motor vehicle conference committee, representing different organizations in the industry, has drawn up a set of uniform traffic regulations which it is recommending to the forty-eight bodies of law makers as a suggested standard. These points have to do with speed, when to slow down, passing another vehicle, signals, and similar matters."

1,000 MILES per GALLON!

Average Made by 6-Year-Old Taxi

"Extra Thousands of Care-free Miles"

WHEN you're late—ten minutes to catch a train—what do you do? Call the busiest thing on four wheels. And it must be dependable!

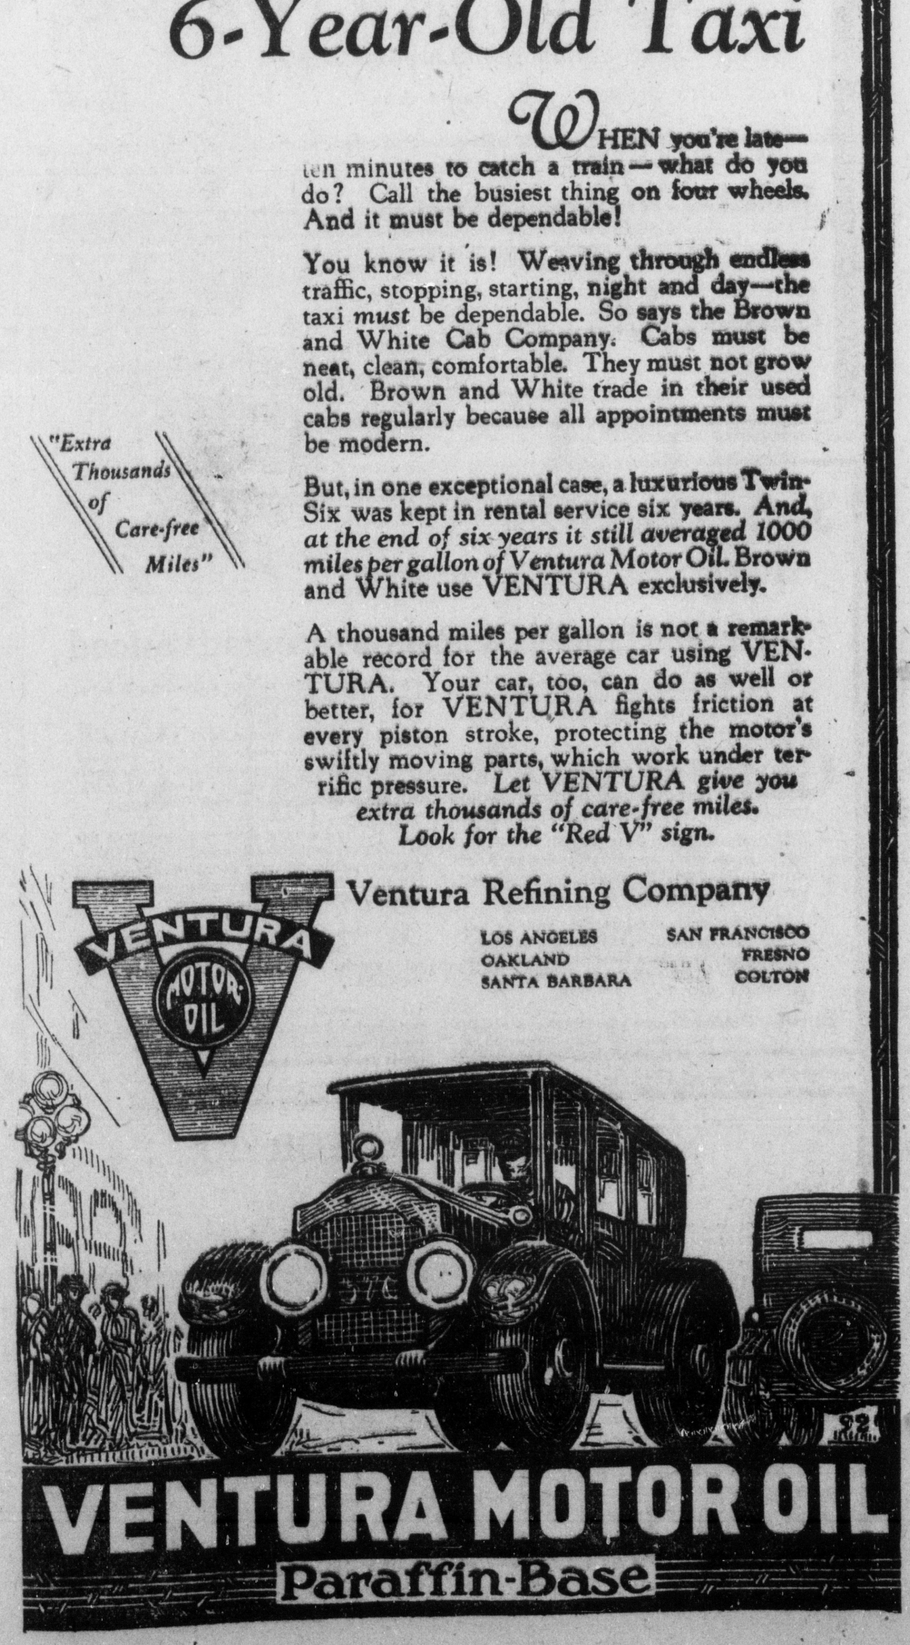

You know it is! Weaving through endless traffic, stopping, starting, night and day—the taxi must be dependable. So says the Brown and White Cab Company. Cabs must be neat, clean, comfortable. They must not grow old. Brown and White trade in their used cabs regularly because all appointments must be modern.

But, in one exceptional case, a luxurious Twin-Six was kept in rental service six years. And, at the end of six years it still averaged 1000 miles per gallon of Ventura Motor Oil. Brown and White use VENTURA exclusively.

A thousand miles per gallon is not a remarkable record for the average car using VENTURA. Your car, too, can do as well or better, for VENTURA fights friction at every piston stroke, protecting the motor's swiftly moving parts, which work under terrific pressure. Let VENTURA give you extra thousands of care-free miles. Look for the "Red V" sign.

STANFORD TEAM QUALIFIES 13 ATHLETES

Arthur, Big Card Weight Tosser, Hurls Discus 154 Feet 8 Inches

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31. — Yale, Stanford, Pennsylvania and California, leading the field in yesterday's qualifications, were to battle it out here this afternoon for the intercollegiate track and field championships.

Prominent coaches and critics who have watched the title slip away for three years to the Pacific coast, believed that the East had but a slim chance to dethrone the sun tanned athletes from the far West.

Yale had 14 to start in the semi-finals and finals this afternoon and was looked upon as the lone chance of the East. Stanford had 13 survivors of the trials, Pennsylvania and California ten each, Princeton nine, and Southern California eight.

Weather conditions were much better today. The sun was out bright and the wind which had blown a gale through the stadium yesterday afternoon, had become calm. The track was in perfect condition and coaches predicted that a new record might be made in the half mile race which promised the hottest competition on the card.

Two new records were made in the trials. Bill Comins, Yale, made a mark of 24 feet, 5 5-16 inches in the broad jump and Jim Arthur from Stanford, set a mark in the discus of 154 feet, 8 1-2 inches. Both performances virtually cinched first place in the events as it is improbable that they will be bettered this afternoon. Arthur's record may not be allowed as the discus throwers worked with the gale at their backs.

The University of California won the Championship the last three years virtually on the points scored in the field events. The Pacific coast teams were expected to do all their heavy scoring this year in the field but Stanford pulled a surprise by qualifying nine athletes for the track events and only four for the field.

California did all the heavy work in the field events by qualifying nine for the finals.

Some of the prominent coaches said today that the strength of the leading teams is so evenly divided that 28 points ought to win the championship.

Officials of the meet expected a large crowd today for the finals. The city has gone so "looney" over the Boston Red Sox, however, that the attendance at the meet may be as disappointing as it was yesterday.

SHORT SPORTS

Yesterday's hero—Yankee stadium. Ninth inning. Bases full. Two out. Yankees one run behind. Babe Ruth at bat. He struck out! The Yanks divided a double bill with the tail-end Aathletics winning 6 to 0 and losing 5 to 4 when the Bam failed to deliver in the ninth the champions thus retaining a tie for first place.

The Giants made twenty hits, including three hömers, in the opener against the Phils and won, 11 to 5. They took the second game, 6 to 5.

The Brooklyn Robins took both ends of their holiday bill with the Braves, tieing up the first game in the ninth inning and winning it in the twelfth, 6 to 5, while the second was easy, 5 to 1.

The Red Sox held onto the tie for the first place by splitting even with the Senators. They won 9 to 4 and lost 10 to 5.

Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis morning and afternoon, 4 to 0 and 3 to 2.

Cooper easily subdued the Cards in the first game. The second went 15 innings.

The largest crowd that ever turned out at Cubs park saw the visiting Reds take both ends of a double header from the Cubs, 9 to 2, and 4 to 2.

Ken Williams hit for the circuit in both games but the Browns only broke even against the White Sox, taking one, 5 to 2 and losing the other 11 to 4. Sisler got four hits during the day.

Pitching of Stoner and Cole enabled Detroit to win both morning and afternoon games from the Indians 11 to 7 and 2 to 0.

Kinks o' the Links

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Few golfers ever reach the purple heights without an encouraging smile from the gods of luck. Not that golf is a game where luck always decides the important issues but it often seems that sheer skill is not quite enough.

No one played better golf than Max Marston in the national amateur at Flossmoor last summer, no one was more deserving of victory, and yet it is doubtful if the Philadelphian would have won if the "breaks" hadn't been in his favor.

The breaks fell Marston's way at a critical moment when defeat and disaster, like twin horrors, loomed an arm's length away.

It was in the semi-finals. Francis Ouimet of Boston was his opponent. Ouimet had been 4 down at the sixteenth hole in the morning. Later he found himself and gained steadily. At the twelfth hole in the afternoon he had squared the match.

The thirteenth at Flossmor is a one-shot hole to a cupped green, completely trapped. Ouimet drove the honor ball. It came down like a poached egg not more than 18 inches from the pin. Almost a hole in one. Marston hit his shot too robustly.

The green was fringed with spectators. The ball struck one of them and dropped on the green. If the ball hadn't hit a spectator it would have gone on into a trap, out of which Marston would have had to play a safety shot.

As matters stood he was still on the green, though 40 feet from the hole. That lucky break was a stimulant. Marston proceeded to shock the gallery by sinking the long putt for a birdie two.

The effect the lucky break, plus the successful putt, had on Ouimet is hard to describe.

As Marston's ball dropped into the cup Ouimet winced as if an unseen hand had popped him on the chin. That the effect was not wholly imaginary was shown a second later when Ouimet, unnerved, missed his tiny putt.

Marston won the next hole, too, and was never headed.

CALIFORNIANS BEAT ANZAC NET PLAYERS

Willie Johnston Triumphs Over Gerald Patterson In 3-Set Match

BERKELEY, Cal., May 31.—United States players made a clean sweep in the "Little Davis Cup" exhibition matches with Australia on the courts of the Berkeley Tennis club here today.

Four Californians, all of them candidates for the United States Davis cup team, took the Australian Davis Cup team of contenders into camp by winning three singles matches and two of doubles.

In the outstanding event of the day, William Johnston, world's singles champion, defeated Gerald Patterson, former title holder, now champion of the Australian team, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Other results were:

OREGON TEAMS HAVE EDGE IN BIG MEET

EUGENE, Ore., May 31.—With mid-summer weather and fast track conditions prevailing, University of Oregon and Oregon Aggies take the field in Saturday's Pacific Coast collegiate track and field meet with a slight advantage, as the result of Friday's preliminaries.

Of the 130 athletes entered in the various events, 29 qualified for the finals today. Of these, five Aggie athletes took nine places and six Oregon stars took eight places. All others of the 130, however, were not eliminated, as several events, such as the quarter, half mile, two mile, pole vault, high jump and shot put did not require preliminaries.

Bankers to Bowl Lot-Sellers For Broadway Title

The American National bank, champions of the Business Men's League, and the Santa Ana Realty board, title holders of the Commercial league, will clash Monday night in a three-game match to settle the championship of all squads that bowl at the Broadway academy.

The series will get under way promptly at 7:30 o'clock, Harry Gaspar, proprietor, announced.

The Bankers won their title when they disposed of the Schroeder Pharmacy in a special play-off match and the Realtors did the same by winning from the Standard Oil company.

TRUCKMEN PLAY BEANPICKERS AT TUSTIN

Trickey Team Still Barred From Irvine Park By Disease Cautions

Still barred from their home lot because of hoof and mouth disease precautions, Manager Arthur Trickey's Irvine Bean pickers will frolic with the Santa Ana Commercial company club tomorrow afternoon at the Tustin high school ball park. The game, the most important this season of the Orange county league, will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

The pitching selections today still remained more or less a mystery. George Lackaye, skipper of the league-leading Truckmen, was expected to start Herb Salveson but some of the wise heads thought he might shift to his latest acquisition, "Red" Billman, at the last minute. Billman, it is said, is anxious to get a crack at his old teammates.

League eligibility lists have been filed with President Victor Walker and no teams will be allowed to add strength during the remainder of the season.

S. A. Commercial Co.—Lackaye, Salveson, Bryan, Billman, Callan, Coffman, Callahan, Hawkins, Rumsey, Muckenthaler, Pendleton, Huarte, Smith and Sinsley.

Bill Evans Says

One of the greatest middle distance runners of all time was J. E. (Ted) Meredith, former University of Pennsylvania star.

Meredith, a luminary of the first magnitude, specialized in the 440 and 850-yard runs.

Meredith enjoyed his best season in 1916. That year he gave one of the finest exhibitions ever seen on any track at the annual eastern intercollegiate meet at Cambridge, May 27.

Competing in the quarter-mile event, Meredith turned the distance in 47 2-5 seconds, the fastest time ever made on a circular track. In 1900, the great Maxey Long set up a mark of 47 seconds flat but Long accomplished the feat on a straight-away course. Meredith had one turn to make.

On the same day and with but a few minutes' rest, the Quaker celebrity stepped the half in 1:53 for another I. C. A. A. A. record. In each event, Meredith was pitted against the cream of the cinder path world. On both occasions he literally ran away from the rest of the field.

Just two weeks before the Cambridge feat, Meredith ran the half in 1:52½ at Philadelphia. This still remains as the world's record for the event.

Before entering Penn, Meredith starred as a schoolboy at Mercersburg, where many other famous athletes got their start. In 1912, as a member of the American Olympic team, Meredith won the 800-meter run at Stockholm, making the distance in 1:59.09.

A PUZZLE A DAY

The drawing represents a checkerboard, which contains ten checkers. There are two checkers numbered "1"; two numbered "2," and so on. Start from any checker, and draw a line, square by square, until you reach the other checker of the same number. You can move back and forth, or up and down, but NOT diagonally. A sample course is indicated from checker 1 to checker 1.

The problem, however, is to connect 1 with 1, 2 with 2, 3 with 3, etc., without having any of the lines cross or touch the same square. And every square of the board must be utilized!

Yesterday's answer:

9 times 8 plus 7 plus 6 plus 5 plus 4 plus 3 plus 2 plus 1.

RUSH WORK ON NEW THEATER AT ORANGE

ORANGE, May 31.—Building permits here for the month today promised to reach the high mark for the year, as it is expected that a permit would be taken out for the erection of a theater building on the corner of N. Glassell and Maple avenues.

The theater is being constructed by J. C. Adams who stated that a ten year lease had been given on the building to the West Coast Theater company. Work on the building, which will be one of the most up-to-date picture houses in Orange county, was recently started and the foundation is being poured. Large steel bars are being used as reenforcement in the foundations. It is expected that the structure will be completed by January 1, of 1925, and will cost about $175,000.

Building permits for the month to date were $16,250. Seven permits are included in this amount. Five houses and garages, and two remodeling jobs are included on the list of permits. A permit was issued Thursday to J. E. Cole of 715 East Walnut avenue for the erection of a new house and garage. The buildings were estimated to cost about $3750.

S. T. Higgins was also issued a permit to erect a new house and garage on his property at 227 South Shaffer avenue. The buildings will cost about $3500, it is estimated.

Work on the Woman's club house here opposite the city hall building is progressing nicely. Workmen were busy yesterday with the plastering of the building. It is estimated that the building will be completed some time in the near future. Work on the remodeling of the Piggly-Wiggly store building here is also progressing nicely.

OCCIDENTAL COACH SPEAKER AT ORANGE

ORANGE, May 31.—Coach Joseph Pipal, of Occidental college, Los Angeles, was the speaker of the day at the regular meeting of the Rotary club held at the Masonic hall here. Pipal gave a very interesting talk on "Physical Education," bringing out a comparison between the sports and physical educational work in the United States as it is compared to that of Europe.

"The European athletes are mechanical, and physical education there is taught under the plan that they are to obey orders and not reason for themselves," he pointed out, "while American athletes are self reliant and can think quick."

One of the features of the meeting was the honoring of the birthday anniversary of Dr. J. C. Crawford. Dr. Crawford, who is an ardent golf fan and is a member of the greens committee of the Fairway country club, was presented with a wornout golf ball nicely wrapped in a large box, by his fellow Rotarians.

James Metzgar, secretary of the chamber of commerce at Santa Ana, and a member of the Rotary club there, and C. F. Skirven, also a member of the Santa Ana Rotary club, were the visitors of the day at the meeting.

John Coolidge, father of the president, has become a radio fan.

EVENING SALUTATION

Thy beauty haunts me heart and soul,
On thou fair moon, so close and bright;
Thy beauty makes me like the child
That cries aloud to own thy light;
The little child that lifts each arm
To press thee to her bosom warm.

EXPRESSION OF THANKS

The sincere thanks of many scores of residents of Orange county is voiced, we are sure, by The Register in offering today an expression of appreciation to the Board of Supervisors for having the old cemetery cleared of weeds and debris.

Also, the occasion should not pass without an expression of appreciation of the service rendered by W. V. Whitson, chairman of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce committee on betterment of the cemetery.

The state law is such that the organization of a district for the care of neglected cemeteries is almost impossible. It is hoped that amendments can be made that will make it possible for a district to be organized or for placing an old cemetery, such as the Santa Ana cemetery, under some sort of perpetual care.

FOREST FIRE PREVENTION AND SUPPRESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Touched off in brush heaps made tinder-like by the long dry spell and the hot north winds, forest fires are burning in more than a half dozen California counties today, some of them beyond control.

* * * * *

In a letter recently received by the Editor of The Register from Former Governor George C. Pardee, who is chaiman of the District Public Affairs Committee of Kiwanis International, tremendous emphasis is laid upon the fact that fire prevention and suppression is the very soul of water conservation. The District Public Affairs Committee of Kiwanis is concentrating on water conservation and Governor Pardee says: "I hope that in the Kiwanis Clubs of your zone and in your editorial work you are stressing the all-important fact that the fundamental preliminary to all forest and water conservation in this state, with its long rainless summers, is fire-prevention and fire-suppression on our watersheds. What's the use," he asks, "in talking about reforestation if the young trees are not to be protected against fire? What's the use in talking about water conservation if the water-conserving natural cover—forest, brush and grass—on our watersheds is not to be protected from fire? That cover conserved, the less water will run to waste into the ocean during flood-water periods and the less damage will be done by flood-waters."

* * * * *

It is, perhaps, not generally known, but, according to Governor Pardee, it is a fact that what is now Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah was once forested—the animal skeletons found in the asphalt pit at La Brea, the petrified trees found in all five of these states, the tree-fossils also found there, the now-living remnants of ancient forests also found scattered here and there in favored localities in the mountains, the fine forests that still survive on the backbone of Lower California, all go to prove that, as Palm Spring do. Somewhere in Junipero Serra's diary (began when he came to San Diego in 1769) there is an obscure intimation that even only 150 years ago there was quite a tree-growth in the immediate neighborhood of San Diego Bay. Nowadays, of course, trees of native growth in that vicinity are very, very scarce.

The cause of this enormous deforestation? Fire was the immediate cause—fire set by lightning and the peoples of those days—fire made possible, of course, by the progressively increasing aridity of the climate—which aridity, we believe, without any scientific proof, is still increasing. When the climate was moist—as it was originally, as the animal and vegetable fossils show—fires couldn't rage, as, helped by the increasing aridity, they later did and do now and will continue to, if we let them.

* * * * *

Once on a time there was an enormous lake, discharging into the Snake River, of which lake the Great Salt Lake is the miserably small remnant. Once on a time, too, California, Northern and Southern, was traversed by great rivers, running practically at right angles to their shrunken successors of today. Once on a time, the whole Pacific Coast, as we now call it, was covered by the Big Trees, of which there now remain only a few thousand in our Sierras. The Big Trees were gradually supplanted, under climatic changes, by the Redwoods, which covered all of California. But, as the aridity increased, they gave way to the pines, except in the fog-bound narrow strip along the coast of Northern California. And now the pines have almost disappeared, before the fires, in Southern California, and are constantly menaced by fire in Northern California.

Brush takes the place of destroyed forests, and serves as a very good water conserver, so long as we keep fire out of it. But, if (as we are doing) we let fire constantly harass the brush, it cannot survive, and the result is bare stretches, off which flood-waters run to waste into the ocean, leaving devastation in their wake.

Over two million acres of the watersheds in this state that were covered "when the Gringo came" in '49, have already been stripped, principally by fire, of all natural cover, left entirely bare of all cover, and therefore, destroyed as conserving watersheds, of course. Just incidentally, two million acres are three times the area of the state of Rhode Island, two per cent of the entire area of California, and about five per cent of the forty million acres of conserving watersheds we have left to us in this state.

And it is an alarming fact that those two million acres of destroyed watersheds are being added to at the rate of approximately fifty thousand acres per annum!

Dr. George P. Clements, of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, estimates, after a careful examination, that, in 1922, in Southern California alone, the fire-damage to watersheds, as watersheds, amounted to nearly one hundred million dollars. What the watershed-damage for the whole state was in 1923, (when about 785,000 acres, in and out of the National Forests, were burned over) may be alarmingly estimated.

* * * * *

Now, other things being equal, fire-suppression, as well as fire-prevention, is merely a matter of man power, of having a sufficient number of men to fight and put fires out. And, of course, the ability to hire a sufficient number of fire-fighters depends upon having sufficient money to do the hiring with. For instance: Last year, the U. S. Forest Service, spending $128,000, was able to prevent 1374 fires, on the 20,000,000 acres of National Forests in this state, from burning over more than 175,000 acres; while, on approximately the same area, outside the National Forests, the State Forestry department, with less than half the money ($22,000 from the United States under the Weeks law; a few thousand dollars from a few counties, and only $22,000 from the state treasury), was unable to prevent only 978 fires from burning over less than 608,000 acres—half the money, many fewer fires, four times the area burned over. And because it has always had money enough to fight its fires, the U. S. Forest Service has always been able to keep its fire-burned area far below that under the control of State Forestry department, which never has had money enough to conduct its affairs efficiently—having had, from the state treasury, last year, and having this year, from the same source, only about one-half what it had in the previous two years.

This year's very scanty rainfall fills every thoughtful mind with apprehension as to what is going to happen to our watersheds later in the season. Already, this year, we have had several watershed fires—a most unusual thing, the fire season in the mountains ordinarily beginning in July. But this year, in February, we had at least two very serious watershed fires south of the Tehachapis—one in San Bernardino county, the other in Santa Barbara—so serious that the governor publicly considered calling out state troops to put them out, and also considered appealing to the Federal Government for regular troops for the same purpose. A properly supported State Forestry department would be much more efficient and less expensive, as a fire-fighting force, than inexperienced soldiers of any kind.

* * * * *

Some people claim that the counties in which watersheds lie should protect them against fire, or that the private owners of watersheds should do it. Would Orange county be quite content to depend on the county in which the Santa Ana river rises, or on the private owners of watersheds, to fire-protec that river's watershed? Aren't all the people of California, no matter who or what they are or where they live, interested, directly or indirectly, but vitally and fundamentally, in the conservation of our watersheds? Are the counties in which our watersheds lie any more interested than, or even as much interested as, the cities of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, in the conservation of our watersheds? Are the owners of watersheds any more interested than the people of our cities, or of the watershedless counties, in the conservation of our watersheds, merely as watersheds? Isn't that conservation primarily, fundamentally and distinctly a function of the state? If not, why should the owners of unimproved city property be taxed to support municipal fire and police departments? If not, why should the people owning fire-proof buildings in cities be taxed, on the same value-basis, for the support of fire departments as are those people owning fire-hazardous buildings? If not, why should people living in city sections, or wards, or blocks where the fire-hazard is small (insurance rates showing the difference in fire-hazard) be taxed, for the support of fire departments, on an equal basis with improvements in sections, or wards, or blocks where the fire-hazard is great? Of course they are and should be so taxed, because their buildings and property may be destroyed by fire originating in the fire-hazardous sections of the city—and for other good reasons. Berkeley, where $10,000,000 worth of property was destroyed last September by a fire starting in another county, probably feels that somebody ought to have protected her from a fire starting outside her jurisdiction—and for that protection Berkeley would, no doubt, have been quite willing to pay into the state treasury her share of its cost. And finally, if some counties and some private parties are to be compelled to assume the burden of protecting from fire the watersheds, in the protection of which everybody is interested, where is, in reality, the saving to the taxpayer? Isn't the tax burden, small per individual when paid by all, merely shifted from the shoulders of the many, where it is light, to the shoulders of the few, where it becomes heavy?

* * * * *

The Federal government—the people of the United States—has been good, mighty good, to us Californians—so good that we have almost become mendicants, sitting at the door of Congress, hat in outstretched hand, asking always for more, not as Oliver Twist did, because we are famished, but, like the horseleech, because we are greedy. The generous people of the United States have set apart in the state twenty million acres of their enormously valuable forest-property, calling those acres National Forests. Those National Forests are essentially and fundamentally for the benefit of the people of California. They comprise the watersheds upon which the prosperity of the far greater part of the people of California directly or indirectly fundamentally depends. From those watersheds comes the irrigation water that makes of former desert places veritable "gardens of the Lord." From them comes the water that furnishes us the power that lights our streets and our homes and turns so much of our machinery. And, to conserve the natural cover on those watersheds (which cover conserves the water that is so essential to the prosperity of the people of California) the generous people of the United States spend many thousand dollars every year in preventing and suppressing, for the benefit of the people of California, the annual fires which, in these days of automobiles carrying always more fire-careless Californians to our mountains, would otherwise soon lay bare those watersheds and deprive our people of the water so essential to their needs.

But the people of the United States are more generous to California than that. Endeavoring to save us from ourselves, eager to induce us to help ourselves, they give us, under the Weeks law, over twenty thousand dollars per annum to be used by our State Forestry department in suppressing fires in this state outside the National Forests—and we are content to donate, out of the state treasury, to the cause of fighting burning fires on California's territory outside the National Forests, only an equal sum out of the enormous sums of money our people make because of the generosity of the people of the United States in giving us watersheds and conserving for us the water that falls upon those watersheds.

Revived Community Spirit

San Bernardino Sun

A revived spirit of community co-operation seems to be pervading the towns and cities of the United States. The purpose may differ from that of old, but the results are much the same.

Every community from the smallest rural settlement to the largest city appears bent upon outdoing others in this community co-operation. Every available excuse for concerted action is pounced upon and made the most of.

Before the war the old-fashioned town celebrations had almost disappeared. In most towns and cities they lived in memory only. People were regretting the passage of the Old Home Week, the splendors and excitement of the old-time Fourth of July celebration, the once popular Harvest festivals and others of the old fashioned vehicles for community fun-making.

Since the war there has been an unmistakable reversion to the old order of community activity. All over the nation towns and cities are planning town reunions, Old-Home weeks, holiday celebrations, community picnics, and many other community demonstrations. It can ever be said that the present is outdoing the past at the latter's own game.

Many explanations may be advanced for this resurrection of the community spirit. One, and perhaps the most accurate, is the use to which community co-operation was put during the war in support of national movements and the extent to which community co-operation was organized. Another is the growth of the community-advertising plan. Everywhere towns and cities are outdoing big business in all forms of advertising. It is commonly remarked that every town in the United States is engaged in the business of putting its name on the map. Many community activities are sponsored by merchants and business organizations to attract suburban trade. There is still a third cause for the return of the community spirit and that is a new desire on the part of the millions, who are seeking their fortunes away from home, to revisit the old-home-town with their fellow wanderers.

Here in California there is hardly a town or city which does not have its day or its week of exposition or celebration or carnival, made into an annual event, which combines most or all of these plans and purposes.

After Graduate School

Riverside Press

Los Angeles apparently is not satisfied with trying to take the farm school that by act of the legislature was located in Riverside, but is now proposing to annex the graduate school which is part of the Citrus Experiment Station. If we do not watch out, the next move will be to "lift" the citrus station and re-locate it on the campus of the Southern Branch. The fact that not an orange grove is now found within miles of that point makes no difference.

The announcement from the College of Agriculture of summer session courses in citriculture and subtropical horticulture, to be given at Riverside, June 28 to August 9, will strike people of the Southland as a commendable idea and may perhaps be considered as a significant move by the university toward remedying a situation which has long been a source of perplexity to the citrus and subtropical fruit interests of Southern California.

Some surprise has been expressed that these courses should be held at Riverside, in view of the fact that during the same period an extensive outline of summer session courses is to be offered at the Southern Branch of the University in Los Angeles. The enrollment in the specialty courses named would undoubtedly be larger if they were to be given at the "Branch." Be this as it may, however, the inauguration on the part of the College of Agriculture of instructional work to meet the needs of the important citrus and subtropical fruit interests of this part of the state will meet with favor and it is to be hoped that the summer courses in these lines in Southern California are but a forerunner of policy to concentrate all the subtropical horticultural and citrus work now given at Berkeley in this section. The fact, too, that Dr. H. J. Webber, former acting dean of the college and head of the division of subtropical horticulture, has recommended that this division be transferred to Southern California apparently gives some assurance that this hope may be realized.

It has always seemed an anomalous situation for the College of Agriculture to be offering instruction in citriculture and sub-tropical horticulture at Berkeley, five hundred miles away from the center of these two important industries, and the arrangement has appeared to be a particularly unfortunate one in recent years since the university has had a branch in Southern California. The Citrus Experiment Station at Riverside has hardly been suited to regular instruction to students, being solely an institution given over to research work. The establishment of the Southern Branch of the University of California in Los Angeles, in fact, provided a real opportunity for transferring the division of subtropical horticulture from Berkeley to Southern California.

In the opinion of many leaders in the citrus and subtropical fruit industries, as well as of educators, the time has arrived when the division having to do with instruction in such lines should be transferred bodily to the Southern Branch, which would seem to be in a position to render the service that importance of these industries would warrant. It is to be hoped, in fact, that the initiation of summer session work in subtropical horticulture at Riverside will soon be followed by the actual transfer of the division of sub-tropical horticulture to Los Angeles. The opportunities for the expansion and development of this division at the Southern Branch would appear to be unlimited. With a congenial environment such as would be provided there, and with sufficient support, it would seem that there might be developed in Los Angeles a school of subtropical agriculture that could be made to attract students not only from all parts of the United States, but from other parts of the world as well.

It seems very pertinent to ask why Riverside is not the proper place for a summer session work in citriculture and subtropical horticulture. The experiment station where the sessions are to be held in 1924 and 1925 is located in the heart of the greatest citrus district of the state and within easy reach of the only commercial date orchards in the country, in the Coachella Valley. On the station property, moreover, is the greatest collection of citrus trees in the world, hundreds of varieties. In addition to the citrus groves and experimental plats there are also experimental planting of walnuts and other varieties of subtropical fruit. Why should students not have the advantages of these facilities which are not equalled anywhere else in the world?

It is also fitting to call attention to the fact that the act of the legislature creating the Citrus Experiment station provided that it should also be a graduate school of subtropical agriculture. The station facilities and the station staff provided opportunities for such a school that are unparalleled; and a number of students have taken work here in preparation for the doctor's degree. The modest beginning that has been made in the development of a graduate school may well be the foundation for important developments; and those developments will naturally come, unless the greed of Los Angeles prevents. That city seems to want to grab everything in sight in the way of state or federal activities. The law, the logic of facts, the principle of fairness—none of these things count. It seems quite evident that Riverside will have to gird up its loins and prepare for a fight to prevent the emasculation of the Citrus station.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 17—HAY FEVER AND SNUFF

There wasn't one single pinch of snuff left. Not one.

Mistah 'Possum was a southern gentleman and was just traveling around to see the world a bit. As he said, all the birds came north in the spring, so why shouldn't he.

He had taken up his quarters in the button-ball tree and kept bachelor hall.

"Please, suh, can you tell me where I may find a stoah?" he called to Daddy Cracknuts over in the maple tree, just as Daddy was going to buy a morning paper.

"Sure!" called Daddy. "I'm just going there now. Come right along and I'll show you, neighbor."

So Mistah 'Possum swung himself down.

Daddy was curious about his neighbor, but he was too polite to ask questions. However, Mistah 'Possum, like most southern people, was quite talkative and friendly, and soon Daddy knew all about him.

"Some time you must come south," said the 'possum gentleman. "And I shall show you all sorts of things. The persimmon trees ah wonderful. And the oleandahs and magnolias smell mahvellous."

"How about nuts?" asked Daddy, who didn't care so much about nice smells as about nice eats.

"Shuahly! Shuahly!" said Mistah 'Possum. "Peanuts and pecans! And buttah nuts, too! You'd nevah stahve!"

"All right sir. I'd like to go south some day on a vacation," said Daddy. "Ma and I may go next year. That is if she doesn't get hay fever."

"Hay fever! What's that?" asked Mistah 'Possum curiously.

"It's something that makes you sneeze all the time," answered Daddy.

"Oh, I see! Something like snuff," said Mistah 'Possum.

"Like what?"

"Like snuff. That's what I wish to buy at the stoah. I find that my snuff-box is empty."

"Well, I declare!" said Daddy to himself—not out loud. Paying money for something to make you sneeze when it's as easy as rolling off a log to catch a cold for nothing!"

At that minute they reached Mister Bags' store and went in.

Mistah 'Possum bowed elegantly and said he was charmed.

And then he said he would like to buy a quarter's worth of snuff.

"I'm sorry, but we're out just now," said Mister Bags. The fact was that he was always out, for nobody around there used snuff at all. But he wasn't going to say so.

"Well, well! I'm sorry," said Mistah 'Possum. "But I—achoo—achoo! Why, that's strange! I never sneezed before without taking a pinch of snuff."

"Perhaps it's hay fever," suggested Mister Bags.

"Oh, do you suppose so!" exclaimed Mistah 'Possum. "Isn't that nice! It's fah cheaper than buying snuff and just as pleasant, isn't it. Achoo! Achoo! I think I'll stay north for a while, suhs. It will save me money."

Tax Bill Now In Hands Of Coolidge

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The tax bill today came back to President Coolidge from the treasury where an exhaustive study of its probable effect on the nation's revenues was made at his request and now awaits final action.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and Budget Director Lord brought the bill to Mr. Coolidge and discussed it at great length with him.

No indication was given following the conference when the bill would be acted on, but it is believed there would be no great delay.

L. A. WOMAN PERILED BY STRAY SHOT

Narrowly missing Mrs. I. V. Sullivan of Los Angeles, a bullet fired by an unidentified person from the side of Los Angeles street, Anaheim, yesterday afternoon pierced the Sullivan sedan, according to a report made to the police at Anaheim.

In the car were Mr. and Mrs. Sullivan and baby. The car was proceeding northeast when the bullet crashed through the car, Sullivan said. The bullet missed Mrs. Sullivan's head by only a few inches.

Police said they would investigate a report that drunken Mexicans carousing at a neighborhood rendezvous had fired the shot. No arrest had been made up until noon.

FLEEING BANK CLERK ELUDES POLICE NET

(By United Press Leased Wire)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—While detectives continued their search for Dale Rowan, absconding bank teller, who fled a week ago today with $47,200 of funds belonging to the Bank of Italy here, local police sought another woman said to figure in many of the eternal triangles drawn by the teller.

"Mickey" Bent, reported to have quarreled with Rowan over a hospital bill and to have threatened him with exposure of his alleged bootlegging activities, can, if she is found, furnish valuable information as to Rowan's activities prior to the defalcation and possibly aid in establishing his present whereabouts, police believe.

A second woman, known as Georgia Martin, red haired and beautiful, is believed to be with Rowan. Search for the pair centered yesterday in the vicinity of Monterey and Salinas.

Meanwhile Mrs. Rowan, preparing suit for divorce in Los Angeles, voices the belief that her husband's break was the result of a craving for adventue.

"We married too young," the young wife said. "Dale had to have his fling."

"30" BULLETINS

BELMONT PARK, New York, May 31.—Mad Play, the Rancocas stable colt, well ridden by Earl Sande, won the suburban handicap today. Little Celt, Rawls Up, was second, and the lightly weighted Agakhan, third.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Lieutenant Maughan, who has twice failed to span the continent by airplane from dawn to dark, will make another attempt about June 21, air service officials said today.

Court Holds Chicken Owner Has Right to Kill Marauding Snake

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—When a citizen, perfectly sober, enters his chicken coop and finds a 15-foot python curled up on the floor asleep and ten of his best hens showing through the snake's midsection, he has a perfect right to shoot to kill.

Thus ruled Justice Blake today, freeing Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Landores, of Culver City, defendants in a suit for damages brought by the owner of a studio menagerie.

Mrs. Landores testified when she went to feed the chickens, she found the chickens had fed the snake, which was curled up in a gluttonous stupor on the floor.

She screamed, and Landores came rushing to the rescue with a shotgun. In another moment the huge python was doing a death wriggle.

The reptile's owner said the Landores were too hasty—the snake, named "Honey" because of its affectionate nature, was quite tame and domesticated.

Fullerton Paper's Story Alleging Officer's Flight Slander Case Crux

A recent newspaper story said to have graphically pictured George Annin, Fullerton police officer, as fleeing in terror from an irate citizen, was provided with a sequel today when Annin filed suit in the superior court here, alleging slander and asking $30,000 damages.

The Fullerton Daily News and its editor, Redge S. Smith, were named defendants in the action, which was brought through Attorney James L. Allen, in association with Attorney James L. Davis, both of Santa Ana.

Said to have followed a long period of discord between the Fullerton newspaper and the police department of that city, publication of the article regarding the officer exploded the feud into open legal warfare, with both sides said to be preparing for a "finish fight."

Fabrication Alleged.

In his suit, Officer Annin characterized the newspaper article as a malicious attack, aimed at discrediting him, and based upon pure fabrication.

The newspaper, it was said, was making ready to stand by its guns, asserting that it had affidavits to prove that the published article was founded on fact.

The article in question was said to have appeared in the Fullerton News of May 26 and related to a purported episode which the police department claims did not occur.

According to the newspaper description, as reproduced in the complaint filed by Annin, Police Officer Jake Deist was "floored" when he attempted to arrest Joe Carrizosa, a motorist, for speeding, and Officer Annin was pictured as taking refuge in hasty and undignified flight.

Backed by Marshal.

Annin's complaint charges that the newspaper published the story "actuated by malice and unfair motives and with the intent to injure the plaintiff and to deprive him of the confidence of the citizens of Orange county and the city of Fullerton." He asks for $30,000 for alleged slander and $10,000 exemplary or punitive damages.

Following publication of the story, a statement was issued by Art Eells, city marshal at Fullerton, branding the article as false. Eells declared that Annin was not on duty at the time and was not present. There was no altercation between Deist and Carrizosa, according to Eells, the incident consisting merely of a word of caution given by Deist to the motorist.

The newspaper, however, is understood to be insisting that its published version is true and will be proved true when the case comes to trial.

Declares Fighter Insane From Blows

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Blows rained on the head of William Melody, a professional pugilist, rendered him partially insane, Superior Court Judge Guerin ruled today, indicating that the fighter will be sent to a state hospital.

Melody, formerly well known in fistic circles, came here some weeks ago. With his ring career ended, and mentally weakened by reason of many contests in the squared circle he attempted a series of oil station holdups, but was captured on his second attempt.

Doctor in Death Case to Appeal

HUTCHINSON, Kans., May 31.—Appeal to a higher court was planned today by Attorneys for Dr. Ken B. Uhls, found guilty by a jury of second degree murder in connection with the death of W. E. Gibbs, owner of stock in a sanitarium operated by the physician. The verdict carries a minimum of ten years imprisonment.

SUSPECT SUICIDE

MONROVIA, May 31.—Fred W. Danker, 21, who came here from New York City to regain his health following excessive study at college, was dead today from a heart wound reported to have been self-inflicted by a long pair of wall paper shears.

Vote Bishop Guilty Of Heresy

CLEVELAND, O., May 31.—Guilty of heresy.

This verdict was returned today against Bishop William Montgomery Brown of Galion, Ohio, by the tribunal of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church.

The venerable prelate strained forward to catch every syllable of the verdict, his face tense, his mouth set as that of a martyr dying for his faith.

Then a grim smile lit up his face. His steel blue eyes gleamed.

"I am not through. I will knock at every door in the land to get justice. This will be the last heresy trial," he said.

Joseph Sharts, Brown's counsel, said he would appeal the case to the board of reviews. Sentence probably will be deferred until after such an appeal.

KANSAS CITY OPENS DOORS TO SHRINERS

Pilgrims Find Welcome Oasis After Dusty Journey; Seattle Delegates Arrive.

KANSAS CITY, MO., May 31.—Sighting an oasis after long journeys across the desert, Shrine pilgrims began arriving today in Kansas City, converted into a huge mosque. Streets were draped in Oriental colors and Shrine emblems. Huge "Welcome Nobles" signs hung from every building. All Kansas City was prepared to extend welcoming hands, serve refreshment and furnish entertainment for the visitors.

ADMITS BRIDE TAKEN FOR PASSPORT

(By United Press Leased Wire)

WASHINGTON, May 31.—David C. Kerr, American vice counsel at Vancouver, B. C., admitted he had accepted money to influence his decision in granting passports to barred Chinese seeking admission into this country, it was brought out in the preliminary hearing before a United States commissioner here today.

A written confession by Kerr to Consul General Norton, that he was "hard up" for funds and had accepted bribes in some cases, was introduced in evidence.

J. Fred Ganders, who said he was a notary public, but who, evidence showed, was acting in the capacity of a labor agent, testified that he gave Kerr $50 at a secret meeting in a Vancouver Chinese cafe to get Kerr to issue passports to Chinn Jan Yuen who was inadmissable.

Kerr was released on $5,000 bond pending a grand jury investigation of his case. He was arrested Thursday on charges of bribery and malfeasance in office, preferred by Consul General Norton.

Court Will Speed Up Liquor Cases

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Bootleggers, confessed or otherwise, are to be given "police court" services in federal court in the future, Federal Judge Frank Kerrigan announced here.

Judge Kerrigan intends that liquor cases shall cease to clog the court calendars, and liquor law violators arrested one day are to know by noon the next what their sentence is to be, he said.

University Head To Name Coolidge

WASHINGTON, May 31—Marion Leroy Burton, president of the University of Michigan, will nominate President Coolidge at the Republican national convention, William M. Butler, manager of the president's pre-convention campaign, announced today.

KILL BOY IN SEARCH FOR ADVENTURE

Sons of Millionaire Chicago Families Confess Kidnap Slaying

(By United Press Leased Wire)

CHICAGO, May 31. — Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, sons of millionaire Chicago families and both law students at the University of Chicago, confessed today kidnaping and murdering Robert Franks, 14-year-old school boy. State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe announced the two had admitted the crime.

"We killed Robert Franks for the spirit of adventure," the wealthy college students confessed.

The crime, they admitted, was plotted more than nine months ago and all details were carefully planned to avoid detection.

"Ripping Adventure."

"We had been reading of kidnaping adventures and demands for ransom," Leopold told authorities in explaining the crime. "We had all the money we needed, of course, but we thought it would be a ripping good adventure to kidnap some youngster and try to get some money for it.

"At first we didn't plan the murder but we decided it would be playing safe to put our victim out of the way.

"We bought all the equipment we needed and then our next task was to select the victim. We wanted to get some boy whose father had plenty of money. We decided to look around the Harvard school where all the students were wealthy. We selected Robert as our victim."

Leopold then recited the details of the kidnaping and the slaying of the youth, showing the remarkable plans they had laid.

"We rented an automobile and went to the Harvard school just as the boys were coming out. We called Robert and invited him to take a ride. That part was easy.

Hit With Chisel.

"When we got him in the car we hit him over the head with a chisel we had prepared. It was wrapped in tape so that it wouldn't make a sharp cut in the boy's skull.

"Our next move was to choke our victim. We stuffed rags in his mouth and then gave him some ether which I stole from the chemistry laboratory at college.

"We drove out south to the city limits and carried the boy into a thicket. Here we undressed him, choked him to death and then threw hydrochloric acid on his face. We did this is an attempt to disfigure him so badly that if the body was found it couldn't be identified.

"We buried the shoes and burned the clothing. I think you can find the shoes now if you look."

Leopold admitted it was he who wrote the ransom letter demanding $10,000 of Jacob Franks, the victim's father.

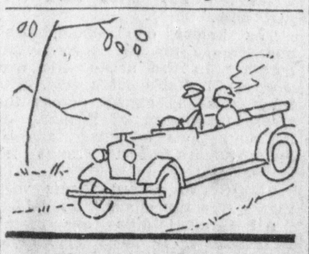

"We thought that was a right smart piece of work," Leopold told police, "but apparently it helped to lead to our downfall."

Clever Detective Work

Capture of Leopold was brought about by three Chicago detectives—William Crot, Frank Johnson and James Courtland. Their work was long and tiresome and for many days they feared they were following poor leads. Today they were praised by State's Attorney Crowe and his staff for one of the most clever pieces of detective work on record.

Aside from the ransom letter, the only clue was a pair of horn

Witness Declares Ousting of Former Attorney General By President Was Cowardly; Vanderlip Accused of Attempt to Buy Testimony

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, will be subpoenaed to appear before the Senate Investigating committee June 4, to defend himself against the series of charges that have been made against him during the present investigation.

In making the announcement, Chairman Brookhart said that Daugherty must waive immunity or the committee will not hear him.

President Coolidge committed "the most cowardly act a human ever perpetrated when he drove Daugherty from office," Gaston B. Means declared before the investigating committee today.

Gentle As a Woman

"Harry Daugherty was as gentle as a woman and as brave as a lion," he said. "When he was fighting, single handed with his back to the wall, President Coolidge put him out.

"The only cowardly act that I ever saw Daugherty commit was to permit the indictment of Senator Wheeler."

"Didn't you think it unusual when the Japanese handed you the $100,000 in the standard aircraft deal?" Howland asked.

"I've had $1,500,000 handed to me when I was working for the Germans during the war," said Means.

"Did you ask any questions?"

"No, I don't ask questions?" said Means.

Pays Chorus Girl $500

"I handed $500 to a chorus girl that Jess Smith knocked in the head with a bottle and I didn't ask any questions."

"Were you suspicious that Jess Smith was selling the attorney general's influence?"

"I never allow myself to act on suspicion."

The $100,000 transaction, Means said, was the first time he had received money for Smith. He added that he had received amounts ranging from $7,000 to $15,000 at various times between February and August, 1922, when he retired from the department service. Some of the money, he said, was Smith's "split" from the Dempsey-Carpentier fight films, which were illegally transported.

Al Fink of Buffalo, N. Y., charged before the committee that Frank A. Vanderlip, New York financier, offered him $1,000 to give perjured testimony against President Coolidge before the committee. Wild disorder ensued in the committee room after Fink made his charge.

"Call an officer and throw this man out," Chairman Brookhart yelled at the committee assistants.

"I want to tell how Senator Wheeler had me buy whiskey to get Roxie Stinson drunk," said Fink, who refused to be silenced.

As an officer entered the room, Fink turned and dashed out and quiet was restored.

SENATE TO APPEAL FROM COURT RULING.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—An appeal from the decision of the federal court in Cincinnati granting a writ of habeas corpus to Mal Daugherty will be taken by the government, Chairman Brookhart of the senate investigating committee, said today.

CHINESE GRANT RECOGNITION TO RUSSIA

PEKIN, May 31.—China formally extended recognition to Russia today.

Dr. Wellington Koo, fully authorized to act on behalf of China and M. Karakhan, Soviet envoy, signed the articles of agreement.

Except for some changes whereby Russia grants a number of concessions to China, the preliminary recognition agreement is the same as that signed by former Foreign Minister Wang and Karkhan, which was repudiated by the Chinese cabinet.

Russia agrees to evacuate Mongolia. China agrees never to transfer to any other nation than Russia any property or rights formerly held by Russia, thus protecting concessions of the Chinese Eastern railway.

CHARGES CRUELTY

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Charging cruelty and desertion, a divorce action with Mildred K. Hiatt, the plaintiff, against Orie W. Hiatt, said to be a wealthy Kansas City motor car dealer, was one file here today. The case has been set for trial October 14 next.

BATTLE TO GO LIMIT IS VIEW

Experts Predict Frenchman Will Stay to the End Against Gibbons

Promoters Speed Up Program When Rain Threatens to Interfere

RINGSIDE, Michigan City, Ind., May 31.—Long before Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul battler, and Georges Carpentier entered the ring here this afternoon for their ten round no-decision battle, the great arena was packed to capacity and hundreds of fans were sitting in the aisles.

Rerpresentatives of Governor Branch of Indiana were at the ringside to prevent violation of the state laws on boxing.

Jack Curley, representing Carpentier, said that all of the approximately 30,000 seats in the arena had been sold. Fear of rain caused the promoters to put on the first of the unadvertised bouts at 1:50 p. m.

Instead of waiting until the scheduled time, 2 o'clock, scores of bleacher seats occupants made a rush from their $5 seats for the $16.50 seats but were driven back by the force of ushers.

Several isolated battles were fought and a number of the bleacherites were put out of the arena.

Many hundreds of women gave a touch of color to the scene.

The first bout was between Mickey Cone, of Kokomo, Ind., and Johnny Crosty of South Chicago. The boys were punching themselves dizzy and the bleachers howled for a knockout.

Danny Kahn and Jack McCarty, 140 pounders from Chicago, wrestled through four rounds and gave way to Jack Kane and Joe Cooper, light weights from Chicago.

During one of the preliminaries when a knockout appeared imminent a sergeant of police called to the referee and said:

"Stop it if it looks like a knockout."

Belief among the thousands gathered for the big fight was that it probably would go the limit of ten rounds.

Carpentier showed a flash of temper this morning when Gibbons failed to appear for the official physical examination. Carpentier was examined and pronounced perfect. He refused to be weighed in without Gibbons and when Gibbons failed to appear he stalked out. Francois Descamps, Carpentier's manager, exploded with wrath and showered the promoters with a volley of French and then he, too, left.

The physicians waited until 10:45, an hour and 45 minutes after the time appointed for the examination and then left without having heard from Gibbons or his manager. The physicians said they would force Gibbons to go through with the examination later.

Check Huge Fires Periling Forests

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31. — Prompt work by fire fighters had resulted today in practically controlling fires which raged in forests and on brush land in eight California counties since early in the week.

Rangers leading forces of men combatting blazes in the forests of Santa Cruz county, near the state redwood park, in Siskiyou county near Yreka, and in Plumas county reported that despite lack of water and dry timber, further danger for the time being has been averted.

Brush fires in Napa, El Dorado, Butte, Humboldt and Placer all have been checked.

Portuguese Plane Is Safe in India

LONDON, May 31.—Portuguese flyers who have entered the world air race have arrived at Ambala, 160 miles from Lahore, India, according to a dispatch to the Times from Simla.

HUSBAND, WIFE SUED IN $2000 WAGE 'ROW'

Mrs. Elizabeth Greenhow and her husband, E. B. Greenhow, were defendants today in two superior court actions filed here involving claims aggregating nearly $2000 against their apartment building at Huntington Beach.

One action, brought by George E. Graham, painting contractor, asked judgment for $1096.10 alleged to be due Graham and five of his employes for painting and papering the building. The five employes were M. Carr, George Wilson, Charles Wade, H. Cling and S. Johnson.

The other action was brought by the Hammond Lumber company to foreclose a mechanic's lien of $1930, covering lumber alleged to have been furnished Contractors B. Vedeler, E. L. Harris and George A. Thayer, in building the Greenhow apartments. The contractors were included with the owners as defendants.

The Hammond Lumber company also had on file today a suit to foreclose a mechanic's lien of $544.01 against the Dixie oil station property on West Chapman avenue, Orange, The Dixie Gasoline, Inc., and Orange citizens interested in the property, including J. Kogler, Paul Kogler, W. J. Kogler, H. J. Kogler, Dora and Mamie Kogler and Mary McGuire, were made defendants in the action.

The Dixie chain of service stations were involved recently in a criminal charge against John Saxon Porter and other officers of the Dixie company, who were charged with obtaining money under false pretense.

WOMAN'S BEATING CHARGED TO MATE

Showing marks, it was said, of a terrific beating, Mrs. Carmen Sanchez of Stanton today appeared at the district attorney's office here and swore to a complaint charging assault and battery against her husband, Candido Sanchez, and his father, Trobio Sanchez, the latter a resident of Los Angeles.

Candido Sanchez, subsequently, was sentenced in justice court at Stanton to serve six months in the county jail.

Mrs. Sanchez declared she was attacked yesterday and would have been killed, she asserted, had not her young daughter summoned help.

Claiming that she supported herself and was also forced to support her husband much of the time, Mrs. Sanchez said he frequently beat her and attacked her yesterday at the urging of his father, who wanted to separate the couple.

Oppose Proposed S. C. Farm Paper

For the purpose of opposing a proposed move to begin a regional farm bureau paper destined to cover the entire field of farm bureaus in the Southland, A. M. Stanley, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau, and A. E. Brock, publicity manager for the Orange county paper, today were attending a meeting of editors of county papers at Riverside.

"We believe that the new paper would conflict with the progress of the county farm bureau magazines now published without competition," Stanley said.

PAIR ARE DIVORCED; NEVER ASKED SUIT

NEW YORK, May 31.—May a couple be divorced and not know it?

According to Anne Nichols, author of "Abie's Irish Rose," and Henry Duffey, her erstwhile (according to the law) husband, a couple most certainly can.

The law says they are divorced.

They say they are not. They insist the law is wrong and, as far as they know, they are still man and wife.

This peculiar state of affairs became known when Justice Taylor ,in White Plains, granted Miss Nichols an interlocutory decree of divorce and awarded her the custory of Henry Duffey jr., aged 6.

Mystery surrounded the granting of this decree, which was given after a private hearing in the justice's chambers, with only counsel for Miss Nichols present.

More mystery was added when Miss Nichols and Duffey asserted they never had contemplated divorce proceedings nor had engaged counsel to bring such a suit.

To corroborate their statement, the pair, to all outward appearances still much in love with each other, had luncheon together. Many friends greeted them. A few showed clippings from an afternoon paper announcing the severance of their martial bonds. The pair retorted:

"Divorced? Why, we know nothing about it! Would we be here if there was any truth in the report?"

From the home of her mother in Elmhurst, Miss Nichols later issued the following statement:

"I have never advised my counsel, O'Brien, Malevnisky & Driscoll, to institute any divorce action. Mr. Duffey and I have been separated for the last two years, it is true, but we are the very best of friends."

OPEN DRIVE ON OBSCURED CAR NO. PLATES

Starting today, this week will be devoted to a compaign of education for motorists who have dirty license plates, whose numbers are partly obscured by bumpers or tire racks and whose plates are less than sixteen inches above the ground.

Last night marked the close of the headlight campaign, and dozens of autoists were stopped between 8 and 10 p. m. yesterday by motorcycle officers stationed at the intersection known as Orana at North Main street and Chapman avenue. Accessory stories did a rushing business in the sale of light bulbs of the proper amperage and in adjusting headlights.

But this week's campaign will not prevent persons from being arrested for not complying with the headlight law, motorcycle officers said.

Today, however, the officers have been instructed to use special efforts in enforcing Section 43(b) of the California Vehicle Act which reads:

"Every number plate shall at all times be securely fastened to the vehicle to which it is assigned, so as to prevent the plate from swinging, at a minimum distance of sixteen inches from the ground in a position clearly visible, and shall be maintained free from foreign materials and in a condition to be clearly legible."

If motorists make any objection when ordered by officers to get out of their cars immediately and clean or move their license plates, the guardians of the law have been instructed to issue the offender a citation to see the judge.

$75,000 FRAUD LAID TO MAN BY BROKER

NEW YORK, May 31.—Following positive identification by Samuel Waldman, a cotton broker of Providence, R. I., George Hurbert, who says he is a salesman, was held in $1000 bail on a charge of having defrauded Waldman of $75,000. The alleged swindle is said to have occurred three years ago in a fake broker's office in Miami, Fla. Hurbert was also accused by Postal Inspector Graham of being an internationally known swindler.

The police insist that he is Louis Waxenberg, who has served prison terms in France and this country. They assert that he was one of the Gondorf wire tapping gang and that he once swindled a Scotland Yard detective who came here seeking another criminal.

Hurbert was arrested on a warrant issued in Florida charging grand larceny. Waldman said he met Hurbert in Miami in what he believed was a broker's office. Later, he was informed that it was a pool room. He was allowed to win small bets on several "sure things," then persuaded to wager $75,000 on a single race. When he called around after the race, the brokerage office, the customers and the manager had vanished, leaving only the empty premises.

LAWYER BALKS EXPERTS BY TALENTS

MASON CITY, Ia., May 31.—Urbane L. Barrett, cube-root king of Mason City, does not claim to be a mathematician.

"This is just a hobby of mine," he said at a demonstraton before a large gathering of junior college students as he calmly wrote down 8877 as the cube root of 699,517,622,133. Figure it out yourself.

Mathematicians everywhere he has appeared have blinked their eyes in amazement to witness the rapid calculation methods of Barrett, who is a Mason City attorney by profession, for he mentally computes the cube root of numbers in trillions. This feat has heretofore been considered mathematically impossible.

Short methods have been devised for multiplication, addition and divers other mathematical processes, and calculating machines rapidly are dispensing with the art of addition, subtraction, multiplication and division, but so far as the records go no man nor machine has been able to extract the cube root of large numbers by any short and simple method.

Barrett, although the idea has lain dormant in his brain since he discovered the method 20 years ago while milking a cow on the Texas plains, never knew he had anything out of the ordinary until he gave some demonstration before the Armour institute, the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, Western engineers, the Mathematicians' club of the University of Chicago and the University of Ohio.

To solve problems in cube root by the common methematical method takes a good mathematician 15 to 30 minutes. Barrett does them almost instantly.

"Concentration of the mind and the application of certain fundamental properties of numbers," is Barrett's explanation.

New Department Store Will Open Here on June 15

"Livesey's," a bicycle and sporting goods house operating in this city for many years, today had temporarily suspended business, at 216 East Fuorth street, pending reestablishment of the enterprise in a new locaion. J. E. Livesey jr., and Elmer Preston, owners, have sold their lease on the premises to H. B. Rabb and G. M. Tindall, who will open here June 15 a department store for ready-to-wear clothes for men, women and boys.

Tindall arrived here today from Kokomo, Ind., and his family will follow soon. Rabb has moved his family here from Los Angeles.

ACCUSES WIFE WITH MURDER MOTIVE; SUES

When his wife, he alleges, tried once to murder him by turning on the gas in his bedroom, Louis Zaepfel of Orange, was considerably uneasy, but when she promised not to do it again he quieted his fears.

But when she tried again, he declares, a few days later, he thought it was time to seek new surroundings. So he left his wife, his furniture and even his clothing except what he wore.

All this was alleged nine years later, for today he sued her for divorce and charged her with technical desertion. His complaint, alleging the two attempts to asphyxiate him, was on file in the superior court here. Attorney L. F. Coburn represents the plaintiff.

Zaepfel, a baker residing in Nutwood place, Orange, left his wife in May, 1915, in New York City, after being wed a year. He was forced to work nights, he said, and his wife, being very jealous, suspected he was with other women. This jealously, he alleged, caused her to try to kill him.

Besides the two asserted gas attacks, Mrs. Zaepfel once struck her husband on the head with an iron poker, he complains, and on another occasion, he alleged, assaulted him with a hammer.

$1000 HEART BALM FOR N. J. MISS OF 42

HACKENSACK, N. J., May 31.—Garret Vybel, a painter and decorator of Ridgewood, was ordered by a jury in the Bergen county circuit court here to return to Miss Hilda Dahlin, 42, of Ridgewood the $948.10 which she claims she loaned him to by an engagement ring, an automobile, a couple of lap robes and other "incidentals," during a courtship in which she contended he promised to marry her.

Vybel also was ordered to pay Miss Dahlin $1000 for failure to keep him promise to wed her. She sued for $10,000 damages.

Her testimony was that she loaned Vybel $42 "to buy my engagement ring, $700 to buy an automobile which we were to use when we got married, $65 for automobile robes and $50 for incidentals." She also testified that Vybel introduced her to many of his friends as "my future wife."

She told of having gone to visit her parents in Sweden and upon her return—after a three months' stay—learned that Vybel had married during the interval. Then she determined to get back the money she loaned him and also to sue him for breach of promise.

Early Trial For Naval Embezzler

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Lieutenant Ervine R. Brown, naval paymaster, said to have confessed to absconding from his ship with $112,000 of government funds, was to be placed under guard on a destroyer bound for San Diego, today, to face court martial there.

Brown was captured here April 7 after eluding pursuit for nearly a month. His wife restored to naval authorities more than half the money with which Lieutenant Brown absconded.

University Women In L. A. Session

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—Third annual state convention of the American Association of University women was underway here today, with delegates rfom all sections of California in attendance.

Mrs. Frederick Faulkner, of San Francisco, was to report at the morning session on the national convention, from which she recently returned.

A reception and banquet were features of last night's meeting.

Japanese Protest Now With Hughes

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The Japanese protest against the new immigration law today was formally presented to Secretary of State Hughes by Japanese Ambassador Hanihara. No comment was made by either and it was indicated at the state department that the text would not be made public for some time.

Some species of rhododendrons which produce perfectly black flowers were recently discovered by an English botanist in Tibet.

RICH BOYS IN CONFESSION OF MURDER

rimmed eye glasses found near the body of the slain youth. Robert never wore glasses, his father told police, and it was at once suspected that they had been dropped by the murderer.

The three detectives went to a large optical house and learned the name of Dr. William Deutsch, an eye specialist, who sent most of his patients to this particular firm.

Dr. Deutsch examined the glasses and said he had prescribed such glasses to three different people. One was Nathan Leopold.

On Right Track

When Leopold stoutly denied he ever wore glasses, but later admitted he once wore glasses like those found near the scene of the murder and said he had lost them "many months ago," the detectives believed they were on the right track. At this point he admitted that he frequented the lonely waste lands where the boy's body was found. He said he was studying nature.

Loeb was then called and the two youths were questioned as to their movements on the day of the slaying. They told a story of going to a public park on the other side of the city and watching for new spring birds. This was followed, they said, by a "wild gin party." They were using Leopold's automobile, they said.

Courtland, Johnson and Crot were about ready to give up this lead and set Leopold and Loeb free when they decided to question Sven Englund, the Leopold chauffeur. Englund said the Leopold automobile was not taken from the garage on the day of the crime.

Show Nervousness.

Englund's story was told last night. The two boys were again called for questioning. When they were told of Englund's story they became nervous. Their alibi was broken. It was the first time they lost their feeling of confidence.

At 1:30 Corwe came out of the office and told newspapermen a confession would be forthcoming soon. Then followed long hours of grilling. The two youths were questioned again and again on all details of their movements, and finally, shortly after dawn, made complete confessions.

"We were just plumb damned fools," Leopold said. "We thought it was great sport. We thought it would give us a huge thrill.

"Well," and he smiled through beads of perspiration on his face, "we got our thrill but now where are we?"

After giving the two youths their breakfast, officers took them to the scene of the murder to re-enact the crime.

Sons of Millionaires.

Leopold is the son of the millionaire head of the Morris Paper Box company. Loeb's father is vice president of the Sears Roebuck company.

Jacob Franks, father of the victim, was a millionaire manufacturer—once a pawn shop proprietor.

The combined wealth of the families involved was estimated at $25,000,000 today.

Leopold is a scholarly youth, master of 15 languages and for many years a student of perversion in every form. He is the youngest graduate of the University of Chicago. He recently obtained a bachelor of philosophy degree.

Glad Over Capture

"Thank God for that!" Jacob Franks, the murdered boy's father, said when informed the two university students had confessed.

"The perpetrators of this fiendish crime are caught at last and I'm mighty glad. That's all I can say—that's all I should say."

The two youths, both 19, broken down by an all night session of questioning, became calm after they had been to breakfast. They posed for pictures and expressed relief that the burden of their secret had been lifted.

"It's a great relef to get this off our chests," Leopold said.

Police announced they had definitely established the fact that Loeb was the driver of the death car. This, they said, was important, as it is almost certain that the driver was not the one who struck young Franks over the head.

The county grand jury convenes on Monday and charges of first degree murder will be laid against the two youths, Crowe announced. Capital punishment is possible under the Illinois law even though both are under legal age.

Should the murder charges fail, the boys will be charged on counts of kidnaping, Crowe said.

Would Not Believe It

Parents of the two youths refused to make statements when they learned of the confessions. Nathan Leopold sr., would not believe it when told his son had confessed. He made a fast motor trip to the state's attorney's office to get first hand information.

"I am heart broken," he said, when he learned the truth. "I won't say any more than that just now."

The homes of Leopold, Loeb and Franks are all located near together in the aristocratic section of Chicago's south side. The Loeb home is almost across the street from that of Franks.

Young Loeb admitted that he had known Robert Franks for some time.

"Why, I've played tennis with that kid many times," he said.

All three families are prominent socially in south side clubs and have interminged many times.

Loeb is said to be the youngest graduate of the University of Michigan. He received his A. B. degree when only 17 years old.

Young Loeb collapsed this afternoon while going over the scene of the murder and was taken to a hospital for treatment. His condition is not serious, hospital attaches said.

2 WOUNDED IN BATTLE OVER RUM CARGO

(By United Press Leased Wire)

LOS ANGELES, May 31.—A gun battle over an automobile cargo of liquor early today sent two men to the receiving hospital, one a police officer and the other a civilian.

Detective Lieutenant George A. Ryan is the wounded officer while his victim is Tony Michaels, of San Francisco. Ryan was shot through both hip; and Michaels was wounded in the right leg and right arm.

The gun battle, in which more than a dozen bullets were fired, occurred in front of a South Hobart boulevard residence where, it is alleged, Michaels was attempting to deliver a quantity of liquor. The police had been tipped off and were awaiting him.

In Michael's pockets were found currency and several checks signed by wealthy Los Angeles residents. Michaels is said to have told police they were in payment for liquor delivered during the day, portions of a 25-case consignment be brought in from San Francisco.

SLAY WOMAN IN SHRINE; 3 MEN ARRESTED

PATERSON, N. J., May 31.—Three men were held as material witnesses in connection with the murder of Mrs. Marie Safferagge, 53, of 83 Jersey street, Paterson, whose body, brutally hacked and torn, was found in a one-room shack she was erecting at the foot of Pleasantville avenue, West Paterson, as a shrine.

It is said she vowed to build it if one of her two sons who served in France with the American Expeditionary Force, came back from the war unscathed.

One of the men held is her husband, Salvatore Safferagge. The others are Frank Carbone, who has no home, and Angelo Ratino, a milkman of Hillcrest avenue, Paterson.

The body was discovered by Peter Turco, 10 years old, who lives directly opposite the shack. It showed signs of having been cut with a stilletto, according to the police, and the disordered room showed there had apparently been a violent struggle before the woman was overcome by her assailant.

Police are of the opinion that Mrs. Safferagge was slain for her money because she went every day before she began work on the shrine, to collect money from neighbors and strangers to carry on the work.

Police have stated that Safferagge and Carbone were seen near or inside the shack. Ratino, the milkman, is alleged to have stopped there earlier in the day while on his milk route.

POLICEMAN HIT BY SHOT FROM OWN GUN

NEW YORK, May 31.—Patrolman Heffernan, who lives at 2535 Millwood avenue, Ridgewood, had a shattered finger as the result of a bullet wound inflicted by his own gun.

He was firing a second shot at a fleeing robbery suspect in Fifth avenue, near Twenty-first street, when someone on the crowded thoroughfare pushed against him and caused the mishap.

The fleeing man, captured a block away by Patrolman La Bau, described himself as Frank Proto, 180 Pearl street, Brooklyn. After being attended at New York hospital for a superficial gunshot wound in the right thigh he was taken to the East Twenty-second street station and locked up on a charge of larceny. He is alleged to have taken four packages from a delivery wagon.

Fifth avenue at the time was crowded with shoppers and office workers. Much excitement accompanied the firing of the shots. After Proto's capture it was necessary to send in a call for more police to prevent the enraged crowd from doing him bodily harm.

KING GEORGE FIGHTS SNOBS FOR LABORITE

LONDON, May 31.—While Edinburgh society is threatening to boycott Holyrood palace during the residence there of James Brown, the miner M. P. recently appointed lord high commissioner of the general assembly of the Church of Scotland, King George was disclosed as a supporter of Brown and his shopgirl wife. The Duke of Atholl, who has been Brown's supporter against the snobs of Scotland, returned to London today and stated that the king instructed that the palace be put in the best condition and that the necessary furnishings be provided to make the palace a fitting place for entertaining, and that equipment for the state coach be provided.

BOY, 11 YEARS OLD, EDITS NEWSPAPER

DENVER, May 31.—Kenneth Webster Heron, 11 years old, believed to be America's youngest successful newspaper editor and publisher, visited Denver. He arrived from his home at Chama, N. M., where he publishes the only English language paper, the Chama News, a weekly.

And Kenneth's first point of interest in Denver was the Post. Accompanied by an aunt he made a trip through the plant of the paper from top to bottom, absorbing every detail in the various departments with avidity and intelligent observation characteristic of a true newspaper man.

"Considerably larger than my plant," he said after the tour of inspection, "but not a darn bit busier than mine on the day of publication.

"Of course you folks get out a bigger paper, so, naturally, you have to have a larger plant. My paper is one sheet, eight by twelve inches. When news is heavy and advertising business is good I sometimes have to print on both sides. At other times I print just one page."

Kenneth, a keen-eyed, manly appearing chap, started publication of his paper March 31, 1922, because, he said, "the other papers in the country were printed in Spanish, and I thought we ought to have an English paper just to let people know we lived in the United States."

He derives a net income of about $5 to $6 a week from his publication, sometimes more when the advertisers boost their space demand, he says. In a town of 500 inhabitants, many of whom cannot read English, his paper has a circulation of about 30 each week, in addition to several copies he sends to Colorado and Washington, D. C.

Kenneth writes his own editorials and news items, sets them up in type and runs them off on his job press. He has a sister, Ruth, 8 years old, and a brother, Bob, 9. Ruth feels no urge to be a newspaper "man," he says, but Bob helps out at times by bringing in advertising copy. Other than that, Kenneth asserts, the Chama News is a one-man institution.

Editorially, the News is "dry and independent," he publisher says, but he admits a leaning toward the Republican party. However, he hastens to add, that doesn't affect the policy of his paper.

He is in the sixth grade at school, but finds time to publish his paper and never has missed an issue since it started. His father, Kenneth A. Herron, is a civil engineer. The boy was born at Valier, Mont., and lived in Oregon just prior to going to New Mexico six years ago.

"I'll send you a copy of my paper," Kenneth said as he left The Post plant. "It isn't as big as yours, but if Chama ever grows to be as big as Denver, the Chama News will be just as big and as fine a paper as The Denver Post.

"You needn't worry about the competition for the next year or two, anyway," he added, his eyes a-twinkle.

$20,000 Loot of Bold Highwaymen

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31.—Three bandits held up two messengers of the Argentine State bank here today and escaped with $20,000.

The Old Timer says—

"Never saw such richness and slip in any other plaster, and I've been in this game nearly twenty years.

These qualities that please the workman mean economy to you, Mr. Homebuilder. Because it works easier the workman covers more yards per day. You are assured of hard, strong walls and ceilings that successfully withstand the wear and tear of occupancy.

Because of its permanence, decorations last longer, repairs are reduced to a minimum and the upkeep cost is practically nothing. You cannot afford to neglect a careful investigation of this plaster before you build.

Lock Pried from Elite Hall Door

While making his rounds at an early hour today, Patrolman W. J. Jinkins noticed the lock had been pried from the door of the Elite hall on East Third street. Investigating further he discovered a badly damaged candy slot machine at the entrance to the skating rink upstairs and a tin can full of nickels, left on a step near the wrecked candy machine.

Officer Jinkins notified the manager of the rink, who took charge of the money.

The first United States immigration law was that enacted March 3, 1875, which prohibited the immigration of aliens who had been convicted of crimes.

PATRIOTISM SHOWN BY SANTA ANANS DOING HONOR TO FALLEN HEROES DRAWS PRAISES

Memorial day scenes at cemetery. Upper, American Legion firing squad salute the dead. Lower, veterans of three wars conduct ceremony at monument to the unknown dead. Inset, Mrs. Clyde Whitney, Legion auxiliary member, decorating grave of a veteran of the World War.

Santa Anans were more patriotic and were present at Memorial day exercises yesterday in larger numbers than on any previous local observance of the day, George Huntington, adjutant of Sedgwick post No. 17, G. A. R., declared here today. He added that greater attention was given to display of the colors.

"The spirit of Santa Ana citizens yesterday was fine," Huntington said, "and the splendid manner in which they evidenced their recognition of the occasion was particularly a source of great satisfaction to the veterans.

"The abundance of flowers offered for the decoration of graves of departed comrades of the various patriotic organizations, the numbers in attendance at the exercises at the cemetery and at Birch park, and the general display of flags—all portrayed the public's appreciation of the valiant services rendered the nation by those who have fought for and protected the colors at times of peril.

"It was my observation that there was less frivolity here than in previous years, an indication that our residents are coming more fully to realize the full significance of the day.

Thousands were present at Birch park in the afternoon, when the Memorial day program was presented, with Freeman H. Bloodgood delivering the memorial address.

In addition to community singing, lead by Mrs. A. E. Chapman, the musical numbers included the "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and "Goodbye Sweet Day," sung by a high school girls' quartette composed of the Misses Lorene Croddy, Madaline Moose, Helen Glancy and Molly Mosher, with Miss Margaret Wickes as leader and accompanist, and a solo, "Dropping from the Ranks," by Mrs. Chapman.

The Rev. F. T. Porter sounded "taps" after roll call.

In the program at Balboa, conducted by the American Legion, the firing squad was supplied by the Orange county unit of the United States naval reserve.

Members of Calumpit camp No. 26, United Spanish War veterans, and members of the auxiliary went to the cemetery in a body yesterday forenoon and placed permanent markers on each of the sixteen graves of departed members. The graves also were decorated. In the afternoon a large number of the members of each organization attended the exercises at Birch park.

REFUTES RUMOR QUARANTINE IS LIFTED

The mountain districts of Orange county are not open to the general public and will not be until authorities are convinced that the foot and mouth disease has been completely and effectively wiped out in Orange county.

A. A. Brock, county horticultural commissioner, thus declared today, refuting published statements, said to have originated in Sacramento, to the effect that quarantine restrictions in California had been lifted.

"The county ordinance adopted here will be kept in effect probably for some weeks," said the horticultural commissioner. "The restrictions will not be lifted until we are certain that the foot and mouth disease has been permanently eliminated from the county.

"Federal officials have not notified me of release of the restricted district in Orange county established by them some weeks ago. That district includes that territory lying between the west county boundary and the Santa Ana river and Southern Pacific line to Los Angeles."

Brock said that he had no official confirmation of published reports that all highways, mountain roads, camp grounds, trout streams, hiking trails and every recreation feature on the Pacific coast had been thrown open.

The report asserted that Arizona still is closed to east-bound traffic from California.

The state department of agriculture has issued the following statement concerning the destruction of animal life since the plague broke out in California:

"Before the epidemic there were in the state 2,085,000 dairy and beef cattle; of these 42,874 were killed, which was slightly over 2 per cent. There were 2,450,000 sheep; 25,660, or 1 per cent were killed. There were 824,000 swine; 19,196, or 2 3-10 per cent were killed. There were 12,000 goats; 476, or a negligible percentage, were killed.

Total livestock subject to the disease numbered 5,469,000 and 88,206 were killed. This was a shade over 1 6-10 per cent; that is, in the proportion of sixteen head out of 1000 for all classes."

Holiday Traffic Cases Net Fines

"Men may come and men may go, but the police court goes on forever," City Recorder W. F. Heathman remarked today, in reporting that his office was open a short time yesterday when four men, arrested for asserted traffic law violations, presented themselves in his court for trial.

The alleged holiday offenders were E. O. Oakley, fined $2 for parking his car between 2 and 5 a. m. in the business district; Herman Silverman, fined $5 for disobeying signals of traffic officer; A. F. Gravaz, discharged after being charged with parking overtime in the two-hour district, and H. A. Bowman, fined $1 for parking his car across painted guide-lines on a downtown street.

PLAY BASED ON 'JOSTLING' OF 3 BACHELORS

Suppose you were a middle-aged bachelor, settled in a rut and complacent in your state. Suppose you lived with two other bachelors, likewise settled and equally complacent, in a perfectly organized household that reeked of efficiency with nothing to jar your well-ordered lives.

Then suppose you received a legacy which, with the suddenness of a tornado, jostled you out of your rut and made you see that your "modus vivendi" was entirely wrong. As the psychologist would say, what would be your reaction?

What that legacy was and how it worked in the case of three bachelors will be shown by the Community players in their production of "Three Wise Fools" at the Temple theater on the nights of June 9 to 12.

Tickets will be on sale at the Santa Ana book store Monday. Season ticket-holders may make their reservations Monday and Tuesday, and the seat sale will be open to the general public Wednesday.

YOUTH IN LIQUOR DEALS IS PROBLEM

Police officials at Orange today were considering what they would do with Clyde "Skeet" Dorsten, 18 years old, who, officers allege, has been involved in deals in which intoxicating liquor has played a prominent part, following testimony given in court to the effect that he accompanied J. T. Akinson of Orange to Seal Beach, where the two men were said to have secured a quantity of what Justice of the Peace G. W. Ingle of Orange described as "bootleg booze".

Atkinson pleaded guilty in Ingle's court to a charge of intoxication and was fined $25 and given a ninety day suspended jail sentence. Pending investigation of his case, Dorsten was ordered to report to the court every ten days until the legal course to pursue against him has been determined. No official charge was placed against the boy, but Judge Ingle said that in all probability he would be turned over to the juvenile authorities for possible incarceration in a correctional institution.

Delay Trial of $3000 Fraud Case

The preliminary hearing of John Scott jr. of La Habra, charged with obtaining money under a false pretense, was postponed from today until Monday at 10 a. m., in Justice J. B. Cox's court. Defense-Attorney Goodwin of Los Angeles, who was recently retained by Scott, asked for more time to prepare his case. District Attorney A. P. Nelson agreed to the delay.

Scott is accused by Fred Van Hagen of Placentia, who claims he loaned Scott $3000 on the promise of a gift of $3000 in stock of a cement company that Scott claimed to be organizing, Van Hagen said. Scott represented, according to Van Hagen, that the company owed him $12,000 and that he owned ten acres of orange grove land at La Habra.

During the last twenty years, Canada's occupied farms have increased by over 200,000 and their acreage 77,000,000.

"HANG-OVER COUGHS"

Now is the time to get rid of that stubborn cough which has been "hanging on" all winter. A few doses of the good, reliable FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND will speedily relieve same. Mrs. Sarah Heck, 341 St. Paul St., Memphis, Tenn., writes: "I have been wonderfully benefited by FOLEY'S HONEY AND TAR COMPOUND. The first dose stopped my cough. It was a stubborn cough and I had been troubled with it since the first cold spell. Best for coughs and colds. Sold everywhere.—Adv.

LOCAL MEN AT LEGISLATIVE CHANGE MEET

A. M. Stanley, manager of the Orange county farm bureau; A. E. Brock, farm bureau man of Costa Mesa; E. E. Campbell, Orange, director of the bureau; L. F. Coburn, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, and Dr. C. D. Ball, assemblyman, were among the Orange county men present today at Riverside at a conference called to develop a program aimed to give rural counties control of the state legislature.

Circulation of petitions to place on the November ballot an amendment for reapportionment of the political subdivisions of California so far as they pertain to state senatorial districts and the reapportionment of assemblymen according to population figures of the 1920 federal census, has been suggested.

The proposed amendment would give control of the state senate to the rural communities, the division being fifteen senators to the three largest counties—Los Angeles, San Francisco and Alameda—and twenty-five to the balance of the state.

Los Angeles and San Francisco have long dominated the state legislature, and these cities will fight any change in the order of things, Dr. Ball declared, here in urging that resident of every rural community in the state support the initiative proposal.

VISITS HERE, LOSES CAR

While C. N. Cowee of Buena Park was visiting in Santa Ana yesterday noon, his touring car was stolen from the corner of Fourth and Bush street, according to a report filed at police headquarters here today.

FOUGHT UNDER "OLD HICKORY"

Widow of 1812 Rifleman Living in Tennessee—Says She Has Used Black Draught for Twenty Years.

South Pittsburg, Tenn. — Mrs. Louisa Wade, who lives here with her son, Mr. Van Thompson, is the widow of Farleigh Wade, a Virginia rifleman, who fought with Gen. Andrew Jackson at the Battle of New Orleans, in the War of 1812. Mrs. Wade, herself 87 years old, draws a pension from the government on account of the services of the old militiaman in that war. In spite of her years, Mrs. Wade is active and in good health, visiting her different relatives and taking a great interest in current affairs.

"We have used Black-Draught in our family for twenty years," says Mrs. Wade. "A long time ago I began to use this splendid medicine for biliousness. I have suffered a great deal during my life from constipation and nothing seems to do me as much good as Black-Draught . . . I have found no relief like Black-Draught and I have tried many remedies.

"For the dull, heavy headache, which comes from a clogged condition of the system, I regard Black-Draught as a fine remedy. Sometimes I take it in the form of a tea and sometimes I take it 'dry so.'

"For years I was never without it in the house. Now I don't keep house, but I get this old standby when I need it."

YALE DIVINITY SCHOOL FULL IS REPORT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 31.—Yale university, through its divinity school, is feeling the modern-day stir in religious affairs, and today that school numbers among its students more individuals than it has room to handle, so far as class-rooms are concerned. No fewer than 117 different colleges have sent men to receive training as preachers. Every main branch of the Christian faith is represented, and though Yale was originally a Congregational college, Methodists are leading today in the student lists. Seven foreign countries have sent students, as well as 35 states of the Union.

The divinity school, through Dr. Charles R. Brown, its dean, is looking for more room in class quarters and chapel. From 55 to 75 students are being handled in classrooms where the capacity is 45, while the chapel is far too small. As a result of inadequate classrooms the students are thrown about the university wherever a classroom of size happens to be available.

Balks at Cub Novels

Lee Wilson Dodd, playwright and author, who first practiced law in New York, and then settled down in a suburban spot in New Haven to devote his days to literature, has announced: "One thing I do strike on, and that is reading any more novels of Yale undergraduates—and that holds good for Harvard, Princeton and all the rest."

He told Yale students just the other day that while the subject is interesting, "it certainly has been overdone recently." But Dodd sees "literature, instead of being on the decline, in an extremely flourishing state. Such a world as ours, with all its intricacies and complexities, cannot fail to produce writers. But there is one thing I cannot understand. People talk about the 'great American novel.' Such a thing is absurd. No man can write such a work. The subject is far too comprehensive."

Dodd then sees the younger writers of today "engaged in something interesting—a new experiment, experimenting in new lines of writing."

Yale, whose traditional opponent in sports is Harvard, is now after Harvard's playwright honors. The Playcraftsmen intend to capture whatever laurels there be eventually. They are giving their plays month by month to the public through their own stage, now in a university building, and expect soon to be in their own little theater, which is now being erected. Their own designers and scenery workers as well as their own playbuilders and actors, are included in the Playcraftsmen, who are entirely aside from the University Dramatic association, which has been playing semi-annually for years.

New Professors

Kenneth Conrad Heald, chief of the gas and oil section of the United States geological survey, is coming to New Haven as associate professor in geology, with assignment to Sheffield scientific school, of Yale university. He will specialize in the geology of gas and petroleum. Other newcomers, with the next university year, will be Theodore Crane, of New York, as associate professor in building construction on the Starrett-Thompson foundation; William Francis Swann, of University of Chicago, as professor in physics, and Edward Raymond Turner, of University of Michigan, as professor in English history.

William N. Mallory, football star, takes exception to statements of his faculty members criticizing athletics in college. "Memphis Bill", as he is known, went out among members of the Kiwanis club, of New Haven, and told them point blank he couldn't see the faculty side at all. He carried records to show that athletes in Yale stood from five to six points higher than non-athletes.

NOT TO ARREST BOY FOR SHOOTING MAN

August Laberdiette, 20 years old, probably will not be arrested for shooting and severely wounding Ray Valencia last night in Los Alamitos, it was declared today by Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy sheriff, who stated that Deputies French, Dan Adams, H. W. McKague and he had found no complainant to testify that the young man was not defending his father who was being attacked by Valencia and three other Mexicans.

"If anyone is arrested as a result of last night's shooting scrape," McClellan said, "it most likely will be one or two of the Mexicans who attacked the elder Laberdiette and his companions."

According to deputies, Pete Laberdiette and L. Longival, both of Los Alamitos, were motoring with George Purviance of Artesia, and when the automobile stopped in front of the Laberdiette home the party was greeted by a shower of rocks from four Mexicans in a nearby automobile.

The young man, who was attacked when he sought to aid his father, finally broke away from his assailants and ran into the house, returning shortly with a shotgun. The bullet pe nertated Valencia's right leg above the knee.

The row at once subsided and the injured man was taken to the hospital in Artesia where eleven lead pellets were found in the wounded limb. Valencia later was transferred to the Los Angeles county hospital.

Chamber Directors At Grove Elected

GARDEN GROVE, May 31.—The following are the officers elected by the Chamber of Commerce board of directors for the coming year: President, Vernon King; first vice president, J. O. Arkley, second vice president, J. C. Mitchell; secretary, T. E. Pickerill; treasurer, F. A. Monroe; new director, St. Clair Woods.

At the new grammar school an unsually happy event was staged, honoring the members of the 8th grade who will progress from the grade school to the first year in the high school. The affair was given Tuesday evening in the domestic science rooms with the 7th grade pupils as hosts.

The room was changed into a veritable garden by the use of palms and greenery. Orangeade was served as the guests arrived. After an evening of games, refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Forty-two students received their diplomas from the 8th grade on Thursday evening when graduating exercises were held in the grammar school auditorium.

The following program was presented:

Selection, Girls Glee Club.
Class History, Esther Guyton.
Class Will, Clark Hayhurst.
Class Prophesy, Eunice Pringle.
Address, Dr. A. A. Macurda of Los Angeles.

New officers for the coming year elected by the Epworth League of the Methodist church are: president, Harold Chaffee; first vice president, Norma Rossman; second vice president, Mettie Chaffee; third vice president, Amelia Scidmore; fourth vice president, Metta Rossman; secretary, Wallace Bragg; treasurer, Hollis Fitz; chorister, Pearl Blaeholder; pianist Lova Holt.

Thrift Day for the schools and community of Garden Grove was held Wednesday at the grammar school grounds on Acasia avenue. Lunch was served at noon followed by a very interesting program in the auditorium.

The Lions Club had their luncheon at the grounds and as a special feature presented Mr. Foster with his trained dogs. Short talks were given by Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. E. F. Zimmerman, presidents of the high school and grammar school P. T. A. respectively. J. O. Arkley president of the high school board, and J. G. Allen, president of the grammar school board, S. R. Fitz, principal of the grammar school and A. D. Hoenshell, principal of the high school, made brief remarks giving words of encouragement to the organization.

Mrs. J. Edmund Snow of Santa Ana, president of the County P. T. A. and Mrs. Goodale, county chairman of the board of education, brought greetings to the local organization.

Mrs. Tummons, kindergarden teacher, and her little pupils entertained with several numbers, the kindergarten band proving an especially interesting feature.

Two numbers on thrift were presented by the second grade, followed by delightful piano numbers by Mrs. W. A. Wisner and son, Allen. F. H. Felberg, president of the Citizens bank, spoke relative to the prizes to be awarded to the room having the largest number of depositors, as well as for the largest amount of deposits, prizes to be given as soon as it could be ascertained who the winners are. J. M. Woodworth, president of the First National bank, awarded the cash prizes to the winners for the best definition of Thrift. Esther Guyton, 8th grade pupil, won the first prize of $5.00. The definition given was as follows: "Thrift is the economical management of time, strength, property and effort."

Lucille Conway of the 7th grade was awarded second prize of $2.50. Music was furnished during the afternoon by the high school band. The Camp Fire Girls, under the direction of Mrs. W. B. Merchant, gave a patriotic drill which was a pleasing part of the program. At the conclusion of the program, athletic events were participated in by the pupils of the schools.

As school comes to a close, the activities become more numerous. Since several of the teachers will be missed from the ranks next year and weddings are the summer plan, showers for the brides-to-be have been quite numerous.

Mrs. S. R. Fitz was the delightful hostess recently when she entertained at her home, honoring Miss Eva O'Brian, teacher in the grammer school, with a towel shower. Not only did the bride receive many beautiful towels, but she was presented with a dozen sterling silver spoons.

The guests, most of whom are teachers in the grammar school, were: the Misses Magnusson, Hoenshell, Crutchfield, Musbach, Archer, Hill, Whitlock, Maxie, Ritter, Young, Merritt, Mr. and Mrs. Merchant, Mr. and Mrs. Evans, Mr. Schneider.

Another shower was that of Wednesday evening, when Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Pringle and Miss Curtiss were hostesses at the home of Mrs. Smith, Miss Crist being the honoree and the guests, members of the high school faculty.

A merry time was enjoyed throughout the evening. The gifts were presented in a suitcase bearing many ridiculous signs which caused much merriment. Progressive Rook was played and Miss Crist was awarded first prize, a card catalogue of salad recipes.

Dainty refreshments of fruit salad, rolls, cake, ice cream and coffee were served.

Enjoying the affair, aside from the hostesses, were the Misses Brubaker, Scott, Alton, Fink, Dodson, Mrs. Hoenshell and Mrs. Fine.

Sunday evening marks the first event of commencement week. The baccalaureate sermon for the senior class of '24 will be preached by Rev. David B. Loofbourrow in the Methodist church at 7:30 o'clock.

On Wednesday, June 5th, at 6:30 o'clock p. m. will be held the Junior-Senior banquet in the Women's Club house.

The grand finale comes in the form of the Commencement exercises Friday, June 6th, at 8:00 p. m. in the grammer school auditorium. Dr. Dexter, president of Whittier college will deliver the address to the graduating class which consists of five girls and five boys.

LIFE SAVINGS LOST BY MARRIAGE FRAUD

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—The department of justice here was awaiting word from Minneapolis where Mrs. Gladys Norman of San Francisco was declared in International News Service dispatches to have confessed to a swindling plot by which a Cedar Rapids, Ia., farmer was mulcted of his $15,000 savings in a fake marriage.

One of her two accomplices in the fraud was named by the woman as J. H. Newton of California, for whom a search was made. Her other accomplice, she declared, was Harry Keenan of Chicago.

The victim was Benjamin E. Fereday. He was enticed into a marriage arrangement with Mrs. Norman and was induced to give her a key to his safety deposit vault, according to advices.

A few days after the marriage ceremony the siren disappeared with her two companions and when Fereday went to his safety deposit box his life savings were gone, the dispatch stated.

Girl Weds Youth Because His Wife Refused to Kiss

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., May 31.—Sociologists and court attendants were stunned when Tessie Paternelli, pretty and vivacious 16-year-old school girl, said she married Rudolph Allocco, the 18-year-old husband of her best friend, because his wife would not kiss him.

They received a second shock when Allocco, looking the part of an adolescent sheik, calmly admitted he was a bigamist.

"But Josephine found she did not love him," Tessie told the court, "she would not even kiss him, so I married him because he wanted me to."

Both marriages took place within the last year.

Wedding Interests Placentia People

PLACENTIA, May 31.—Another spring wedding which will be of interest to a great many was that of Francis M. Dowling who was united in marriage to Miss Ilo May Stower, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Stower of Beaumont. The wedding took place Sunday at Glendora at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Culles, of Glendora, Rev. Dowling officiating.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss May Stower, and paged by two tiny flower girls. William Dowling served as best man.

About forty guests, relatives and close friends of the bridal couple were present to witness the ceremony.

Preceding the ceremony Jack and Richard Culles, cousins of the bride, gave a violin duet and William Dowling sang "Yesterday and Today." Both were accompanied by Mrs. Rae Laidlaw who also rendered the Lohengrins wedding march. The dainty luncheon was served in the garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Dowling left immediately for the groom's Golden State cherry orchard at Beaumont and later will take a long motor trip.

Mr. Dowling has been a prominent figure in musical circles during his sojourn with his parents here the past few years. He plays several instruments, but specializes as a cello soloist.

Sam C. Newnes will operate the concessions at La Vida Springs, Carbon Canyon, under the management of Mrs. Pearl Manning. Improvements are under way and the place will soon be opened.

On Sunday Mrs. Manning opened temporarily, just for the day, and did a fine business.

The last meeting of the year for the Round Table club will be next Wednesday afternoon, and a large crowd is expected. It will be Japanese Day and the newly appointed Japanese consul to Los Angeles, Mr. K. Wakasugi will be the speaker. One of his lady secretaries, Mrs. Nobi, will accompany him and Mrs. K. Iseri, wife of the pastor of the Japanese union church. Japanese decorations will be used at the club house.

Mrs. Oscar Carlson and Miss Eva Salter both registered nurses from Placentia were among those who attended the annual banquet of the Santa Ana Valley Hospital Nurses Alumni Association at the home of Mrs. Kenner's of Santa Ana on Tuesday evening.

About twenty-five nurses were present and everyone enjoyed a delightful evening of games, eats and music.

Talbot Bielefeldt, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bielefeldt, who is a student at Stanford University, will leave June 19th for Japan to be gone ten weeks. The trip will be educational as well as for pleasure. Talbot, who distinguished himself as valedictorian at F. U. H. S. three years ago, is studying for the foreign diplomatic service and the trip is expected to be of great value in his work.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Schalles and daughter Frances and I. O. Fletcher and Miss Thelma Green spent the holiday at Idyllwild.

The attendance at the American class in Spanish last Friday evening was twice as large as two weeks ago, when the class was organized. Miss Clemence Allec is in charge of the class which meets at the Americanization school on West Santa Fe.

Count in Prison Is Safe from Creditor

SACRAMENTO, May 31.—Although Albert Sichofsky, self-styled Polish count, now an inmate of Folsom prison, possesses sufficient money to satisfy judgment for a large sum owing to John Emmanuel of Seattle, it appears that the creditor may be forced to wait for his money, until Sichofsky has served his term, ranging from 1 to 14 years for grand larceny. Warden J. J. Smith of Folsom is required by law to keep a prisoner's money until he is discharged.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Back Weak and Painful. Mrs. Miller Benefited by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Rotan, Tex.—"I am writing to let you know how I have been benefited by taking your medicine. After my second baby was born my back was weak and hurt me continually, so I thought I'd try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as I had read so much about where it had helped so many women. I had been bothered with my back for over a year, and it would hurt me until I could not do my work, which is keeping house for three and cooking and washing dishes. I tell all my friends if they have any kind of female troubles to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. You may use this testimonial if it will help any one."—Mrs. C. R. MILLER, R. F. D. No. 1, Box 76, Rotan, Texas.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 121,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use. For sale by druggists everywhere.

News Notes of Interest To Women

Post-Nuptial Affair Honors Return of Bride and Groom

Honoring the return from a mountain honeymoon enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hazen, was a happily planned reception with which Mr. and Mrs. John Maret, parents of the bride, formerly Miss Chloetta Maret, recently entertained.

A wealth of roses adorned the home for the pretty affair and a pleasant evening of games was arranged for the guests who comprised Mrs. Hazen's associates and fellow workers in the Baptist Young People's society.

Ice cream and cake were enjoyed features of the dainty little supper served at a late hour.

The marriage of the young people was an event of Wednesday, May 21, solemnized by the Rev. Otto S. Russell of the First Baptist church and followed by the honeymoon in the San Bernardino mountains.

Guests at the pleasant evening in honor of their return were Messrs. and Mesdames William Hazen, Barrett Deaver, J. P. Williams, Clyde Haddock, Mrs. Crawford, the Misses Daisy Bullard, alice Bullard, Mildred Dale, Leta Smith, Isabelle Bennett, Alice Rinehart, Irene Cravath, Lela Thompson, Goldie Fyie, Lorene Pryor, Mildred Bowe and Messrs. John Rinehart, Guy Percett, Ivan Elliott, Harold Armstrong and Claude Maret.

Women's Guild

Plans which have been formulated by the Woman's Guild of the Church of the Messiah for a "summer sale" and tea, will be realized Wednesday afternoon, June 4 at the parish hall of the church when, under the general direction of the president of the guild, Mrs. W. H. Haddon, the affair will be presented from 2 to 5 o'clock.

It is planned to combine a delightful social feature with the sale of fancy work and home-cooked food and the tea table will be in charge of Mrs. John Taylor. Mrs. George Chapman will preside over the fancy work booth while in the cooked-food department Mrs. E. E. Remsberg will reign and Mrs. Guy Gilbert will have charge of the ice cream and cake sale.

Modern Poetry

A unique departure from their usual carefully prepared programs featuring some famous poet among the modernists, will mark the final meeting for the club year of Ebell's Modern Poetry section members with Mrs. Edward M. Nealley, their leader, Tuesday afternoon, June 3 at 3 o'clock.

For each member will have one of her favorite poems and the reading of these will offer the entertaining features. It will be guest day as well, and each member has the privilege of asking one guest to share the pleasure of the program and the hospitality of Mrs. Nealley and her co-hostess, Mrs. Perry F. Schrock.

Aid Society

Mrs. J. H. Talbott of Mabury street offered her home to members of the northeast section of the First Presbyterian Ladies' Aid society recently for aa pleasant business and social session when as co-hostesses with her were Mesdames Webb, Wells, J. S. Wasser and Miss Gladys Vanhise.

The pastor, the Rev. W. E. Roberts with Mrs. Roberts were among the guests gathered for the affair and several new members were greeted, so the afternoon was quite a successful "get-acquainted" event. Fruitade and home-made cake offered refreshment during the social hour.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN

Mrs. S. F. Leonard of 2215 North Broadway was hostess Wednesday afternoon to thirty women of the northwest section of the Ladies' Aid of the First Presbyterian church. The home was bright with ranunculus and the time was passed with sewing for the fall bazaar and jolly chat.

Guests From Glendale Are Entertained In Curtis Home

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Curtis of 222 South Main street have been entertaining quite a house-party over the Memorial day holiday and week-end and last night presented a delightful little dinner in honor of their guests, all of whom are from Glendale.

Today the visitors are enjoying the artistic atmosphere of Laguna Beach where they are being entertained at the home of Mrs. A. R. Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis. They will return to this city tonight to remain until tomorrow evening.

The guests include Frank Johnson, a brother of Mrs. Curtis, with the two young people of his home, Miss Marie Johnson and her young brother Franklin; Mrs. Davis and Messrs. Thomas Watts and Harry Beemer.

Wee Maiden Enjoys Birthday Festivities

A happy little maiden was Marian Estelle Doty, winsome daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. V. Doty, when on Thursday afternoon she celebrated her sixth birthday with a coterie of her little friends and playmates at her home, 420 West Walnut street.

The back yard of the Doty home is a very charming place and formed a lovely setting for the group of wee boys and girls, while they frolicked with their merry games.

Marian was delighted with her birthday gifts, her friends admiring them with her, and the happy event was closed when Mrs. Doty, assisted by her sister, Miss Stella Anderson, served the dainty refreshments of brick ice cream, cake, candy and nuts on prettily-arranged trays. The favors for the girls were doll babies and for the boys, bright colored caps.

Light Bearers

The Little Light Bearers and their mothers of the United Presbyterian church were entertained by their superintendent, Miss Rosaline Kellogg, on Wednesday afternoon in the primary rooms of the church.

After an hour of getting acquainted and playing games, the superintendent led a short devotional service, and Jean McAuley made the little welcome speech, while little Jack Millman repeated the Twenty-third Psalm without making a mistake, and all the older children joined in singing some of their favorite numbers. After hearing the story of the little girl in India who walked two miles carrying her baby brother in order to go to the missionary lady to ask her to start a school near enough to their village so she could attend and had to return in disappointment because there was no money to start the school, the Santa Ana Little Light Bearers were ready to place their offering to help with this school, in the prettily decorated basket prepared for the purpose.

Even the youngest baby present, Richard Bruce Gibson, who only celebrated his first birthday a short time ago, led by his mother, toddled forward and gave his offering, and thus was letting his light shine in darkened India. The offering was placed in a pink bag and put aboard the Little Light Bearers' boat which was all ready to sail away—away to help bring light to a heathen world.

At the close of these informal exercises the children were invited into the next room where they were seated at the pretty table with its pink baskets of dainty white flowers, and bright pink napkins, and served with strawberry jello, animal crackers, and heart shaped cookies with pink icing. Later when departing for home they were given cunning pink birds for favors, and pink boxes for their next thank offering boxes.

Ebell Travelers

A called meeting to decide financial matters relative to the section, has been announced for Ebell's Third Travel section for 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, June 3 at the clubhouse.

Brides In Triplicate Pleasantly Honored By Their Aunt

Considering herself extremely fortunate in being the aunt to three charming young girls whose engagements have all been announced recently with mid-summer weddings promised in each case, Mrs H. L. Cole of 1902 North Main street, yesterday celebrated her good fortune by entertaining in honor of the trio of winsome maids, Miss Evelyn Hoffman and Miss Pauline Carnahan of this city and Miss Winifred Johndrew of Colton.

Depending upon her own attractive garden for floral decorations Mrs. Cole stripped it of carnations with the result the house was one bower of spicy pink bloom wherein the three honorees received the guests with their hostess-aunt.

Amusement was offered in a merry game of "Trousseau" which yielded keen enjoyment for all and a pretty prize for the winner, Miss Carnahan. Later the fortunate trio of honorees were given seats of honor in the center of the living-room and two cunning little maids, wee Patty Jean Swartout and her small cousin, Carroll Jeanne McCollum brought in three bushel baskets one at a time, and placed them in front of the honored trio. The baskets were gay with ferns and pink garlands and each contained a handsome assortment of gifts of a miscellaneous nature, all in triplicate.

Small tables were arranged for the serving of ices and cake and were centered with carnations to be in harmony with the home's floral appointments. At the tea hour, Mrs. Carnahan was reminded of the fact that she was celebrating a birthday when she too was showered with gifts, completing what the guests declared to be the most showery afternoon of the season. Mrs. Carnahan had assisted Mrs. Cole in her pleasant hostess duties all afternoon and had supposed she was conversant with all entertaining details until her own turn came to be surprised.

Of the three honorees, Miss Johndrew, the Colton niece, recently announced her betrothal to Bryan Ruddick of Redlands while her two Santa Ana cousins followed suit. Miss Hoffman's engagement to James W. Dickson was made known at a merry evening event at the home of Miss Hoffman and her father, Frank T. Hoffman, early in the week, and Miss Carnahan's engagement to Hugh Haley was announced at a smart little dinner Wednesday night at the Carnahan home, 501 East Walnut street. Miss Hoffman's wedding will be a July event; the two remaining cousins will be June brides.

Guests at yesterday's triple celebration were Mrs. M. J. Hoffman, occupying the pleasant position of grandmother to the three, Mrs. Palmer of Redondo Beach, Miss Hoffman's maternal grandmother; Mrs. Maude Swartout, Mrs. Willard Swartout, Mrs. Chesley Lander, Mrs. George Bryant, Mrs. Harold Carnahan, Mrs. Helen McCollum, Mrs. Charles Carey, Mrs. George R. Dickson, Mrs. Asa Hoffman; a group of tiny folk, the Misses Patty Jean Swartout, Carroll Jeanne McCollum and Master Robert Bruce Carnahan, and of course the three honorees, the Misses Hoffman, Carnahan and Johndrew.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. James Johndrew, Mrs. Amanda Bryant, Mrs. John Gognon of Colton and Mrs. Douglas Mattocks of San Francisco.

Parochial School Has Interesting Class Of Graduates

Combining eighth grade graduation exercises with a charming little Maytime cantata, "A Day in the Woods", St. Joseph's parochial school children last night played to an audience which filled the Knights of Columbus hall to capacity.

The hall was prettily decorated with Canterbury bells, the class flower and a profusion of greenery, cleverly arranged to represent a forest.

The program opened with an orchestral selection by a group of very small folk, the Misses Hilda Ravenkamp and Marcella Wheeler at piano; Alice Borchard, Dorothy Hartline and Patricia O'Brien, first violins; Frederick Devenney, Kenneth Patten, Constance Meinecke and Blanche Theriault, second violins; Joseph Barnett, cornet and Lois Connell, saxophone.

Miss Evangeline Wolford, a talented young musician, gave a fine rendition of "Valse No. 2" by Durand; a company of the primaries stirringly rendered "America," accompanied by the orchestra; three wee maidens, Jacqueline Meyers, Dorothy Rossiter and Beatrice Paino, played a trio on the piano; tiny Master George W. Young played "Night Song," by Hudson and Miss Elizabeth Borchard, a talented little maid gave "Cradle Hymn" by the same composer.

Telling something of the work of the beloved composer MacDowell, Miss Anona Squires played "To a Wild Rose"; Little Miss Rosemary Ashen prettily recited "A Little Pink Rose"; Edward Roth played well the "Priere de Matin" by Streabbog; and Walter Markel with a clear voice gave the musical recitation "Cured". Miss Mary Carroll played an ambitious number, the "Second Mazurka" by Godard, giving a bit of history of the noted composer and Miss Cleora Fine gave a fine rendition of "Pouppee Valsante" by Poldini. The musical program, carried out without a hitch, reflected credit on the teachers of the young people.

"Eileen", the May cantata, was very charmingly given, the children being letter perfect in their parts. Miss Eileen Carroll was crowned queen of the May, the little miss of eight years showing fine talent and carrying her difficult part with the easy and unaffected manner of a professional. Her many solos were given without a break, although there was much to memorize.

Rose Mary Ashen, as attendant to the queen, was very good, as was Alice Borchard, as "Gypsy Jane". Walter Markel made an excellent woodcutter and sang his solo distinctly, while little Miss Teresa Skaggs was a lovely handmaiden. The fisher boys made a hit in their chorus and the May pole was prettily danced by a group of tiny maidens.

The village children, all of whom added greatly to the pleasure of the production, were Helen Norton, Claire and Frances Jones, Ruth Heim, Eleanor Duhart, Claudina Ruplinger, Florence Sturbaum, May Maag, Marie Skaggs, Valara Heim, Constance Meinecke, Catherine Miles, Vada Stinglen, Marcella Wheeler, Margaret Reynolds, Virginia Vaughn, Margaret Alton, Hilda Ravenkamp, Harold Daley, Raiford Reynolds.

Miss Helen Allen was a most excellent accompanist during the entire evening.

The Rev. Father H. Eummelen, the pastor of St. Joseph's, presented the diplomas to the eight granduates, the Misses Audrey Marie Wendel, Mary Lair O'Brien, Catherine Florence Markel, Mary Elizabeth Gillespie, Sadie Sackman and Masters Stafford Bennett Jones, Eugene Joseph Owens, and Joseph William Alton. He also presented premiums for general excellence to Audrey Wendel and Mary Lair O'Brien, and to Audrey Wendel, the silver medal for good conduct for the year. All of the graduates received gifts for application and good work.

Father Eummelen paid high tribute to the graduates, who he said were well fitted to enter the high school, and he urged them and their parents to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities now offered for higher education, as a young person in these times could not obtain any kind of a position without a high school diploma. He also urged the graduates to carry out their class motto: "To reach port, we must sail, not drift with the current."

Realtor's Auxiliary

Plans are afoot for a merry picnic of members of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors' auxiliary, accompanied by their realtor husbands and their children, to be staged at Orange county park Thursday, June 5 at 6 p. m.

Each family will take a basket supper and hot coffee will be served by a committee. The evening will be devoted to the usual pleasures of dancing, rowing and kindred amusements.

Merry Little Supper Follows Recital of Local M. E. Choir

Many pleasant social affairs have been connected with membership in the First M. E. church choir, among them the delightfully informal party which their director, Mrs. Hulda Dietz, staged in their honor following their recent recital at the Los Angeles Christian church.

At the recital, presented before a large crowd gathered in the church auditorium, the local vocalists covered themselves with glory and won enthusiastic commendation both from the audience and from the Los Angeles press. After the concert the entire choir was entertained by Mrs. Dietz at a charmingly planned little supper at her home and enjoyed a merry social hour ere motoring back to Santa Ana.

Tomorrow night at the evening service hour at the church, the choir is planning a feature program in which they will be assisted by the three talented young winners in the recent music contest staged in the county, Santa Ana's own little Georgia Belle Walton, violinist; Charlyn Tedrick of Anaheim, pianist, and Tom Mendicott of Orange, soloist.

The program numbers will be "The Heavens Are Telling" from Haydn's "Creation" by the entire choir; soprano solo, "With Verdure Clad" from the same oratorio, Mrs. Dietz; violin solo, selected, by Miss Georgia Belle Walton; "Fierce Raged the Tempest," choir; soprano solo, selected, Tom Mendicott; piano solo, selected, Miss Charlyn Tedrick; "Goin' Home," by Dvorak, the choir.

Former Santa Anan In New Home

Established in her attractive new home at 425 East Olive street, Porterville, Mrs. W. A. Best (formerly Mrs. Ella F. Lash of this city,) has writen her relatives and friends here, details of the quiet wedding in Bakersfield Wednesday, May 21, which followed her departure from this city at an early hour that morning.

Mr. Best awaited his bride in Bakersfield with everything in readiness for the wedding ceremony which was conducted by the minister of the First Methodist church at his parsonage home. Continuing the journey northward as Mrs. Best, the popular Santa Ana clubwoman found an attractive home awaiting her arrival. However Santa Ana still attracts and she and Mr. Best are planning an early summer visit here among relatives and friends.

Altar Society

With the semi-monthly meetings of St. Ann's Altar society alternating between business and social, what was declared to have been one of the most enjoyable of the social gatherings yet experienced, was held Thursday afternoon with Mrs. David Wolford, 1018 South Main street.

Floral decorations were profuse and lovely and an appetizing luncheon was served. Mrs. Wolford was assisted by her sister, Mrs. L. M. Irish. In the afternoon the young daughter of the hostess, Miss Gladiola Wolford, presented several well-executed piano numbers.

Among matters discussed at the meeting was the question of joining the National Council of Catholic Women. It was also decided that all members of the Altar society would receive communion in a body at tomorrow morning's 8 o'clock mass at St. Ann's church.

The next meeting of the society will be a business one at the parish hall of the church, Thursday afternoon, June 5, at 2 o'clock.

Catholics or Ku Klux Klanners Which?

It is true, as the article by Rev. H. Eummelen in the Register of May 17, states, that "if there were such a thing as priority of right in this country it would belong to Catholics."

It is true that Columbus was a Catholic, but it must be remembered that, above all else, Columbus was a HERETIC. He believed that the world was round, at a time when the church persecuted people for believing this. His motive in exploring uncharted seas was not "to bring the Catholic faith to the aborigines" but to prove his heretical theory of the earth's physical form.

It is true that some of the Protestant religious sects that settled America later "formed colonies in which their particular brand of religion alone was tolerated." We are glad to see it noted that Lord Baltimore in his Catholic colony provided for religious toleration, but we feel moved to add that William Penn did the same in his Quaker colony.

As to the service of Catholics and Protestants in the American wars, there is no doubt that both branches of the Christian church have proved themselves militarists of the highest order, and that their World War records entitle them to equal honors as advocates of violence and human slaughter.

The statement of Father Eummelen that the Catholic church has taken a "determined stand against Socialism, against the divorce evil, and in favor of religion in education" sounds very much like Ku Klux Klan propaganda. On the first point the two organizations seem to be as one. On the second point there is practical uniformity of convention, and on the third the difference is only in kind. The Catholics seem to be bidding for Romanism in the schools, while the Ku Kluxers would force upon us all a 100% American, white, Nordic, Gentile, fundamentalist Protestantism which for ignorance and intolerance would shame the dark ages.

We, who not only deny the authority of the church but also repudiate nationalism and the military domination of the state, look upon the Catholic-Ku Klux Klan controversy as factional.

The real issue is between those who are holding to the beliefs and systems of the past, whether as Roman Catholics or as Ku Klux Klanners, and those who are seeking an entirely new social order—a Commonwealth of the World, where capitalism shall be abolished; where militarism shall perish; where religion shall be a matter of free personal choice; where a revised code of ethics shall govern marriage and divorce; where national enmities shall become tales of past ages; and where racial antipathies shall at last give way to the natural evolutionary process which is already obliterating separate racial characteristics.

We appeal to the common intelligence of the average man to decide his own "Which?" and would offer for his consideration the following suggestion taken from "The Ku Klux Klan" (A critical analysis) by Professor John Mechlens of Dartmouth College:

"The man who surrenders abjectly to the mental stereotype of his church, party, business, community, nation, or race permits himself to be branded like a sheep and should realize that in time, like a sheep, he will either be sheared or slaughtered."

YALE DIVINITY SCHOOL FULL IS REPORT

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 31.—Yale university, through its divinity school, is feeling the modern-day stir in religious affairs, and today that school numbers among its students more individuals than it has room to handle, so far as class-rooms are concerned. No fewer than 117 different colleges have sent men to receive training as preachers. Every main branch of the Christian faith is represented, and though Yale was originally a Congregational college, Methodists are leading today in the student lists. Seven foreign countries have sent students, as well as 35 states of the Union.

The divinity school, through Dr. Charles R. Brown, its dean, is looking for more room in class quarters and chapel. From 55 to 75 students are being handled in classrooms where the capacity is 45, while the chapel is far too small. As a result of inadequate classrooms the students are idea where she was living, or with whom.

"And you are no relation yourself?"

"None—I am only a friend."

Her face softened a little at something pathetic in his voice and eyes.

"Well, I'm sorry," she said more kindly, "because I am afraid she is in a very bad way."

"You mean that she will die?"

"Oh, I don't say that; but the doctor seemed very dissatisfied this morning. Perhaps you can call again during the day."

Evans said he certainly would do so; he went to the office with dragging steps.

He sat, neglecting his work, staring before him with worried eyes. The girl typist who worked next to him asked once or twice what was the matter. Evans roused himself with a start.

"Nothing—nothing."

But he could not keep his mind on his work. Once, when he was taking down letters for Fisher, his mind wandered, and he forgot to answer; Fisher spoke to him sharply.

"Where in the world are your thoughts, Evans?"

Mary's condition was unchanged.

He dragged through the long day drearily, and evening saw him once more anxiously inquiring for her. This time the answer was more grave.

"She is not so well."

He went away feeling horribly guilty. If she died, the Brethertons would never forgive him. If she lived! Well, if she lived, she could never be anything to him; he was but laying up trouble for himself whatever he did.

He walked about the streets till it was quite late. He had had no tea, but that he forgot. He was amazed to find that his steps had led him to the Fisher's house. He found himself standing outside, staring up at its lighted windows.

He walked past, and came back again reluctantly. Should he go in or not? He shrank from doing so, and yet—

He hesitated, with his eyes on the brass knocked, that gleamed in the light of a street lamp directly opposite.

CHAPTER LVIII

Found!

DAVID BRETHERTON was in the drawing-room with Dora Fisher when the bell went pealing through the house.

He had spent a boring evening. Monty had had work to do, and was in his study; and David had been left to Dora's care.

She had done her best to get up a flirtation with him. She had sung sentimental songs one after the other in the drawing-room, where artfully shaded lights threw up her beauty to wonderful advantage.

David sat in a big chair in the shadows, and listened. At lease, she supposed he was listening, but, as a matter of fact, his thoughts were far enough away.

Where was Mary? Day and night he thought of her, and wondered and worried.

Now and then, when the plaintive voice and music at the piano ceased, he roused himself with an effort, and said, "Thank you—thank you very much," in an absent sort of voice.

Dora was piqued; she rose from the piano stool with a little petulant movement.

"I believe I bore you; I don't believe you like music."

David protested quickly that he did. He sat up a little from his lounging position, and tried to make conversation; but Dora was discouraged; she had expected a better reception from him; his evident effort to talk to her irritated her; she answered him shortly and snappily.

In her heart she was beginning to despair of ever making a conquest of this man. It was her first failure, and she bitterly resented it.

What was he made of, she asked herself angrily, that he stood so aloof from her? She did not realize that when a man cares deeply for one woman all the wiles and seductions of another will pass him harmlessly.

Perhaps both were really thankful when a diversion was created by the evening post; a maid brought the letters and gave them to Dora.

She sorted them through carelessly.

"Only one for you, David. It has been sent on from the Red Grange."

She looked at it curiously as she spoke; she handed it over to him with evident reluctance.

"May I open it now?" asked David. His voice sounded more awake. He broke open the seal without waiting for permission.

Dora watched him covertly. She saw the quick little frown that creased his brow; the sudden start

At the new grammar school unsually happy event was sta honoring the members of the grade who will progress from grade school to the first year in high school. The affair was gi Tuesday evening in the dome science rooms with the 7th gr pupils as hosts.

The room was changed into a itable garden by the use of pa and greenery. Orangeade was s ed as the guests arrived. A an evening of games, refreshm of ice cream and cake were s ed.

Forty-two students received t diplomas from the 8th grade Thursday evening when grad ing exercises were held in grammar school auditorium.

The following program was sented:

since I left England, but she has only answered one of my letters. I suppose she was angry with me for marrying again; I am afraid you will be, too; but my husband begged me so hard—he was fond of me before ever I met your brother. I am telling you this frankly, in the hope that you will forgive and help me.

"Robert is ill now—so ill that he cannot work; and the little money we had is nearly gone. Sometimes I feel that perhaps it is a sort of judgment on me for marrying again so soon.

"I sent you a cable yesterday asking you to help me and shall wait anxiously for your reply. Please, please, for Nigel's sake, be kind to me, because, after all, I was his wife, and he did love me.

"Your unhappy sister-in-law,

"Dolly Durham."

Bretherton read it through to the last line without comment. He hated the tone of the letter; the half conciliatory, half defiant attitude galled him. When he reached the end, he sprang to his feet.

"If you will excuse me, I must see Monty at once."

Dora gave a little chagrined laugh.

"I hope it isn't any bad news. I—"

It was just then that young Evans rang the front door-bell.

The servant came into the room as David was leaving it.

"A young gentleman to see you, sir, please," she spoke to David. "He said it was most urgent. His name is Evans, please, sir."

"Evans!" David echoed the word at first blankly, then with increasing interest. "Evans, I will come and speak to him."

He made a hurried apology to Dora, and went out, closing the door behind him.

Young Evans stood in the hall. He looked nervous and ill at ease. When he saw David, he began an apology for disturbing him.

"Not at all; come in Mr. Fisher's study; perhaps you will not mind his being present."

Evans did not mind in the least. He was conscious of a great sense of relief now he had burned his boats. He wished he had done this before; he knew it would have been utterly impossible for him to have gone through another night such as he had spent after leaving the hospital.

David led the way into Fisher's room.

"Sorry to disturb you, Monty. Evans has come up to see me—it's important, he says. May we come in?"

Fisher swung round in his chair.

"By all means. Sit down, Evans.'

But Evans remained standing. He looked at David when he spoke.

"I wanted to tell you that I know where Miss Furnival is, sir."

Monty Fisher sprang to his feet excitedly.

"You have known all along! I knew it!"

Evans' eyes flashed, but he answered quite respectfully:

"I beg your pardon, sir; I knew nothing about it all until last night. I met Miss Furnival quite by chance, and—" He paused, turning again to David: "I—I am sorry to say that she met with an accident, sir."

David had not spoken, but now he broke out agitatedly:

"An accident! Where? When? Why didn't you tell me before?"

His eyes were fierce, but Evans stood his ground manfully.

"Because she was afraid of you, sir; because she made me promise not to even tell you that I had seen her; but now—when she is so ill—perhaps dying—"

"Dying!" The word was half a groan. David took a quick step forward; he caught Evans' arm.

HOLD DUKE MUST PAY $31,390 NOTES

NEW YORK, May 31.—Final judgment for $31,390 was entered in supreme court against William Angus Drogu Montagu, duke of Manchester, in favor of Archibald S. White, who sued on promissory notes which were given him by the duke in 1914.

The defense to the action, commenced last November, was that the notes had been given by the duke as evidence of advances to him for stock in the International Educational league a corporation with which he was affiliated, but which never functioned in the manner intended.

White alleged that the money had been advanced to the duke while the latter was his guest at his Adirondack camp near Paul Smith's. During the visit, Mr. White set forth, the duke had endeavored to have him endow the corporation, but when he declined he said the duke had requested the money as a loan to carry out the capitalization program of the corporation

CALIFORNIA ORANGE PRICES MAKE GAINS

LOS ANGELES, Calif., May 31.—(Office of the Fruit World)—The market on both California Navel and Valencia oranges continued to show improvement the last week. Prices were generally higher in both the private sale markets and the auctions, the only exception being on Navels showing heavy decay.

Offerings of Valencias in the auction centers will predominate in another week when Navels and miscellaneous varieties will be practically cleaned up.

The reaction of the market to a higher level now that the sound, good keeping Valencias are obtainable is assurance to shippers that the trade have turned to Valencias with renewed eagerness.

The one difficulty facing shippers is the size problem. Whether the extreme small sizes should be marketed or not, has not yet been thoroughly threshed out. Some shippers are of the opinion that an agreement between packers to pack on 324s and smaller in fancy or 288s and smaller in choice except on definite price orders, would go a long way toward helping out the size problem.

Florida Season Closing

Florida citrus shipments are now averaging 41 cars daily. Packing houses all over the state are closing up although a few houses still have a considerable volume of late fruit to ship. With Florida competition pretty well eliminated for this season, California Valencias will have full swing for the next five or six months.

Imperial Valley cantaloupes must be reckoned with by California orange shippers at this particular time. To date, a total of 438 cars of cantaloupes have been shipped as compared with 50 cars in 1923; none, 1922; 61, 1921; 91, 1920 and 2 in 1919. Cantaloupe shippers predict that the daily movement will get to the 500-car mark by the first week in June. The consensus of opinion is that the crop is far better spaced and will mature along at intervals rather than reach large movements for short periods with longer drops. The peak may pass 600 cars which authorities agree is a maximum of safety. It is expected that there will be more 400-car days and possibly more 500-car days than in 1923, but the peak will be short and the decline more gradual than in other years. In 1923 the peak was reached on June 20th with a shipment of 556 cars, while in 1922, 662 cars went out on June 27th. Latest reports from the Valley state that warm days and nights now predominate.

F. o. b. California quotations on Fancy Valencias are as follows according to district: Size 126s, $2.90 to $4.25; 150s, $3.75 to $4.05; 176s, $3.00 to $3.35; 200s, $2.50 to $3.00; 216s, $2.00 to $2.75; 252s, $1.75 to $2.25; 288s, $1.50 to $2.00; 324s, $1.50 to $1.75.

Lemon Market Easy

The market on California lemons is easier on account of continued cool weather throughout the Eastern markets.

F. o b. California quotations on Extra Choice Fruit ranges from $2.50 for 360s size to $3.75 for 300s.

There are on hand and available for sale within the next thirty days in all United States ports, approximately 470 cars of foreign lemons as against 746 cars for the corresponding period last season and 585 cars two years ago.

BRIEF NEWS BITS FROM WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, May 31.—All places of business were closed here yesterday in observance of Memorial Day—most of the older residents motored to the Westminster and Huntington Beach cemeteries to lay flowers on the graves. The Boy Scouts, accompanied by W. B. McCoy and Fred Bassie, went to Huntington Beach to participate in a parade there.

Mrs. Ellen Edwards arrived yesterday from LaHabra for a few days visit with her son, J. L. Edwards and family.

Mrs. Jessie McCoy left Thursday night for Downey, where she will spend her vacation with her sister, Mrs. M. M. Purcell and family.

A. F. Anton, of Memphis, Tennessee, who is visiting his daughter, Mrs. T. E. Turpin, left Thursday morning for a sightseeing trip; he will go to San Diego, Catalina Island, San Francisco, San Fernando and the redwood forests, and will return here before going back east.

The Misses Rossman and Miss Adeline Simsen took a number of the students from the fourth and fifth grades to Huntington Beach Thursday afternoon for a good time in the plunge there.

Miss Adeline Simsen, teacher of the fourth and fifth grades here, will leave Wednesday for her vacation in Kennewick, Washington.

The quarantine has been removed from the home of Mrs. Lora Hildebrand.

W. W. Bess motored to Los Angeles Tuesday night to attend a meeting of the Shriners there.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hays visited Mr. and Mrs. O. Acorns Thursday evening in Huntington Beach.

The Happy Workers met at the home of Mrs. Frank Cowgill Wednesday. A number of the members are away on pleasure excursions, and only about twenty-five were present. A hot dinner was served at noon, and a short business session was held later, the rest of the time being spent in sewing.

Mrs. Chas. Sigler had as guests Thursday, Mrs. E. B. Whitehead, of Los Angeles, and daughter, Mrs. R. Hill and grandson, Everett Pope. These people are leaving by auto for a trip east, viaa Yellowstone Park.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hays had as guests Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McCall and Mr. Leese, all of Long Beach.

The Boy Scouts will, in addition to holding their regular meeting, have a short program Monday night at which time they will be presented with a flag.

The program for Children's Day at the church has been changed, and all who had parts, or who wish to take part, are asked to be at the church Tuesday afternoon at two o'clock.

The students of the eighth grade of the grammar school here received their diplomas Wednesday evening before a large crowd of parents and friends. The auditorium was very prettily decorated for the occasion with carnations and fern. Each one of the students did exceptionally well in the parts assigned them in the short program, which was followed by an address from Rev. W. T. Wardle. Miss Edna McCoy was at the piano. So many flowers did the graduates receive that their heads were scarcely visible, as they were piled in their laps.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Turpin and family motored to Olive and through the Santa Ana Canyon Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Will LaToosh and family, former residents of Westminster, attended the exercises in the school auditorium here Wednesday evening.

TEST MOISTURE IN FORESTS CUT OVER

WASHINGTON, May 31.—The difficulty in restocking cleared and exposed flats and south slopes to western white pine, cedar and hemlock in Northern Idaho lies in the high surface soil temperatures attained in these localities, according to experiments lately completed by the Priest river forest experiment station, Missoula, Mont. Forest Examiner J. A. Larsen of the forest service, who has been conducting experiments in germination and survival of desirable tree species on cut-over areas, states that extreme surface temperatures are highly injurious to young seedlings even to the extent of destroying all reproduction.

Larsen also tested out the effects of different cutting methods on the establishment of the new forest, particularly the "clear-cutting" method which, by removing nearly all the trees, leaves relatively large clearings in the Idaho forests, and the shelter-wood method, by which the timber is taken in two cuttings some fifteen years apart, the first taking only as many trees as will leave a continuous overhead cover He found, in brief, that in the large openings within the forest, temperatures of both air and soil were higher, and that there was an increase in evaporation and a greater moisture deficit, all factors operating against the establishment of moisture-loving species.

Comparing soil conditions and their effects, he found that surfaces of bare mineral soil and of ashes, when loose, are best for both germination and establishment of seedlings, provided seeds are immediately available after the fire; but where overhead or adjacent trees must supply the necessary seed—as on cut-over areas—a looser and protected surface and light vegetation such as cover the ordinary forest floor in the region are more favorable. Englemann spruce, western larch, western red cedar, and western hemlock all were found to germinate well on such surfaces, but the number of trees of these species becoming definitely established was decidedly less than that of the western white pine. This was due to the relative shallowness of their roots, which could not penetrate deeply enough to secure the necessary moisture during periods of drouth.

GRAIN PRICES DROP ON CHICAGO MARKET

CHICAGO, May 31.—Grains broke sharply at the close on the Board of Trade today. Crop and weather news was favorable.

May corn led in the downturn. Heavy supplies were held unsold at the close. Deferred months were off factionally, mixed crop news holding values in check.

LAGUNA BEACH CROWDED BY VISITORS

LAGUNA BEACH, May 31.—Laguna Beach today is a scene of activity. Tourists and campers are coming in by the thousands, hotels are being booked to their capacity. Tent City and the Laguna Beach Villa reservations are filled. The indications plainly show that more people will be at Laguna Beach this year to celebrate Decoration Day than there ever has been in the history of the beach. It is after all, only a forerunner of what may be expected during the coming summer. Laguna Beach is better fitted to accommodate tourists and visitors than it has been at any time before.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Planalp are spending the holidays in Los Angeles with relatives and friends.

Mr. Thorvald J. Moen, proprietor of the Hazel Cafe drove to Alhambra on Wednesday and returned with Mrs. Krips, who will spend the summer with the Moens. Mrs. Krips is known as "Grandma" and she admits that she is glad to be at "The Beach that is Different."

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wakelee of Pasadena are visitors at the "Gray Gate Apartments." Both Mr. and Mrs. Wakelee are prominent in Masonic circles, and both hold offices in their respective lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Ferguson and son, Hugh Grant, of Los Angeles are holiday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Murphy. Mr. Ferguson is general sales manager of the Crescent Creamery company of Los Angeles.

Young 'Terrors' Hurl Bricks At House Windows

The police here today were attempting to learn the identity of five or six boys who last night motored through Lincoln street, throwing bricks at houses and through windows.

On several previous occasions the neighborhood has been terrorized by similar occurrences, according to the police. Last night's repetition of the brick-throwing took place at about 8:30 o'clock.

A fair description of the automobile in which the boys were riding and a good description of several of the boys were in the hands of the police today.

In the fourteenth century spectacles, though fairly common, were articles of some cost, and frequently formed the subjects of bequests in wills.

Brief Brea News

BREA, May 31.—A large number of patrons of the Brea Grammar schools attended the annual exhibit at the Laurel Kindergarten building Wednesday evening. A splendid display of the year's work was made. The Fullerton Union High School band furnish music during the evening. Mrs. Youtsey, teacher of music in the grammar school, favored the audience with several vocal solos, Miss Kaplan gave several violin solos and the Murray sisters gave some piano numbers. Refreshments of punch and wafers were served throughout the evening by the teachers.

THIEF LEAVES WIG; GETS $30,000 GEMS

NEW YORK, May 31.—A lone burglar, having gained entrance to an exclusive Park avenue apartment, lost his false auburn hair but got away with a jewel case containing $30,000 in gems.

The apartment robbed was that of H. Ivan Spengel, automotive engineer, on the sixth floor at 1049 Park avenue. When the maid went to the door in response to a ring, she was confronted by the burglar, who leveled a revolver at her. Then he locked the maid and the cook in a bedroom.

A few moments later Mrs. Spengel, who had been out for a walk, returned to the apartment. She discovered the burglar ransacking her room. Screaming, she fled to the office of the building superintendent. Detectives were summoned. Mrs. Spengel's jewels were found to be missing and the only trace of the burglar was a red wig, found on the fire escape at the rear of the apartment.

Who Shall Come After You?

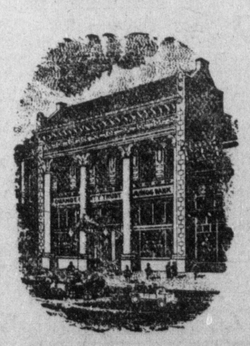

What would happen to your property if you were to die tonight?

What you have has cost you much in self-denial and hard work. You are preserving it now. Who will preserve it when you are gone?

You will leave some business problems behind you. Who will solve them? Perhaps you have a going business. Can that go on indefinitely without the watchful hand and eye of an owner over it? Who will conduct it until it may be disposed of without loss?

You should answer all these questions; answer them now—by writing your will and selecting and naming the prudent, experienced organization of this Trust Company, as your executor.

TOMORROW'S ATTRACTIONS

TEMPLE — "Men," with Pola Negri.

WALKER—"The Mask of Lopez," with Fred Thomson.

"WHEN A GIRL LOVES" CLOSES TONIGHT.

C. R. Wallace, associate director of "When A Girl Loves," the present attraction at the Temple theater, suggests that Vic increase the company's overhead by providing all the cast with roller skates.

No, it isn't a kiddie comedy, but sets for the production were spread all over the four stages at the Hollywood studios, and, by the time the players made a few trips back and forth, they were too exhausted to play anything but bedroom scenes.

"THE WHITE MOTH" CLOSES AT YOST TONIGHT.

Gay Paree, its glamorous night life, the theater, the brilliant Bal des Artistes, a beautiful dancer known as The White Moth, who is the idol of the stage, an extraordinary romance—these are some of the chief ingredients that went into the making of "The White Moth," the picture closing at the Yost theater tonight.

Two young American millionaires, brothers, visit Paris, and one of them, who is already engaged, falls in love with The White Moth. The other, in order to prevent the marriage, weds her himself, and the same day leaves his bride. This is the unusual situation that brings about what is said to be one of the most novel of denouements ever screened.

Barbara La Marr has the title role as The White Moth and in it she is said to give the screen her best characterization. Conway Tearle, co-featured with her, portrays the brother who goes through the marriage ceremeny. The other brother is played by Ben Lyon.

"LOVING LIES" ON YOST SCREEN TOMORROW

In the development of the climax of the story Miss Brent is aboard a ship which is being battered by the storm as it sways helplessly on the rocks. The script demanded that she be tied in a breeches-buoy and pulled along the life line from the mast of the sinking ship to the top of a high cliff on shore.

Half way along the life line the rope broke and Miss Brent, who insisted on doing the scene herself, fell into the water. Waves dashed over her head and frantically Monte Blue pulled at the rope to get her ashore. After some work the buoy, with Miss Brent, reached the bottom of the cliff where, fearing that she might have been hurt, Director Buchanan ordered the cameras to stop before Miss Brent was to be pulled to the top of the cliff.

But Miss Brent would not pause and pulled at the rope for Mr. Blue to finish the scenes without a stop.

DANCING BEAUTY AT WALKER'S TOMORROW

"Every woman should be beautiful," says Miss Edna Torrence, who comes to Walker's theater tomorrow with a group of classic dances. Absence of beauty is inexcusable, according to Miss Torrence, for she asserts that beauty is attainable by dancing.

"Beauty is not only a matter of line and color," declares Miss Torrence, "but depends greatly on how line and colors are used. Arms that are regular in line gradually become rounded and curved in motion and repose through using free, large, relaxing movements. A few minutes daily; better still, five minutes each day, is the practice to be followed.

"The swan like-throat is simply the results of dancing which involves the bending back of the head. The supple spine is like-wise to be acquired by dancing exercises, although it is the most difficult of all to acquire. Freedom of hip movement observed in my dances is to be gained through the simple skipping and leaping exercises.

"The classic dance, with its big free action, increases circulation of abdominal organs, stimulates digestion and breaks down any superfluous flesh at the waist and hips. Beauty of the feet is to be gained by dancing bare-footed, the toes thus taking the natural lines intended."

"THE MASK OF LOPEZ" AT WALKER'S TOMORROW

Just a line or two to acquaint you with the very remarkable record of Fred Thomson, star in "The Mask of Lopez," that appears at the Walker theater tomorrow. Thomson held the world's all-around athletic championship for three years and established the following record for each event:

100 yards—10 2-4 seconds; putting 16 lb. shot—43 feet, 8 1-2 inches; high jump—5 feet, 9 7-8 inches; half mile walk—3 minutes, 32 second; throwing 16 lb. hammer—128 feet; pole vault—10 feet, 9 inches; 120 yard hurdles—15 4-5 second; broad jump—21 feet, 9 inches; throwing 56 lb. weight—28 feet, 7 inches; mile run—5 minutes, 30 seconds.

This record was made in a single afternoon with only five minute intervals between each event.

You will agree after viewing this versatile chap in his latest and best thriller, "The Mask of Lopez," that his versatility, coupled with his great personality, makes him a leader.

TARKINGTON LAUDS ACTING OF BEN ALEXANDER

"I never dreamed that it would be possible to cast a real 'Penrod' in my stories of that American boy," Booth Tarkington, author of the famous "Penrod" stories, declared in commenting upon the role as it is filled by Ben Alexander, youthful movie star.

"But Ben Alexander upsets my theory. He has been able to stay a true American Boy—a 'regular feller'—and also accomplish things in a dramatic way. The answer must be that Ben is naturally an actor; perhaps his dramatic training took the place in his life of the attic, or the pirates' den. Whatever it is, he is so much the 'Penrod' of my brain that I could not have written my stories differently even if I had met Ben first and molded after him."

No higher tribute to Ben's portrayal of "Penrod" could be paid him. And now it is Ben's turn to reciprocate to Tarkington. Having made a great success of his role in "Penrod and Sam," Ben in appearing in "Boy of Mine," another Booth Tarkington story, showing at the West End.

POLA NEGRI FILM DUE AT TEMPLE TOMORROW

Robert W. Frazier has "walked home" oftener than any other actor.

Heading the cast of Pola Negri's latest starring picture, "Men," which opens at the Temple theater tomorrow; the popular young lead remembers the days when he played in stock.

"My efforts to succeed as an actor seemed doomed to fail," says Frazer. "Four four years I tried to establish myself behind the footlights through the aid of traveling stock companies. In that time I was engaged dozens of times. Every company went broke, leaving me stranded and forced to walk back to my home where I was glad to resume my job in a grocery store. Once I lived for four days on a ten cent can of beans."

"YANKEE MADNESS" CLOSES AT WALKER TONIGHT

Dashing caballeros, smirking half-breeds, winsome senoritas, fighting, dancing and wooing all find a place in "Yankee Madness," which closes at Walker's theater tonight.

"Yankee Madness" opens with a fascinating bit of action showing a daring automobile rescue, George Larkin, as Richard Morton, leaping from a fast moving car into another to rescue Billie Dove, as Delores, daughter of the President of Sevilla. From here on the action moves swiftly and in an interesting manner to the very end.

WARNING ISSUED AGAINST BUBBLES

Gold Bricks Being Sold In Ne wIndustry

By NEA Service

NEW YORK, May 31—Prominent radio manufacturers have joined in warning amateurs and other radio fans against losses that might be incurred by accepting any new radio proposition.

According to these leaders in the industry, it was estimated, nearly 2000 radio corporations were organized within a few months. Yet it is believed a small percentage of these will be successful.

Gold bricks are being sold almost daily, in this industry, with promises of fabulous profits. Inexperienced enthusiasts become imbued with the idea that if one set can be built for a certain price, a number can be produced for less... And so they fall..

According to the manufacturers' statistics, at least 37 per cent of the sets built must be rejected when they come to final test. Amateurs make "discoveries" already patented and find themselves in a tangle if they try to develop their idea.

BASEBALL BOOSTER

Contrary to former belief, baseball magnates of Atlanta have finally admitted that radio has increased their gate receipts. This was done by maintaining interest among those who could not attend regularly and creating many new fans.

Station WGN, Chicago, has been heard in Hobart, Tasmania, 9670 miles away.

Uruguay is showing keen interest in radio.

He Has the Bug

Congressman Fred H. Dominick of South Carolina has the fever. His set is in his office at the capitol and most of his spare time he spends listening in.

Map showing how twelve lines to Strategic Broadcasting Stations will furnish practically the entire country with speeches and yells from the conventions at Cleveland and New York.

WEST MAY LISTEN IN BY PROXY!

By NEA Service

CLEVELAND, O., May 31 — Twelve broadcasting stations scattered over the east and middle west of the United States will broadcast the Republican convention from Cleveland, beginning June 10, and at least one more will pick up a broadcast and hurl it out to the coast.

This is the program, almost adopted, by which the people of America will be in constant touch with the delegates at the Republican convention here listening to speeches, yells and applause, to all the noises and hullabaloo that accompanies a political gathering of this kind.

The committee in charge of broadcasting is lining up stations in the following cities:

Connected by Line

The plan is to connect the stations in these cities by telephone wire direct from the convention hall here. Microphones will pick up the speeches, the shouting, the hand-clapping and all, transmit them by wire to the stations all at the same time, to be broadcast almost the same moment throughout the United States.

For farther west, the Westinghouse company is planning to rebroadcast the convention proceedings from KFKX at Hastings, Neb., so htat the whole coast may not miss the "big doings."

Snice station KDKA at East Pittsburg, Pa., will be one of the 12 getting direct service from Cleveland, it is planned to pick this up and transmit it to KFKX on a short wave, while it will be broadcast at the same time on the higher broadcasting wave.

In Cleveland, stations WTAM, WJAX and WHK will pick up every bit of the proceedings in shifts, so that nothing of the convention will be passed up. The same arrangement may be tried in the other cities, where there are two or more stations.

For Outsiders

The crowd around the convention hall will be able to hear everything going on through the installation of a highly powerful loud 'speaker arrangement—the kind used when Lloyd George spoke here a few months ago. The system itself will p.kedOll ce shrdshrdlucmfwyppyp become the property of Cleveland, for use during other affairs at the auditorium.

At the same time three of Cleveland's newspapers will install similar systems fo rtheir own crowds. As these are stationed within a few blocks of the convention hall, the whole downtown area may resound with G. O. P. yells.

Engineers of the American Telephone & Telegraph Company and the Western Elecrtic Company believe the same broadcasting stations and the same system will be used for transmitting the doings of the Democratic convention in New York, beginning June 24.

LOW POWER RECORD

Station WBBG, at Mattapoisett, Mass., claims a distance record among low-power broadcasters. Transmitting on 250 watts, using storage batteries alone for power, WBBG has been reported heard in England and on the Pacific Coast.

RADIO CALL SYSTEM

A system of bell calls, similar to the telephone apparatus, has been devised by Lewis M. Clement, Western Electric engineer. Radio fans may soon be installing it on their sets.

Clifford Arner of Orangeville, O., has a record of having received 147 different broadcasters.

COUNTY MOTORS REGISTRATION HITS SLUMP IN APRIL

343 SALES REPORTED

Hoof and Mouth Disease Is Blamed For Southland's Heaviest Decline

According to registration figures for April, 1924, compiled by the Motor Registration News of Oakland, Orange county suffered a decrease of 46 per cent in registration of automobiles and trucks as compared with the same month of the previous year. The sales here for last month were 343 cars and trucks as against 644 for April, 1923.

Southern California showed a loss of 27 per cent while sales in Northern California declined 16 per cent. The average decline for the state was 22 per cent.

Registration for the state last month totalled 17,093 cars and trucks, and for the same month the previous year it was 22,215 or a loss of 5,122 motor vehicles. In presenting the result of its investigation for 1924 as compared with 1923, the News says:

Northern California suffered a 16 per cent loss in selling 7,702 cars and trucks, compared to 9,259 cars and trucks during April of 1923.

Southern California received its toughest jolt in netting a 27 per cent loss in April, 1924, contrasted to its April, 1923, record. Last month in Southern California 9,391 vehicles were registered, compared to 12,956 cars and trucks in April of last year.

State Suffers Loss

Passenger car sales in the state suffered a 22 per cent loss, as the comparison of 15,635 passenger car registrations last month show, in contrast to 20,190 passenger cars during April of 1923.

"In Northern California the passenger car loss amounted to 15 per cent. Seventy-one hundred and twenty-nine passenger cars

Consideration For Other Drivers Asked

With the season for vacations again here, J. B. Glaze, secretary of the Orange County Automobile Trade association, today said that motorists seem to have taken a vacation from all forms of politeness.

"The motorist bawls out the pedestrian, the pedestrian cordially roasts the motorist, and the traffic cop roars at both," commented thesecretary.

"The driver unmercifully berates the befuddled pedestrian who tried to cross the street with his eyes closed, and multiplies his curses when he turns them on the fellow motorist who stopped suddenly without giving a signal.

"Then the traffic cop joins in the general ill-tempered chorus, and thus does the motor car contribute its share toward spoiling the day for all concerned.

"A little more consideration for the other fellow, whether he's a pedestrian, traffic cop or fellow motorist, wouldn't do any of us any harm."

WEIGHT TAX ON ALL CARS MAY BE ADOPTED

Marsh Will Oppose Scheme Until State Needs More Highway Maintenance

Will H. Marsh, chief of the state division of motor vehicles, in a public statement, today had voiced his belief that a weight fee should be established for all types of motor vehicles if it should develop that the state highway commission should have more money for highway maintenance than is available from the gasoline tax and the registration fee.

Approval was given this suggestion here today by a prominent member of one of the automobile clubs. The latter said he could see no reason for an increase in the revenues, but that if an increase is necessary the weight fee plan offered an equitable plan for distribution of the costs of keeping up the boulevards.

Asserting that he believed in the principle of the gasoline tax, the division chief said he had not as yet favored an increase in the present rate of two cents a gallon, as the highway commission had made no report indicating a need of more funds.

Says Tax Best System

"I believe that the gas tax is the most equitable means yet devised for the raising of revenue for the maintenance of the state's highway system," Marsh says in his statement.

"As a supplemental system of raising revenue, if more be needed, instead of that at present employed which embraces a flat fee and a weight tax under many and divers classifications, I propose a weight tax at so much per hundred pounds for all vehicles regardless of kind, character or classification.

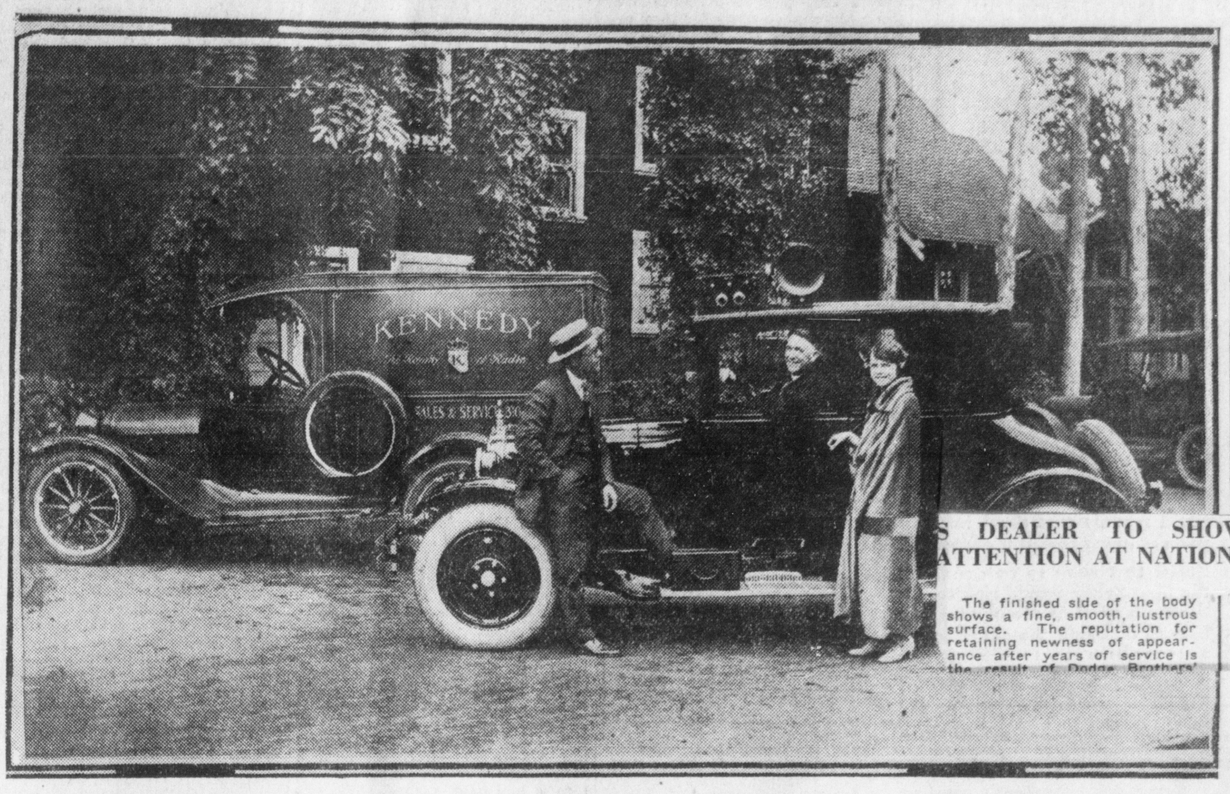

"I believe the employment of the two systems mentioned would give the state the best arrangement for raising highway maintenance money which it would be possible to employ.

"I have not yet favored an increase in the gas tax for the reason that no apparent need for increase has yet been shown by the California highway commission. The present tax will raise in excess of four million dollars of the amount which the commission estimated would be necessary for this purpose for the year 1924."

EXECUTIVES TO GREET 38 ON ROAD TOUR

Governors of five states will welcome in behalf of their respective commonwealths the thirty-eight delegates from Latin-American countries who, during June, are to make a field study of highways and highway transportation in the United States as guests of the Highway Education board, a study of the three weeks' itinerary discloses.

States which the delegates will traverse include in order Virginia, Tennessee, Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania. Twenty Latin-American countries are to the represented in the group which will be conducted by Highway Education board officials through these several states of the union on the most unique road tour in the history of the country.

After two days of entertainment in Washington, June 2 and 3, during which they will be received by President Coolidge and Secretary of State Hughes, the delegates will leave for Raleigh, North Carolina, the first stop on the itinerary.

Dogs Bring Slash In Insurance Rate

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31.—Reductions of from five to ten per cent in insurance rates have been announced by a leading insurance company on residence risks where a dog is kept, it was onnounced here today.

"Man's friend, the dog, is the best burglar alarm that ever has been devised," the announcement said.

O. A. Haley, county distributor for Dodge Brothers' cars, and W. V. Peeling, proprietor of the Kennedy Radio Sales and Service company, 316 Spurgeon street, today had completed the formation of of what could be properly termed a "self-admiration association," for Haley had sold to Peeling two vehicles of the Dodge Brothers' line and Peeling had sold to Haley a Kennedy radio—and both are satisfied.

Declaring that Dodge Brothers' four-passenger coupe offers all the comfort in the world for short or long tours, Haley said the Kennedy radio offers all the satisfaction in the world in the matter of receiving radio entertainment programs.

Peeling added the interesting statement that a Kennedy portable may be carried on tours and put in service by throwing a wire over a tree and grounding it on the car.

"Dodge Brothers' cars and the Kennedy radio are nationally known products and both are popular because of their sturdiness," Peeling said.

"The coupe manufactured by Dodge Brothers was designed and produced to meet the very definite need for a type of car of convenient size that would comfortably carry two, three or four passengers," said Haley. "The seating arrangement is staggered, with a real seat of folding design at the side of the driver. The driver's seat is so designed that there is ample room on the left and the driver sits behind the wheel, not at an angle. The seats are built low, providing ample leg room.

"The car as built is attractive in appearance and conforms in every detail to modern design. The observance of detail in the painting, trimming and hardware has produced a finished car that is an attractive addition to the standard types which Dodge Brothers' now furnish."

ISSUE WARNING AGAINST FIRE IN FORESTS

Eastern motorists who are beginning to invade this section by thousands should be warned personally against carelessness with fire in the national forests, according to announcement by the touring bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California. It is pointed out that while residents of this section are familiar with conditions and know that the long dry season makes extra precautions necessary, the stranger does not realize the danger of leaving camp fires burning and carelessly throwing away lighted matches or burning cigarettes.

"One tree will make a million matches—one match will destroy a million trees," is the lesson that should be impressed on all the motorists entering the national forests and other sections where the dry undergrowth readily ignites and quickly gets beyond control. This situation entails constant thoughtfulness and every resident motorist is urged to impress personally the lesson upon visitors from other sections.

There are nearly 20,000,000 acres in the nineteen national forests of California, the scenic beauties of which are open to the public. The only provision that Uncle Sam makes as host is that the visitors be extremely careful with their camp fires and matches, and that they refrain from polluting streams and scattering rubbish.

LAY PLANS FOR CONFEDERATE EXERCISES

Plans were being completed today to secure a speaker for the Confederate memorial services to be held at Birch park Tuesday June 3, beginning at 9:30 a. m., when all Southerners are expected to gather with flowers for the decoration of Confederate veterans' graves in Fairhaven cemetery.

The Rev. Moffett Rhodes, pastor of Spurgeon Memorial church, was to have been the speaker, but his recovery from a recent automobile accident has been too slow to allow him to be present, so another speaker has to be secured.

Plans announced include the program during the forenoon followed by the visit to the cemetery where, with appropriate ceremonies, the flowers will be placed on the veterans' graves. Returning to Birch park, the Dixie folk will join in a basket picnic dinner at 12:30 o'clock and spend thhe afternoon enjoying the park surroundings and reminiscing of days in the old South.

S. A. MERCHANT HEADING EAST NOW IN NEB.

"Spring is late in Eastern Nebraska and Western Iowa, but the country is looking fine. The general business outlook has improved considerably over what it was two years ago, when I visited in this territory."

"Found the roads across the desert very fair and the thermometer registering at 105 degrees," said the veteran hardware merchant.

Arriving at Searchlight, Nev., the following day the Santa Anans not only had to submit to a thorough fumigation but to give up to the guards three dozen oranges and twenty-five pounds of walnuts they were taking to relatives.

"Giving us a clean bill of health, the authorities sent us on our way to Cedar City, Utah, by way of Los Vegas, St. Thomas, and St. George," Nickey continued. "From Cedar City we went to Salt Lake City, arriving at the latter point at the end of the fourth day, our speedometer registering 800 miles from Santa Ana.

"We reached Evanston, Wyo. the night of the fifth day and at noon of the following day arrived at Rock Springs, Wyo., where we passed the afternoon and night with friends. The end of the following day found us at Laramie, Wyo. The night was very different from those we had passed on the desert, for thick ice was in evidence. Two days later we arrived at Omaha, after traveling 1995 miles.

"I was not trying for a record but my driving time of eight days indicates that the roads are good and that we did not loaf along the way. Had no punctures or motor trouble of any kind. We hope to reach the eastern coast with as good a report."

editor today gave approval to suggested requirement that men and women with defective vision should not be permitted to drive automobiles. And while giving approval to this feature, he declares that deaf drivers are the safest operators that drive the highways of the state.

His comments have to do with announcement recently by Will H. Marsh, superintendent of the state motor vehicle division, that he would suggest to the next legislature an amendment to the motor vehicle act providing for examination of applicants for operators' licenses.

"I have ridden with drivers who were totally deaf and I never have ridden with more careful drivers," comments "Partly Deaf."

And then opening up another criticism, he asserts that we "now have too many road laws and not officers enough to enforce them."

Continuing, he says: "If a drunken or reckless driver were barred from the operation of a car, and his machine taken from him the first time he is convicted, the highways in six months would be safe for all drivers. I am partly deaf, but I have for forty-five years ridden all kinds of horses and driven all kinds of machines in all kinds of places and never have had an accident."

Observes Traffic Rules

I will agree with my correspondent that a driver who is hard of hearing may be a safe driver. A person with that affliction usually is a keen observer of traffic regulations and "sticks" to his side of the road because he is cognizant of the fact that he cannot hear a machine approaching from the rear or from his right or left. He is not as dangerous as the driver with poor vision, or poor judgment as to distance or speed of an approaching machine.

I quoted recently from tests by Dr. W. B. Needles, president of the Northern Illinois College of Ophthalmology and Otology, in which he told that portion of a crowd on a street a man would see who possessed only one-fourth vision.

Find Many Unfit

"Even the most superficial examination of those who apply for drivers' licenses reveal hundreds of cases where applicants are totally unsafe to conduct a motor car through city traffic."

It is possible that defective eyesight has had something to do with the tremendous increase in deaths annually from motor vehicle accidents. The increase has been from 598 in 1907 to 15,700 in 1923.

The American Automobile association is not concerning itself with an investigation of automobile accident a fatality causes and hopes to reduce the annual toll of deaths by concentration of thought on the subject of accident prevention by motorists.

According to Thomas P. Henry, president of the association, analyses by experts of accident causes, has revealed that bad street lighting is very largely responsible for many city accidents at night.

"The matter of recklessness is

Parts You Never See

They Are The Heart And Soul Of Hupmobile Goodness

Behind the Hupmobile parts display on view in our salesroom lies the story of Hupmobile owner satisfaction.

These parts—which look no different from parts of lesser quality but actually are vastly different—are the heart and soul of all the good you hear about the Hupmobile.

In them is bound up the long life of the car—all its virtues of low costs and few replacements, of superior performance and high running economy.

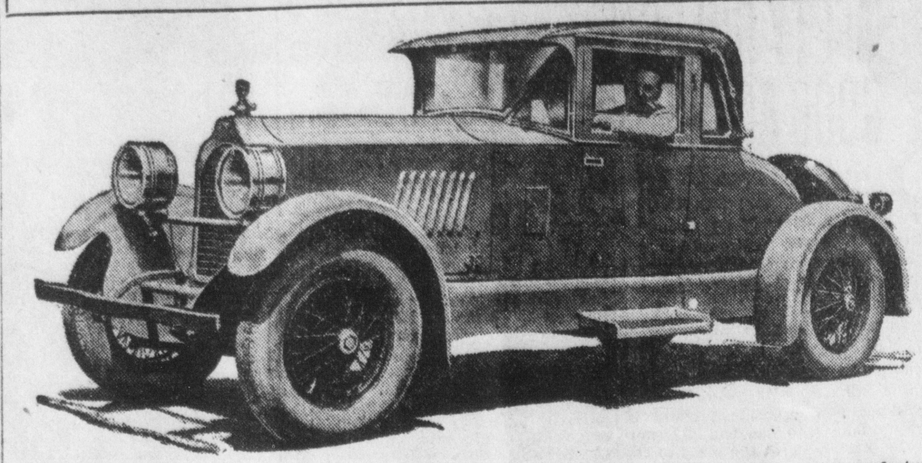

The Hupp factory could use materials of lesser quality, it could manufacture them into parts at lower cost, if it chose.

But if that were to be done, the Hupmobile would sink to the dead level of motor cars, instead of being the superior automobile it is widely acknowledged to be.

BARNEY OLDFIELD NOW AUTO MANUFACTURER

Barney Oldfield at the wheel of the Oldfield car which the veteran racing driver is now manufacturing in Los Angeles. Oldfield is driving the first of the new cars across country to attend the Indianapolis 500 mile race.

Barney Oldfield has entered the ranks of the motor car manufacturers. The first Oldfield car is on the road to Indianapolis with Barney himself at the wheel, where he will as usual be present at the big Memorial day 500 mile race. The new Los Angeles plant of the Oldfield Motors corporation, which is to manufacture and market the Oldfield, is hard at work to fill orders that have already come in for the car which embodies twenty-two years of personal experience, which Barney Oldfield, the dean of all American racing drivers, has at last put into actual form in a motor car.

The first Oldfield, which Barney is driving, is a luxurious three passenger coupe with a body of distinctive and beautiful design. The motor is of the overhead valve type as might be expected from Oldfield's racing experience, and develops seventy-five horsepower. The wheel base of the car is 130 inches, giving it the necessary length for "roadability" and yet keeping it within the limits desirable for use in city traffic. The high radiator is very pleasing in appearance, and while there is ample headroom in the body of the car, the top has the appearance of being unusually low. Oldfield's long experience in streamlining cars for high speed work is plainly evident in the sweeping curves of the body lines.

NASH APRIL OUTPUT BREAKS 1923 MARK

Business of the Nash Motors company so far this year has eclipsed the record for the same period in 1923, according to W. C. May, of the May Motor company, local Nash distributor. As indicating that the "spring rush" is now on in earnest, factory shipments for April substantially exceed shipments for the same period in 1923, May said.

"All plants of The Nash Motors company in Kenosha and Milwaukee, were in full production throughout April and when the month had ended the company still had a large number of unfilled orders," May said.

NEW BROUGHAM POPULAR WITH PAIGE MEN

More than five hundred Paige four-door broughams have been distributed among the dealers of the Paige-Detroit Motor Car company within the first two weeks of the new model's existence, according to Jack Mabee, local Paige and Jewett dealer.

Mabee states that he has never before heard of any model in the quality motor car field which had been accorded a reception anywhere equalling that of the new Paige four-door brougham.

"In many cities of the United States formal announcement of the new model has not been made, yet hundreds of orders are being taken at private showings," Mabee said.

"The new four-door brougham is the most luxurious model of the new Paige. Its lines distinctly conform to the trend in body designs as reflected in some of the recent custom built bodies by the most prominent builders in this country.

"The body engineers of the Paige company were ordered to bring out a creation that would be well in advance of the coming production of the quality motor car manufacturers. The four-door brougham was the result of the effort made by the engineers to follow their orders."

OUTLINE MOTOR STANDARDS OF U. S. GROUPS

The standards which the motor groups in the United States have adopted for the taxation and regulation of cars and trucks were outlined by H. H. Rice, chairman of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce legislative committee and president of Cadillac Motor Car company, speaking before the World Motor Transport congress of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce in Detroit last week.

According to Otto Haan, president of the Cadillac Garage company, Rice brought out that the motor vehicle owner, dealer and manufacturer organizations had worked together on these principles and had attempted to formulate a program which would be equitable and a public benefit, realizing that any other program would necessarily be short lived.

Among the principles which these associations have adopted are the following:

The original construction cost of improving highways should be borne by society-as-a-whole, including owners and non-owners of motor vehicles, all of whom benefit from the highways.

The state should be the sole taxation agency.

The total amount of special taxation should not exceed the sum of money necessary for the maintenance of the state and for the administration of the state motor vehicle department.

"In the matter of regulations of traffic, there is great diversity among the forty-eight states," said Haan. The motor vehicle conference committee, representing different organizations in the industry, has drawn up a set of uniform traffic regulations which it is recommending to the forty-eight bodies of law makers as a suggested standard. These points have to do with speed, when to slow down, passing another vehicle, signals, and similar matters."

1,000 MILES per GALLON!

Average Made by 6-Year-Old Taxi

"Extra Thousands of Care-free Miles"

WHEN you're late—ten minutes to catch a train—what do you do? Call the busiest thing on four wheels. And it must be dependable!

You know it is! Weaving through endless traffic, stopping, starting, night and day—the taxi must be dependable. So says the Brown and White Cab Company. Cabs must be neat, clean, comfortable. They must not grow old. Brown and White trade in their used cabs regularly because all appointments must be modern.

But, in one exceptional case, a luxurious Twin-Six was kept in rental service six years. And, at the end of six years it still averaged 1000 miles per gallon of Ventura Motor Oil. Brown and White use VENTURA exclusively.

A thousand miles per gallon is not a remarkable record for the average car using VENTURA. Your car, too, can do as well or better, for VENTURA fights friction at every piston stroke, protecting the motor's swiftly moving parts, which work under terrific pressure. Let VENTURA give you extra thousands of care-free miles. Look for the "Red V" sign.

STANFORD TEAM QUALIFIES 13 ATHLETES

Arthur, Big Card Weight Tosser, Hurls Discus 154 Feet 8 Inches

By HENRY L. FARRELL

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31. — Yale, Stanford, Pennsylvania and California, leading the field in yesterday's qualifications, were to battle it out here this afternoon for the intercollegiate track and field championships.

Prominent coaches and critics who have watched the title slip away for three years to the Pacific coast, believed that the East had but a slim chance to dethrone the sun tanned athletes from the far West.

Yale had 14 to start in the semi-finals and finals this afternoon and was looked upon as the lone chance of the East. Stanford had 13 survivors of the trials, Pennsylvania and California ten each, Princeton nine, and Southern California eight.

Weather conditions were much better today. The sun was out bright and the wind which had blown a gale through the stadium yesterday afternoon, had become calm. The track was in perfect condition and coaches predicted that a new record might be made in the half mile race which promised the hottest competition on the card.

Two new records were made in the trials. Bill Comins, Yale, made a mark of 24 feet, 5 5-16 inches in the broad jump and Jim Arthur from Stanford, set a mark in the discus of 154 feet, 8 1-2 inches. Both performances virtually cinched first place in the events as it is improbable that they will be bettered this afternoon. Arthur's record may not be allowed as the discus throwers worked with the gale at their backs.

The University of California won the Championship the last three years virtually on the points scored in the field events. The Pacific coast teams were expected to do all their heavy scoring this year in the field but Stanford pulled a surprise by qualifying nine athletes for the track events and only four for the field.

California did all the heavy work in the field events by qualifying nine for the finals.

Some of the prominent coaches said today that the strength of the leading teams is so evenly divided that 28 points ought to win the championship.

Officials of the meet expected a large crowd today for the finals. The city has gone so "looney" over the Boston Red Sox, however, that the attendance at the meet may be as disappointing as it was yesterday.

SHORT SPORTS

Yesterday's hero—Yankee stadium. Ninth inning. Bases full. Two out. Yankees one run behind. Babe Ruth at bat. He struck out! The Yanks divided a double bill with the tail-end Aathletics winning 6 to 0 and losing 5 to 4 when the Bam failed to deliver in the ninth the champions thus retaining a tie for first place.

The Giants made twenty hits, including three homers, in the opener against the Phils and won, 11 to 5. They took the second game, 6 to 5.

The Brooklyn Robins took both ends of their holiday bill with the Braves, tieing up the first game in the ninth inning and winning it in the twelfth, 6 to 5, while the second was easy, 5 to 1.

The Red Sox held onto the tie for the first place by splitting even with the Senators. They won 9 to 4 and lost 10 to 5.

Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis morning and afternoon, 4 to 0 and 3 to 2.

Cooper easily subdued the Cards in the first game. The second went 15 innings.

The largest crowd that ever turned out at Cubs park saw the visiting Reds take both ends of a double header from the Cubs, 9 to 2, and 4 to 2.

Ken Williams hit for the circuit in both games but the Browns only broke even against the White Sox, taking one, 5 to 2 and losing the other 11 to 4. Sisler got four hits during the day.

Pitching of Stoner and Cole enabled Detroit to win both morning and afternoon games from the Indians 11 to 7 and 2 to 0.

Kinks o' the Links

BY JOE WILLIAMS

Few golfers ever reach the purple heights without an encouraging smile from the gods of luck. Not that golf is a game where luck always decides the important issues but it often seems that sheer skill is not quite enough.

No one played better golf than Max Marston in the national amateur at Flossmoor last summer, no one was more deserving of victory, and yet it is doubtful if the Philadelphian would have won if the "breaks" hadn't been in his favor.

The breaks fell Marston's way at a critical moment when defeat and disaster, like twin horrors, loomed an arm's length away.

It was in the semi-finals. Francis Ouimet of Boston was his opponent. Ouimet had been 4 down at the sixteenth hole in the morning. Later he found himself and gained steadily. At the twelfth hole in the afternoon he had squared the match.

The thirteenth at Flossmor is a one-shot hole to a cupped green, completely trapped. Ouimet drove the honor ball. It came down like a poached egg not more than 18 inches from the pin. Almost a hole in one. Marston hit his shot too robustly.

The green was fringed with spectators. The ball struck one of them and dropped on the green. If the ball hadn't hit a spectator it would have gone on into a trap, out of which Marston would have had to play a safety shot.

As matters stood he was still on the green, though 40 feet from the hole. That lucky break was a stimulant. Marston proceeded to shock the gallery by sinking the long putt for a birdie two.

The effect the lucky break, plus the successful putt, had on Ouimet is hard to describe.

As Marston's ball dropped into the cup Ouimet winced as if an unseen hand had popped him on the chin. That the effect was not wholly imaginary was shown a second later when Ouimet, unnerved, missed his tiny putt.

Marston won the next hole, too, and was never headed.

CALIFORNIANS BEAT ANZAC NET PLAYERS

Willie Johnston Triumphs Over Gerald Patterson In 3-Set Match

BERKELEY, Cal., May 31.—United States players made a clean sweep in the "Little Davis Cup" exhibition matches with Australia on the courts of the Berkeley Tennis club here today.

Four Californians, all of them candidates for the United States Davis cup team, took the Australian Davis Cup team of contenders into camp by winning three singles matches and two of doubles.

In the outstanding event of the day, William Johnston, world's singles champion, defeated Gerald Patterson, former title holder, now champion of the Australian team, 6-3, 4-6, 6-3.

Other results were:

Howard O. Kinsey, (U. S.) defeated Richard Schlesinger, (A) 63, 8-6.

William M. Johnston-Clarence Griffin (U.S.) defeated Gerald Patterson-Pat O'Hara Wood, 4-6, 6-2, 10-8.

Robert O. Kinsey (U.S.) defeated Pat Wood (A.), 6-3, 2-6, 8-6.

Howard Kinsey-Clarence Griffin (U.S.) defeated SchlesingerFred Kalms (A), 4-6, 6-4, 6-0.

OREGON TEAMS HAVE EDGE IN BIG MEET

EUGENE, Ore., May 31.—With mid-summer weather and fast track conditions prevailing, University of Oregon and Oregon Aggies take the field in Saturday's Pacific Coast collegiate track and field meet with a slight advantage, as the result of Friday's preliminaries.

Of the 130 athletes entered in the various events, 29 qualified for the finals today. Of these, five Aggie athletes took nine places and six Oregon stars took eight places. All others of the 130, however, were not eliminated, as several events, such as the quarter, half mile, two mile, pole vault, high jump and shot put did not require preliminaries.

Bankers to Bowl Lot-Sellers For Broadway Title

The American National bank, champions of the Business Men's League, and the Santa Ana Realty board, title holders of the Commercial league, will clash Monday night in a three-game match to settle the championship of all squads that bowl at the Broadway academy.

The series will get under way promptly at 7:30 o'clock, Harry Gaspar, proprietor, announced.

The Bankers won their title when they disposed of the Schroeder Pharmacy in a special play-off match and the Realtors did the same by winning from the Standard Oil company.

TRUCKMEN PLAY BEANPICKERS AT TUSTIN

Trickey Team Still Barred From Irvine Park By Disease Cautions

Still barred from their home lot because of hoof and mouth disease precautions, Manager Arthur Trickey's Irvine Bean pickers will frolic with the Santa Ana Commercial company club tomorrow afternoon at the Tustin high school ball park. The game, the most important this season of the Orange county league, will begin at 2:30 o'clock.

The pitching selections today still remained more or less a mystery. George Lackaye, skipper of the league-leading Truckmen, was expected to start Herb Salveson but some of the wise heads thought he might shift to his latest acquisition, "Red" Billman, at the last minute. Billman, it is said, is anxious to get a crack at his old teammates.

League eligibility lists have been filed with President Victor Walker and no teams will be allowed to add strength during the remainder of the season.

S. A. Commercial Co.—Lackaye, Salveson, Bryan, Billman, Callan, Coffman, Callahan, Hawkins, Rumsey, Muckenthaler, Pendleton, Huarte, Smith and Sinsley.

Billy Evans Says

One of the greatest middle distance runners of all time was J. E. (Ted) Meredith, former University of Pennsylvania star.

Meredith, a luminary of the first magnitude, specialized in the 440 and 850-yard runs.

Meredith enjoyed his best season in 1916. That year he gave one of the finest exhibitions ever seen on any track at the annual eastern intercollegiate meet at Cambridge, May 27.

Competing in the quarter-mile event, Meredith turned the distance in 47 2-5 seconds, the fastest time ever made on a circular track. In 1900, the great Maxey Long set up a mark of 47 seconds flat but Long accomplished the feat on a straight-away course. Meredith had one turn to make.

On the same day and with but a few minutes' rest, the Quaker celebrity stepped the half in 1:53 for another I. C. A. A. A. record. In each event, Meredith was pitted against the cream of the cinder path world. On both occasions he literally ran away from the rest of the field.

Just two weeks before the Cambridge feat, Meredith ran the half in 1:52½ at Philadelphia. This still remains as the world's record for the event.

Before entering Penn, Meredith starred as a schoolboy at Mercersburg, where many other famous athletes got their start. In 1912, as a member of the American Olympic team, Meredith won the 800-meter run at Stockholm, making the distance in 1:59.09.

* * *

A PUZZLE A DAY

The drawing represents a checkerboard, which contains ten checkers. There are two checkers numbered "1"; two numbered "2," and so on. Start from any checker, and draw a line, square by square, until you reach the other checker of the same number. You can move back and forth, or up and down, but NOT diagonally. A sample course is indicated from checker 1 to checker 1.

The problem, however, is to connect 1 with 1, 2 with 2, 3 with 3, etc., without having any of the lines cross or touch the same square. And every square of the board must be utilized!

Yesterday's answer:

9 times 8 plus 7 plus 6 plus 5 plus 4 plus 3 plus 2 plus 1.

The above arrangement of the numbers 1 to 9 produces a total of 100.

NOTICE INVITING BIDS
In the Matter of Road District Improvement No. 30.
Resolution of Intention No. 30.

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Supervisors of the County of Orange, State of California, proceeding under and by virtue of the Road District Improvement Act of 1907, as revised, and in the matter of Road District Improvement No. 30, did on the 27th day of May, 1924, order to be done all of the work set forth and specified in and by said Resolution of Intention No. 30, and to the grades set forth in the specifications and determined that the boundaries of the district to be benefited by the improvement be those set forth in said Resolution of Intention No. 30. Said Board hereby invites bids for doing the said work which bids it will receive up to the hour of 11 o'clock A. M. of June 10th, 1924.

For the costs and expenses of the work and the proceedings (less materials furnished by the County) bonds will be issued to the amount of the same, bearing interest at the rate of six per cent (6%) per annum, payable semi-annually, and one fifteenth (1-15) part of the principal payable annually, all in gold coin and the aggregate of the principal of said bonds shall be paid and discharged within fifteen (15) years from the issue thereof.

A special fund for the payment of said bonds is to be constituted by the levy of a special assessment tax upon all land within a district to be known as Road Improvement District No. 30 in the County of Orange, as the same is fully set forth and described in said Resolution of Intention No. 30, passed and adopted by the Board of Supervisors of said County on the 29th day of April, 1924, to which resolution reference is hereby made for full and complete description of said assessment district and for full and complete description of the work to be done.

Said work is to be done under the provision of the Road District Improvement Act of 1906, as revised, and according to the specifications on file therefor.

Reference is hereby made to the above mentioned Act, to the Resolution of Intention No. 30 and all proceedings had thereunder and the same are by this reference hereby made a part of this notice and the attention of bidders is hereby directed thereto.

All bids shall be delivered to the undersigned at his office in the County Court House of the County of Orange, in Santa Ana, California, and shall be accompanied by a check, payable to the order of the presiding officer of the Board of Supervisors, certified by a responsible bank for an amount not less than ten per cent (10%) of the aggregate of the bid, or by a bond for said amount running to the County, signed by the bidder, with two sureties qualifying each in said amount over and above all statutory exemptions before an officer competent to administer oaths, or with one duly authorized corporate surety.

RUSH WORK ON NEW THEATER AT ORANGE

ORANGE, May 31.—Building permits here for the month today promised to reach the high mark for the year, as it is expected that a permit would be taken out for the erection of a theater building on the corner of N. Glassell and Maple avenues.

The theater is being constructed by J. C. Adams who stated that a ten year lease had been given on the building to the West Coast Theater company. Work on the building, which will be one of the most up-to-date picture houses in Orange county, was recently started and the foundation is being poured. Large steel bars are being used as reenforcement in the foundations. It is expected that the structure will be completed by January 1, of 1925, and will cost about $175,000.

Building permits for the month to date were $16,250. Seven permits are included in this amount. Five houses and garages, and two remodeling jobs are included on the list of permits. A permit was issued Thursday to J. E. Cole of 715 East Walnut avenue for the erection of a new house and garage. The buildings were estimated to cost about $3750.

S. T. Higgins was also issued a permit to erect a new house and garage on his property at 227 South Shaffer avenue. The buildings will cost about $3500, it is estimated.

Work on the Woman's club house here opposite the city hall building is progressing nicely. Workmen were busy yesterday with the plastering of the building. It is estimated that the building will be completed some time in the near future. Work on the remodeling of the Piggly-Wiggly store building here is also progressing nicely.

OCCIDENTAL COACH SPEAKER AT ORANGE

ORANGE, May 31.—Coach Joseph Pipal, of Occidental college, Los Angeles, was the speaker of the day at the regular meeting of the Rotary club held at the Masonic hall here. Pipal gave a very interesting talk on "Physical Education," bringing out a comparison between the sports and physical educational work in the United States as it is compared to that of Europe.

"The European athletes are mechanical, and physical education there is taught under the plan that they are to obey orders and not reason for themselves," he pointed out, "while American athletes are self reliant and can think quick."

One of the features of the meeting was the honoring of the birthday anniversary of Dr. J. C. Crawford. Dr. Crawford, who is an ardent golf fan and is a member of the greens committee of the Fairway country club, was presented with a wornout golf ball nicely wrapped in a large box, by his fellow Rotarians.

James Metzgar, secretary of the chamber of commerce at Santa Ana, and a member of the Rotary club there, and C. F. Skirven, also a member of the Santa Ana Rotary club, were the visitors of the day at the meeting.

John Coolidge, father of the president, has become a radio fan.

EVENING SALUTATION

EXPRESSION OF THANKS

The sincere thanks of many scores of residents of Orange county is voiced, we are sure, by The Register in offering today an expression of appreciation to the Board of Supervisors for having the old cemetery cleared of weeds and debris.

Also, the occasion should not pass without an expression of appreciation of the service rendered by W. V. Whitson, chairman of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce committee on betterment of the cemetery.

The state law is such that the organization of a district for the care of neglected cemeteries is almost impossible. It is hoped that amendments can be made that will make it possible for a district to be organized or for placing an old cemetery, such as the Santa Ana cemetery, under some sort of perpetual care.

FOREST FIRE PREVENTION AND SUPPRESSION

SAN FRANCISCO, May 30.—Touched off in brush heaps made tinder-like by the long dry spell and the hot north winds, forest fires are burning in more than a half dozen California counties today, some of them beyond control.

* * * * *

In a letter recently received by the Editor of The Register from Former Governor George C. Pardee, who is chaiman of the District Public Affairs Committee of Kiwanis International, tremendous emphasis is laid upon the fact that fire prevention and suppression is the very soul of water conservation. The District Public Affairs Committee of Kiwanis is concentrating on water conservation and Governor Pardee says: "I hope that in the Kiwanis Clubs of your zone and in your editorial work you are stressing the all-important fact that the fundamental preliminary to all forest and water conservation in this state, with its long rainless summers, is fire-prevention and fire-suppression on our watersheds. What's the use," he asks, "in talking about reforestation if the young trees are not to be protected against fire? What's the use in talking about water conservation if the water-conserving natural cover—forest, brush and grass—on our watersheds is not to be protected from fire? That cover conserved, the less water will run to waste into the ocean during flood-water periods and the less damage will be done by flood-waters."

* * * * *

It is, perhaps, not generally known, but, according to Governor Pardee, it is a fact that what is now Southern California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Utah was once forested—the animal skeletons found in the asphalt pit at La Brea, the petrified trees found in all five of these states, the tree-fossils also found there, the now-living remnants of ancient forests also found scattered here and there in favored localities in the mountains, the fine forests that still survive on the backbone of Lower California, all go to prove that, as Palm Spring do. Somewhere in Junipero Serra's diary (began when he came to San Diego in 1769) there is an obscure intimation that even only 150 years ago there was quite a tree-growth in the immediate neighborhood of San Diego Bay. Nowadays, of course, trees of native growth in that vicinity are very, very scarce.

The cause of this enormous deforestation? Fire was the immediate cause—fire set by lightning and the peoples of those days—fire made possible, of course, by the progressively increasing aridity of the climate—which aridity, we believe, without any scientific proof, is still increasing. When the climate was moist—as it was originally, as the animal and vegetable fossils show—fires couldn't rage, as, helped by the increasing aridity, they later did and do now and will continue to, if we let them.

* * * * *

Once on a time there was an enormous lake, discharging into the Snake River, of which lake the Great Salt Lake is the miserably small remnant. Once on a time, too, California, Northern and Southern, was traversed by great rivers, running practically at right angles to their shrunken successors of today. Once on a time, the whole Pacific Coast, as we now call it, was covered by the Big Trees, of which there now remain only a few thousand in our Sierras. The Big Trees were gradually supplanted, under climatic changes, by the Redwoods, which covered all of California. But, as the aridity increased, they gave way to the pines, except in the fog-bound narrow strip along the coast of Northern California. And now the pines have almost disappeared, before the fires, in Southern California, and are constantly menaced by fire in Northern California.

Brush takes the place of destroyed forests, and serves as a very good water conserver, so long as we keep fire out of it. But, if (as we are doing) we let fire constantly harass the brush, it cannot survive, and the result is bare stretches, off which flood-waters run to waste into the ocean, leaving devastation in their wake.

Over two million acres of the watersheds in this state that were covered "when the Gringo came" in '49, have already been stripped, principally by fire, of all natural cover, left entirely bare of all cover, and therefore, destroyed as conserving watersheds, of course. Just incidentally, two million acres are three times the area of the state of Rhode Island, two per cent of the entire area of California, and about five per cent of the forty million acres of conserving watersheds we have left to us in this state.

And it is an alarming fact that those two million acres of destroyed watersheds are being added to at the rate of approximately fifty thousand acres per annum!

Dr. George P. Clements, of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, estimates, after a careful examination, that, in 1922, in Southern California alone, the fire-damage to watersheds, as watersheds, amounted to nearly one hundred million dollars. What the watershed-damage for the whole state was in 1923, (when about 785,000 acres, in and out of the National Forests, were burned over) may be alarmingly estimated.

* * * * *

Now, other things being equal, fire-suppression, as well as fire-prevention, is merely a matter of man power, of having a sufficient number of men to fight and put fires out. And, of course, the ability to hire a sufficient number of fire-fighters depends upon having sufficient money to do the hiring with. For instance: Last year, the U. S. Forest Service, spending $128,000, was able to prevent 1374 fires, on the 20,000,000 acres of National Forests in this state, from burning over more than 175,000 acres; while, on approximately the same area, outside the National Forests, the State Forestry department, with less than half the money ($22,000 from the United States under the Weeks law; a few thousand dollars from a few counties, and only $22,000 from the state treasury), was unable to prevent only 978 fires from burning over less than 608,000 acres—half the money, many fewer fires, four times the area burned over. And because it has always had money enough to fight its fires, the U. S. Forest Service has always been able to keep its fire-burned area far below that under the control of State Forestry department, which never has had money enough to conduct its affairs efficiently—having had, from the state treasury, last year, and having this year, from the same source, only about one-half what it had in the previous two years.

This year's very scanty rainfall fills every thoughtful mind with apprehension as to what is going to happen to our watersheds later in the season. Already, this year, we have had several watershed fires—a most unusual thing, the fire season in the mountains ordinarily beginning in July. But this year, in February, we had at least two very serious watershed fires south of the Tehachapis—one in San Bernardino county, the other in Santa Barbara—so serious that the governor publicly considered calling out state troops to put them out, and also considered appealing to the Federal Government for regular troops for the same purpose. A properly supported State Forestry department would be much more efficient and less expensive, as a fire-fighting force, than inexperienced soldiers of any kind.

* * * * *

Some people claim that the counties in which watersheds lie should protect them against fire, or that the private owners of watersheds should do it. Would Orange county be quite content to depend on the county in which the Santa Ana river rises, or on the private owners of watersheds, to fire-protec that river's watershed? Aren't all the people of California, no matter who or what they are or where they live, interested, directly or indirectly, but vitally and fundamentally, in the conservation of our watersheds? Are the counties in which our watersheds lie any more interested than, or even as much interested as, the cities of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, in the conservation of our watersheds? Are the owners of watersheds any more interested than the people of our cities, or of the watershedless counties, in the conservation of our watersheds, merely as watersheds? Isn't that conservation primarily, fundamentally and distinctly a function of the state? If not, why should the owners of unimproved city property be taxed to support municipal fire and police departments? If not, why should the people owning fire-proof buildings in cities be taxed, on the same value-basis, for the support of fire departments as are those people owning fire-hazardous buildings? If not, why should people living in city sections, or wards, or blocks where the fire-hazard is small (insurance rates showing the difference in fire-hazard) be taxed, for the support of fire departments, on an equal basis with improvements in sections, or wards, or blocks where the fire-hazard is great? Of course they are and should be so taxed, because their buildings and property may be destroyed by fire originating in the fire-hazardous sections of the city—and for other good reasons. Berkeley, where $10,000,000 worth of property was destroyed last September by a fire starting in another county, probably feels that somebody ought to have protected her from a fire starting outside her jurisdiction—and for that protection Berkeley would, no doubt, have been quite willing to pay into the state treasury her share of its cost. And finally, if some counties and some private parties are to be compelled to assume the burden of protecting from fire the watersheds, in the protection of which everybody is interested, where is, in reality, the saving to the taxpayer? Isn't the tax burden, small per individual when paid by all, merely shifted from the shoulders of the many, where it is light, to the shoulders of the few, where it becomes heavy?

* * * * *

The Federal government—the people of the United States—has been good, mighty good, to us Californians—so good that we have almost become mendicants, sitting at the door of Congress, hat in outstretched hand, asking always for more, not as Oliver Twist did, because we are famished, but, like the horseleech, because we are greedy. The generous people of the United States have set apart in the state twenty million acres of their enormously valuable forest-propetty, calling those acres National Forests. Those National Forests are essentially and fundamentally for the benefit of the people of California. They comprise the watersheds upon which the prosperity of the far greater part of the people of California directly or indirectly fundamentally depends. From those watersheds comes the irrigation water that makes of former desert places veritable "gardens of the Lord." From them comes the water that furnishes us the power that lights our streets and our homes and turns so much of our machinery. And, to conserve the natural cover on those watersheds (which cover conserves the water that is so essential to the prosperity of the people of California) the generous people of the United States spend many thousand dollars every year in preventing and suppressing, for the benefit of the people of California, the annual fires which, in these days of automobiles carrying always more fire-careless Californians to our mountains, would otherwise soon lay bare those watersheds and deprive our people of the water so essential to their needs.

But the people of the United States are more generous to California than that. Endeavoring to save us from ourselves, eager to induce us to help ourselves, they give us, under the Weeks law, over twenty thousand dollars per annum to be used by our State Forestry department in suppressing fires in this state outside the National Forests—and we are content to donate, out of the state treasury, to the cause of fighting burning fires on California's territory outside the National Forests, only an equal sum out of the enormous sums of money our people make because of the generosity of the people of the United States in giving us watersheds and conserving for us the water that falls upon those watersheds.

Revived Community Spirit

San Bernardino Sun

A revived spirit of community co-operation seems to be pervading the towns and cities of the United States. The purpose may differ from that of old, but the results are much the same.

Every community from the smallest rural settlement to the largest city appears bent upon outdoing others in this community co-operation. Every available excuse for concerted action is pounced upon and made the most of.

Before the war the old-fashioned town celebrations had almost disappeared. In most towns and cities they lived in memory only. People were regretting the passage of the Old Home Week, the splendors and excitement of the old-time Fourth of July celebration, the once popular Harvest festivals and others of the old fashioned vehicles for community fun-making.

Since the war there has been an unmistakable reversion to the old order of community activity. All over the nation towns and cities are planning town reunions, Old-Home weeks, holiday celebrations, community picnics, and many other community demonstrations. It can ever be said that the present is outdoing the past at the latter's own game.

Many explanations may be advanced for this resurrection of the community spirit. One, and perhaps the most accurate, is the use to which community co-operation was put during the war in support of national movements and the extent to which community co-operation was organized. Another is the growth of the community-advertising plan. Everywhere towns and cities are outdoing big business in all forms of advertising. It is commonly remarked that every town in the United States is engaged in the business of putting its name on the map. Many community activities are sponsored by merchants and business organizations to attract suburban trade. There is still a third cause for the return of the community spirit and that is a new desire on the part of the millions, who are seeking their fortunes away from home, to revisit the old-home-town with their fellow wanderers.

Here in California there is hardly a town or city which does not have its day or its week of exposition or celebration or carnival, made into an annual event, which combines most or all of these plans and purposes.

After Graduate School

Riverside Press

Los Angeles apparently is not satisfied with trying to take the farm school that by act of the legislature was located in Riverside, but is now proposing to annex the graduate school which is part of the Citrus Experiment Station. If we do not watch out, the next move will be to "lift" the citrus station and re-locate it on the campus of the Southern Branch. The fact that not an orange grove is now found within miles of that point makes no difference.

The announcement from the College of Agriculture of summer session courses in citriculture and subtropical horticulture, to be given at Riverside, June 28 to August 9, will strike people of the Southland as a commendable idea and may perhaps be considered as a significant move by the university toward remedying a situation which has long been a source of perplexity to the citrus and subtropical fruit interests of Southern California.

Some surprise has been expressed that these courses should be held at Riverside, in view of the fact that during the same period an extensive outline of summer session courses is to be offered at the Southern Branch of the University in Los Angeles. The enrollment in the specialty courses named would undoubtedly be larger if they were to be given at the "Branch." Be this as it may, however, the inauguration on the part of the College of Agriculture of instructional work to meet the needs of the important citrus and subtropical fruit interests of this part of the state will meet with favor and it is to be hoped that the summer courses in these lines in Southern California are but a forerunner of policy to concentrate all the subtropical horticultural and citrus work now given at Berkeley in this section. The fact, too, that Dr. H. J. Webber, former acting dean of the college and head of the division of subtropical horticulture, has recommended that this division be transferred to Southern California apparently gives some assurance that this hope may be realized.

It has always seemed an anomalous situation for the College of Agriculture to be offering instruction in citriculture and sub-tropical horticulture at Berkeley, five hundred miles away from the center of these two important industries, and the arrangement has appeared to be a particularly unfortunate one in recent years since the university has had a branch in Southern California. The Citrus Experiment Station at Riverside has hardly been suited to regular instruction to students, being solely an institution given over to research work. The establishment of the Southern Branch of the University of California in Los Angeles, in fact, provided a real opportunity for transferring the division of subtropical horticulture from Berkeley to Southern California.

In the opinion of many leaders in the citrus and subtropical fruit industries, as well as of educators, the time has arrived when the division having to do with instruction in such lines should be transferred bodily to the Southern Branch, which would seem to be in a position to render the service that importance of these industries would warrant. It is to be hoped, in fact, that the initiation of summer session work in subtropical horticulture at Riverside will soon be followed by the actual transfer of the division of sub-tropical horticulture to Los Angeles. The opportunities for the expansion and development of this division at the Southern Branch would appear to be unlimited. With a congenial environment such as would be provided there, and with sufficient support, it would seem that there might be developed in Los Angeles a school of subtropical agriculture that could be made to attract students not only from all parts of the United States, but from other parts of the world as well.

It seems very pertinent to ask why Riverside is not the proper place for a summer session work in citriculture and subtropical horticulture. The experiment station where the sessions are to be held in 1924 and 1925 is located in the heart of the greatest citrus district of the state and within easy reach of the only commercial date orchards in the country, in the Coachella Valley. On the station property, moreover, is the greatest collection of citrus trees in the world, hundreds of varieties. In addition to the citrus groves and experimental plats there are also experimental planting of walnuts and other varieties of subtropical fruit. Why should students not have the advantages of these facilities which are not equalled anywhere else in the world?

It is also fitting to call attention to the fact that the act of the legislature creating the Citrus Experiment station provided that it should also be a graduate school of subtropical agriculture. The station facilities and the station staff provided opportunities for such a school that are unparalleled; and a number of students have taken work here in preparation for the doctor's degree. The modest beginning that has been made in the development of a graduate school may well be the foundation for important developments; and those developments will naturally come, unless the greed of Los Angeles prevents. That city seems to want to grab everything in sight in the way of state or federal activities. The law, the logic of facts, the principle of fairness—none of these things count. It seems quite evident that Riverside will have to gird up its loins and prepare for a fight to prevent the emasculation of the Citrus station.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

NO. 17—HAY FEVER AND SNUFF

Mistah 'Possum looked in his snuff box, and what do you think?

There wasn't one single pinch of snuff left. Not one.

Mistah 'Possum was a southern gentleman and was just traveling around to see the world a bit. As he said, all the birds came north in the spring, so why shouldn't he.

He had taken up his quarters in the button-ball tree and kept bachelor hall.

"Please, suh, can you tell me where I may find a stoah?" he called to Daddy Cracknuts over in the maple tree, just as Daddy was going to buy a morning paper.

"Sure!" called Daddy. "I'm just going there now. Come right along and I'll show you, neighbor."

So Mistah 'Possum swung himself down.

Daddy was curious about his neighbor, but he was too polite to ask questions. However, Mistah 'Possum, like most southern people, was quite talkative and friendly, and soon Daddy knew all about him.

"Some time you must come south," said the 'possum gentleman. "And I shall show you all sorts of things. The persimmon trees ah wonderful. And the oleandahs and magnolias smell mahvellous."

"How about nuts?" asked Daddy, who didn't care so much about nice smells as about nice eats.

"Shuahly! Shuahly!" said Mistah 'Possum. "Peanuts and pecans! And buttah nuts, too! You'd nevah stahve!"

"All right sir. I'd like to go south some day on a vacation," said Daddy. "Ma and I may go next year. That is if she doesn't get hay fever."

"Hay fever! What's that?" asked Mistah 'Possum curiously.

"It's something that makes you sneeze all the time," answered Daddy.

"Oh, I see! Something like snuff," said Mistah 'Possum.

"Like what?"

"Like snuff. That's what I wish to buy at the stoah. I find that my snuff-box is empty."

"Well, I declare!" said Daddy to himself—not out loud. Paying money for something to make you sneeze when it's as easy as rolling off a log to catch a cold for nothing!"

At that minute they reached Mister Bags' store and went in.

Mistah 'Possum bowed elegantly and said he was charmed.

And then he said he would like to buy a quarter's worth of snuff.

"I'm sorry, but we're out just now," said Mister Bags. The fact was that he was always out, for nobody around there used snuff at all. But he wasn't going to say so.

"Well, well! I'm sorry," said Mistah 'Possum. "But I—achoo—achoo! Why, that's strange! I never sneezed before without taking a pinch of snuff."

"Perhaps it's hay fever," suggested Mister Bags.

"Oh, do you suppose so!" exclaimed Mistah 'Possum. "Isn't that nice! It's fah cheaper than buying snuff and just as pleasant, isn't it. Achoo! Achoo! I think I'll stay north for a while, suhs. It will save me money."
